THE SOLAR

Solars are known as the most powerful celestials that exist and that title is nothing short of an understatement. Solars are the most powerful force of good that exists in the multiverse and only the greatest evil has dared to approach these bastions of light. Nevertheless even the most powerful fiends fear the might of the godlike solar and only demon lords and archdevils would be audacious enough to meet them in battle without the assistance of any trickery. Because even with trickery, solars cannot be easily fooled, for their eyes can see through lies and their ears can discern the truth.

BIRTH AND EXISTENCE

Angels are formed from the astral essence of benevolent gods and are thus divine beings of great power and wisdom. There are only twenty-four solars in existence as it should be impossible for deities to create them with their essence given the solar’s godlike power and immeasurable strength.

It is rumored that the lesser angels were created by the gods in the image of the solars but could not fully replicate the power and might of the solars.

It is unknown where solars draw their power from but it is rumored that the solars were created alongside the creation of the positive planes and they draw their power there and because of this it is nigh impossible for a solar to become evil because of their connection to the higher realms.

If this rumor is true then it means that solars are older than the gods itself but no solid evidence has presented itself to back this up as none of the gods dare to confront Xephalam, the first solar. Either way solars exist to do good and vanquish evils that threaten to upset the balance of the multiverse.

PLEDGE OF THE SOLAR

When the solars were created they were free beings that served no one and had the ability to choose whoever they would pledge their immense power to. Unlike other powerful beings, solars are very choosy in picking their masters. It is not unheard of for a solar to pledge its power to a benevolent human king and once there was rumor that a solar pledged its loyalty to a young child believing that the innocence of a child would be worth more than the wisdom of an elder. This does not mean that solars are naive, this just means that the thinking process of solars are too different compared to mortals and it is stupidity to believe that solars are not wise.

SOLAR NAMES

Solars are born without names but instead take the name given to them by their master. The only solar that is exempt from this rule, is Xephalam, the first and eldest solar. They keep the name as long as their master stays benevolent and aligned to the solar’s wishes. Once a solar finds their master no longer worthy of their power they cast off their names and find another master or lie in wait for when they are needed to use their power once more. Despite this rule, the solars keep a title that they associate themselves with so once they leave their old master they can still identify themselves to others. Rarely, there are some solars that keep the names they received from previous masters. They only do this if their previous master was someone they believe is worthy to honor by keeping the names given to them.

THE 24 SOLARS

There are 24 solars that exist in the multiverse. Unlike their weaker angelic cousins, solars have free will and are not bound by any beings except themselves, unless they pledge themselves. Out of the 24 eight known solars have pledged themselves to benevolent beings while the other 16 lie in wait or have not yet found a being worthy to pledge their power to.

A SOLAR’S POWERS

Every solar is born with innately powerful abilities but that does not mean they stop learning. Solars continue to learn and improve, gaining new abilities and new skills as time passes. They do not wish to stagnate because evil continues to learn of more crude ways to spread. Some solars, instead of learning new abilities, hone their already natural abilities and create new ones from pre-existing ones. Some of them try to find new ways to strengthen their power for the evil that they will soon face. But even with all their powers and abilities Solars have their preferred way of doing combat. When a solar is newly born or newly reincarnated, they already have a plethora of powerful abilities that will aid them and others in their growth.

Divine Awareness

The solar sees through all lies and deceit.

Healing Touch

The body of the solar is filled with a near infinite amount of divine energy that allows them to empower and heal anybody they touch.

Magic Resistance

The body of the solar is purely divine in nature and allows them to resist magical effects easily. It gives them advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight

The solar’s natural sight is supernaturally powerful.

Teleport

A solar can easily bend space to their will and teleport in and out of the battlefield.

Divine Nature

The divine nature of the solar allows them to manifest multiple abilities stemming from their own bodies. They are also immune to necrotic and poison damage and cannot be charmed, exhausted, frightened, or poisoned. They also have natural resistance to radiant and bludgeoning piercing and slashing damage from nonmagical weapons.

DM Notes

The powers above are the basic abilities of a solar in the official MM. They are meant to be a permanent addition to any solar character I plan to introduce in this compendium. It is also a guideline for their basic abilities, should you plan to create your own personal Solar.

FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Every solar has a field in where they are at the absolute peak of their powers. The field can be equated to a powerful dragon or a demon lord’s lair. The solars can only activate their field when certain requirements are met but in some cases they do not have requirements. If a solar dies or is banished, these effects fade over the course of 100 years.

FATE AND DESTINY

While it is undeniable that all beings are intertwined by fate and it is mostly unchangeable, the solars are exempt from fate. Born into existence without even one thing in mind, the solars existed fateless but knew what they were created for.

It is not uncommon for apocalypses that were meticulously planned by the gods or similar beings to be suddenly stopped by a nearby solar or a solar whose jurisdiction is being challenged.

Usually for a prophecy that would confer planetary destruction, the masterminds need to negotiate with the solars.

And if any single one of the solars is unconvinced they have every right to join in and ruin the created prophecy.
True Divinity

While one could argue that deities are the most divine beings and none could surpass them in those terms, this is untrue. Ironically while deities claim to be divine, a large majority of them were born in the astral sea. The most pure form of divinity that has blessed the multiverse is no one else but the solars. Born from the heavenly realms will the solars spread their divine goal towards the whole multiverse. Purging great evil where they might be, saving those in need and stopping world ending plots.

It is said that the blood of solam is golden and that it is the liquid manifestation of the energies of the positive realms. While near impossible to harm, powerful creatures that dared to fight the solars have wounded them. Their blood is said to contain strong healing properties and sometimes used for powerful rituals. There have been cases where some solars have willingly given their blood to mortals as a reward. So there is at least some form of credence to it.

The blood of solars is capable of healing all wounds, resurrecting the dead, banishing fiends, destroying undead, and even extend one's lifetime for 100 years.

Source of Power

While it might seem that solars have their own power sources, which is true, all solars draw more power from the positive realms when they need it. This is what makes the solars so powerful. They have a near infinite power source which allows them to fight continuously. While all solars are already powerful they can become more powerful by fusing with the power the heavens already provide for them.

Epic Solars

To those who think that my solars are weak. You can use this as lore for how the solars became stronger. You can use the epic versions of my solars created by Dave2008 or me. If time permits, they will be posted later in the compendium.

Exalted Mortals

Mortals have always piqued the interest of deities, demons, devils and angels alike but never to the point of being too invested. Sometimes a deity would find a worthy cleric, a fiend would find a worthy warlock and an angel would find a worthy paladin and just like them sometimes a solar finds a worthy mortal to bless with their power.

The gift of a solar is said to be comparable to the gift of deities since it is true, all solars draw more power from the positive realms when they need it. This is what makes the solars so powerful. They have a near infinite power source which allows them to fight continuously. While all solars are already powerful they can become more powerful by fusing with the power the heavens already provide for them.

Despite all their power and the eternity given to them, the solars are not the most powerful being in the multiverse. They are mere mortals with a divine gift. The most powerful being in the multiverse are the ascended demons. They are powerful beyond measure and cannot be killed or destroyed. They are the true masters of the multiverse.

Ascended Demons

Ascended demon are demons changed because of the actions of the solars. They are inherently good and once a demon has been changed the effects are permanent. The only way they can retain their original form is when they fall, as do fallen angels do. Despite being turned into good creatures Ascended do not serves deities. They serve the solar as the solar's personal army when the need for them arises.

The Ascended demon statblocks will be added at a later page along with the additional statblocks from the background of the solars.

Death and Resurrection

When demons and devils die they return to the Abyss and Nine Hells, respectively. But where do angels go? The answer has always been vague and no clear answer has presented itself. The divine energy of angels was said to return to their god so that they may recreate their recently destroyed sibling. Despite all their power and the eternity given to them, the solars are not the most powerful being in the multiverse. They are mere mortals with a divine gift. The most powerful being in the multiverse are the ascended demons. They are powerful beyond measure and cannot be killed or destroyed. They are the true masters of the multiverse.

Class Archetypes

Class Archetypes will later be introduced in the Solar Compendium.
Infinity Magic

There are five tiers of magic, each level stronger marginally stronger than the magic below them. The strongest form of magic in existence is infinity magic. In its simplest of forms, infinity magic is simply making a concept infinite, thus giving you full control and power over said concept. The first creator and progenitor of infinity magic is Xephalam, the first solar.

With nigh omnipotent power and godlike wisdom, Xephalam created the first two infinity magic, which is divinity and creation. The next beings who created the new forms of infinity magic is Magnus and Xephalam's forgotten student. They respectively created the infinity magic, Knowledge and Oblivion. This four forms of infinity magic stayed the same until Xephalam created another form, which is eternity.

Mechanics of Infinity Magic. Infinity magic gives the creator a handful of extremely powerful bonuses, that border nigh omnipotence, making the creator above even the gods.

True Magic

The second strongest magic in existence is True Magic. In its simplest form, True Magic is the full understanding of a specific concept and thus allows you powerful control over that type of magic. True Magic is split into three subparts. The first is Body Concept which allows you to fuse the concept to your body. The second is Reality Concept which allows you to will reality according to your concept. The third is Will Concept which allows you to affect others with your concept in ways that is not classified as offensive.

When calculating the DC’s needed for True Magic abilities, the formula is:

\[ 10 + \text{Proficiency Bonus} + \text{Concept’s Modifier} \]

Concept Modifier is specific to the concept mastered.

Body Concept.

Body Concept is the act of fusing the understanding of a concept to the body, this is one of the main powers of true magic. Due to this fusing, body concept is purely defensive in nature.

Reality Concept.

Reality Concept is the act of willing reality to follow your concept’s rules. Due to its powerful nature, reality concept is purely offensive in nature.

Will Concept.

Will Concept is the act of willing your concept to other beings in a non-offensive way. Due to its nature, will concept is purely utility in nature.

Mastering True Magic

Player Characters can eventually learn and master their own true magic which will be detailed into the later parts of the compendium.
Ragani "The Wings of Absolute Flame"

"As fire tempers steel, hardships temper the soul - Ragani."

There was once a legend of a city called Eden. Eden was a beautiful and prosperous city that thrived healthily. Travellers from all over the world would go to this city and sigh in awe, realizing that no city would ever rival this one, whether it be in the past or in the future. But something as rich and beautiful as this city would be coveted by greedy and malicious beings. It quickly garnered the attention of thousands of powerful beings, even Ragani.

War found Eden quickly, kingdoms, cults, clans, tribes, and even planar beings went to make Eden their own. A war erupted, so widespread that it threatened to wipe all of life extinct. But even a war of this scale would not force the hand of a solar.

Ragani kept watch, overseeing it and after weeks of continuous war, the solar almost left, labeling it as a triffing matter, until he found the reason of the city’s prosperity.

Below the city, slept a legendary beast capable of planetary destruction. The city leeked off its limitless energy to supply everything from magic items to simple everyday life. The energy siphoned was enough to keep the beast sleeping indefinitely, but the war threatened to disturb its slumber. It was only then that Ragani decided to intervene.

Legends are told of an awe-inspiring and deadly form burning with fire, slowly descending from the heavens and obliterating the city of Eden.

No records of what happened next appeared, but if one were to travel to Eden, they would only find a wasteland of burnt land, incapable of supporting life.

Ragani is a solar that treated the plane of elemental fire as his home and has long since integrated its power into his own. His appearance has been affected by his time in the plane of elemental fire as well. His eyes burn with the combined intensity of radiance and fire eternally mixing with each other. His original wings have long since burned from the plane’s element and have been replaced with a pair of wings made of divine flame. His crimson skin, burning eyes, and wings made of divine flame inspire fear in both his enemies and allies. His appearance has been affected by his time in the plane of elemental fire forever mixing with each other. His original wings have long since burned from the plane’s element and have been replaced with a pair of wings made of divine flame. His crimson skin, burning eyes, and wings made of divine flame inspire fear in both his enemies and allies. His appearance has been affected by his time in the plane of elemental fire.

Ragani’s motivations are simple: to burn all evil until the universe becomes peaceful. As righteous and as pure his mission is, Ragani appears as anything but those. His crimson skin, burning eyes, and wings made of divine flame inspire fear in both his enemies and allies. Ragani charges into battle with his Burnt Greatsword cutting armies upon armies of his enemies, while his wings burn anyone who dares to attack him.

Ragani will only act if a great threat or evil threatens to destroy the peace he wishfully wants.

Ragani’s Field of Judgement

Ragani’s field of judgement is any location inhabited by an extremely powerful evil capable of upturning the balance of a plane. He must first deem an opponent evil and powerful enough to warrant activating his field. Once he activates his field, a 1000 mile radius would be consumed by his divine fire, leaving it as a burnt wasteland incapable of supporting life for 100 years. Ragani’s CR increases to 28 (120,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field Ragani gains the following bonuses:

- The damage from Ragani’s Burnt Angelic Weapons increases from 3d8 fire plus 3d8 radiant damage to 4d8(18) fire plus 4d8(18) radiant damage.
- Ragani’s AC increases to 21.
- Ragani’s attacks, abilities and spells that deal fire damage ignore fire resistance and treat immunity as resistance.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing ties) Ragani can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can’t use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- The burning winds of the field start to condense on a place Ragani can see within 150 feet of him, creating a 10 foot radius of burning wind. Each creature in that area of the condensed burning wind must succeed on a DC 22 Constitution saving throw, taking 17 (5d6) fire damage and gain one level of exhaustion on a failed save, or half as much damage and do not gain one level of exhaustion on a successful one.
- Ragani absorbs the flames in the field, healing him for 4 (1d8) hit points for every fire based spell cast since the last time this lair action was used. He heals an additional 4 (1d8) hit points for every time he dealt fire damage to a creature since the last time this lair action was used. Area of effect abilities and spells heal him for every creature hit.
- When Ragani’s hit points reach 300 or below, he can choose to stab his Greatsword into the ground, losing the ability to attack with it and the ability to teleport. He then gathers his divine and elemental power into his one hand and releases a powerful and devastating blast of energy around him in a 1000 feet radius. All creatures within the range must succeed on a DC 22 Dexterity saving throw, taking 110 (20d10) radiant damage and 110 (20d10) fire damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. This attack ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance. If Ragani is successful in using this ability, he regains all his hit points. If Ragani takes 250 damage in one round, his concentration is destroyed, making the gathered energy dissipate. After Ragani uses this ability, he can no longer use any of his lair actions, but will retain the bonuses from his field of judgement.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Ragani is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- All plant life in the field die and cannot be resurrected by magical means.
- Water sources dry up and cannot be refilled unless by magical means.
- Healing from any source is maximized for fire based creatures while they are resting.

Challenge 26 (90,000 XP)

Burning Aura. At the start of Ragani’s turn each creature within 5 feet of him takes 10 (3d6) fire damage.

Burnt Angelic Weapons. Ragani’s weapon attacks are magical. When Ragani uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 3d8 radiant and 3d8 fire damage (included in the attack).

Divine Awareness. Ragani knows if he hears a lie.

Fire Shift. As part of his movement, Ragani can enter any source of fire that he can reach and exits out of any other source of fire within 300 feet of the fire he entered.

Innate Spellcasting. Ragani’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 26). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), invisibility (self only)
3/day each: fire storm (10d10 fire damage), flame strike (7d6 fire and radiant damage), mass cure wounds (5th level), plane shift, searing smite (6th level), 2d6 fire damage per turn
1/day each: meteor swarm

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Ragani fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Ragani has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Ragani gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Wings of Flame. A creature that touches Ragani or hits him with a melee attack while within 5 feet of him takes 10 (3d6) fire damage.

Actions

Multitarget. Ragani makes two attacks with his Burnt Greatsword.

Burnt Greatsword. Melee Weapon Attack: +15 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 22 (4d6 + 8) slashing damage plus 13 (3d8) radiant damage and 13 (3d8) fire damage.

Burnt Slaying Greatbow. Ranged Weapon Attack: +15 to hit, range 150/600 ft., one target. Hit: 16 (2d8 + 7) piercing damage plus 13 (3d8) radiant damage and 13 (3d8) fire damage. If the target is a creature that has 100 hit points or fewer, it must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or die.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Ragani touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Bonus Actions

Explosion Grip. Ragani wields the power to restrain a target with his flames. He can use a bonus action to make a melee attack against a Huge or smaller creature within his reach. If Ragani succeeds he engulfs the creature in flames, grappling (escape DC 23) and restraining them until the grapple ends. Ragani can only grapple one creature at a time. During his turn, Ragani can move them around within his reach and at the start of every turn he can either release the creature or release a powerful burst of energy from that grip dealing 35 (10d6) fire damage to them. Ragani can still move and attack freely despite grappling another creature.

Flying Burnt Greatsword. Ragani releases his Burnt Greatsword to magically hover in an unoccupied space within 15 feet of him. If he can see the burnt greatsword, Ragani can mentally command it as a bonus action to fly up to 50 feet and either make one attack against a target or return to his hands. If the hovering burnt greatsword is targeted by any effect, Ragani is considered to be holding it. The burnt greatsword disappears back into the Elemental Plane of Fire if Ragani dies.

Legendary Actions

Ragani can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Ragani regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Ragani magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Explosion Grip (Costs 2 Actions). Ragani releases a powerful burst against a creature restrained by his Explosion Grip dealing 35 (10d6) fire damage to them.

Flame Burst (Costs 2 Actions). Ragani emits magical fire energy. Each creature of his choice in a 10-foot radius within 60 feet of him must succeed a DC 26 Dexterity saving throw, taking 10 (3d6) fire damage plus 10 (3d6) radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Burnt Slaying Greatbow Barrage (Costs 4 Actions). Ragani targets up to five creatures that he can see within 600 feet of him. Each target must succeed on a DC 20 Dexterity saving throw or be hit by Ragani’s Burnt Slaying Greatbow.

Burning Blast (Costs 4 Actions). Ragani releases a powerful burst of fire in a 200 foot cone in front of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 26 Dexterity or take 38 (11d6) fire damage on a failed save or half the damage on a successful save.
ARRID "THE GOLDEN HEART"

"ACTS OF GOODNESS ARE NOT ALWAYS WISE, AND ACTS OF EVIL ARE NOT ALWAYS FOOLISH, BUT REGARDLESS, WE SHALL ALWAYS STRIVE TO BE GOOD - ARRID"

Angels tend not to socialize with mortals, especially if it interferes with their missions and solars are even more extreme. But not all the solars are solitary guardians, there are some of them that actively seek to socialize with people. He walked in the heat with a small farmer's hat, covering his hair. He started to plow the fertile ground, with a hoe, while planting seeds. Once the job was done, the old farmer thanked him and offered him payment, but the young man refused and simply said: "Use it when someone else is in need". Not knowing what he meant and given the chance to keep his money, the farmer simply nodded. The young man simply smiled and walked through the village to look for another person to help.

Within minutes, the young man saw an old lady massaging her ankles, and large baskets full of fruits were strewn across the floor. Immediately he offered his help and before the woman could deny his offer, the man smiled easily disarmed her caution. He did this everyday, he visited villages everyday, offering his help. Every morning he woke up from his humble cottage, then travelled towards villages, offering help for no reward. Because of his kindness, people would constantly give him food, clothing and even money but most of the time, he rejected anything of monetary value claiming that he had no need for money.

At night, the kind young man went to his small home. Unbeknownst to everyone, his home was simply a ruin. He travelled to a cave near his home that was covered by an illusionary wall that only he could see.

Behind the wall was a beautiful room with luxurious furniture that only the wealthiest of the wealthy could afford. Sitting in a beautiful chair was a woman so beautiful it would have been a sin to not be entranced by her. But even with the woman's extremely alluring charms the man did not react and he kept a smile. "Arrid is it time for your stories once more?" Despite the woman's sarcasm Arrid noticed a small amount of excitement. "Yes Phryix." Phryix rolled her eyes and brought a chair to the threshold of the room. Arrid sat down just outside the room and a chair appeared to catch him. Arrid started to recount his mundane adventures that day and despite Phryix's attitude she listened intently.

It was not this easy the first time. At first Phryix would always scream obscenities towards him but after the first few days she eventually calmed down but refused to listen and would always try to find a way to trick him or destroy the magic holding her prisoner. Even that became old until Arrid and Phryix were on talking terms. It has been a long time now but Arrid remembered every day they've been together.

"You know it'll never work." Phryix interrupted Arrid's story but he smiled and continued, safe in the knowledge that he and his kind have never erred before.

Time passed with this routine continuing over and over until one day...

"Arrid I want to go out" Arrid smiled and calmly stood up and stared at the woman in front of him. Arrid waved his hand and a wall made out of 9 colors suddenly disappeared. Phryix slowly moved her hand through where the wall used to be. Her hands shake intensely and she charges Arrid. Her hands shook intensely and she charged at Arrid. Arrid did nothing and accepted her attack. Phryix hugged him tightly with slight tears staining her cheeks. "I can't believe it Arrid, You did it." Arrid smiled one last time and stared into Phryix's eyes "It wasn't me. It was all you demon lord Phryix." Arrid strives to see and look for the kindness in every being's heart even the most heartless ones. He usually disguises himself when in the presence of mortals. Arrid refused to find and pledge himself to a friend but that is unlikely the case since solars would never allow others to fight for them. It is both an insult to them and to their kind.

ARRID'S FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Arrid's field of judgement is any location inhabited by a being who changed for the better but decided to revert to their evil ways. Another way for him to activate his field if thousands of innocent have perished in an area. If Arrid deems a being worthy of using his field and his requirements are met, he can use it. Once Arrid uses his field, a 1000 mile radius would be filled by his divine energy influencing the people that live there for 100 years. Arrid's CR increases to 30 (155,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field Arrid gains the following bonuses:

- Evil creatures or creatures, that Arrid chooses, have their speed reduced by half and they cannot increase it by any magical means, unless they leave the field.
- Arrid can use his Healing Touch an unlimited amount of times.
- Arrid's healing word spell also acts as a raise dead.
- Arrid gains resistance to all types of damage.
- When Arrid casts the spell prismatic wall, each wall will have 2 copies instead of one.

LAIR ACTIONS

On initiative count 20(Opsing ten) Arrid can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Arrid weeps for the innocents he could not save and gathers his anger to obliterate the perpetrator. If one of Arrid's companions was killed or damaged by another creature in the last round, he can conjure a 150-foot cone of pure divine energy from his hands. Every creature in that area must succeed on a DC 23 Dexterity saving throw, taking 66 (12d10) radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.
- Arrid calms himself along with every creature in a 100-foot radius around him, extinguishing every creature's violent impulses. Every creature in the area must make a DC 25 Wisdom saving throw. If a creature succeeds nothing happens, but if a creature fails that creature cannot attack or cast spells that deal damage or force someone to make a saving throw for 1 minute. This effect ends when they are damaged. Creatures, that are immune to being charmed, are not affected. In addition, creatures can repeat their saving throw at the start of their turn to end the effect on themselves.
- Arrid can cast a 9th level healing word spell on 3 creatures of his choice within 100 feet of him that he can see.

REGIONAL EFFECTS

The region containing the field of judgement by Arrid is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- All plant life in the field gets rejuvenated and will grow indefinitely until the field disappears.
- Water sources are capable of healing but its effects only work when inside the field. The water is treated as a common healing potion when drunk.
- Every good creature becomes kindhearted and caring while neutral creatures become influenced to do good while evil creatures become inhibited, thus becoming neutral in nature.

He honed that ability to the point of mastery and the ability evolved. His healing abilities when in his field can now revive the dead. But it does not mean he is weak in the field of combat, even the weakest of solars are unstoppable fighters. But unlike his other siblings Arrid prefers the use of giant shields capable of smashing enemies to a pulp when he needs to but it's mostly to protect others from harm.

Surprisingly Arrid's charismatic and patient character has earned the respect and favor of many powerful allies. Allies that some of his fellow solars would be hard pressed to defeat. This technically makes Arrid one of the more dangerous solars should he ask for the help of his friends but that is unlikely the case since solars would never allow others to fight for them. It is both an insult to them and to their kind.

Angelic Weapons. Arrid’s weapon attacks are magical. When Arrid uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 6d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).

Anger of a Gentle Soul. If Arrid sees an ally reduced to 0 hit points, he can use his reaction to grant himself a +20 bonus to his melee damage against the aggressor until the end of his next turn.

Divine Awareness. Arrid knows if he hears a lie.

Golden Wings. Arrid regenerates 30 hit points at the start of his turns.

Innate Spellcasting. Arrid’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 26). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
At will: detect evil and good, dispel (5th level), counterspell (5th level), healing word (5th level), shield
1/day each: mass cure wounds (9th level), holy aura, plane shift, resurrection wall of force
1/day each: true resurrection, prismatic wall, power word heal (he cannot use it on himself)

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Arrid fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Arrid has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Arrid gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Actions

Multiattack. Arrid makes two attacks with his Golden Tower Shield.

Golden Tower Shield. Melee Weapon Attack: +15 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 29 (4d10 + 7) bludgeoning damage plus 27 (6d8) radiant damage.

Shockwave. Arrid slams the ground with his powerful strength, using his shield, in a 30 feet radius around him. Every creature in the area must succeed on a DC 23 Dexterity saving throw, taking 40 (6d10+7) bludgeoning damage and be knocked prone and stunned until the end of Arrid’s next turn on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be knocked prone and stunned on a successful one.

Merciful Execution (Recharge 5-6). Arrid attempts to execute a creature with his divine energy within his melee range. If the creature he chooses has 150 hit points or fewer, it dies. If Arrid does not want to kill the creature but instead knock it unconscious they take 55 (10d10) radiant damage.

Healing Touch (5/Day). Arrid touches another creature. The target magically regains 100 (20d8+10) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Gentle Wrath (1/Day). Arrid throws an extremely powerful punch towards a creature within 5 feet of him. The creature must succeed on a DC 23 Dexterity saving throw, taking 62 (10d10 + 7) bludgeoning damage plus 54 (12d8) radiant damage on a failed save or no damage on a successful one. If the creature fails their saving throw, they are vulnerable to all of Arrid’s attacks for 24 hours.

Legendary Actions

Arrid can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Arrid regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Arrid magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Honed Searing Burst (Costs 2 Actions). Arrid emits his magical, and honed divine energy. Each creature of his choice in a 60-foot radius around him must succeed on a DC 26 Dexterity saving throw, taking 28 (8d6) radiant damage and be blinded on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be blinded on a successful one.

Divine Shockwave (Costs 4 Actions). Arrid charges his shield with divine energy and does a shockwave attack dealing an extra 18 (4d8) radiant damage.
GAESHEMA "THE GOD FIST"

"A TRUE MASTER IS AN ETERNAL STUDENT - GAESHMA"

It is not everyday that you see someone punching a balor’s head off, especially not an angel. The weapons of solars are said to be so powerful that the gods would be hard-pressed to imitate them without expending a lot of power. Ragani's Burnt Greatsword, and Arrid’s Golden Tower Shield are prime examples but there is one solar that refuses to use weapons, believing that the body is the ultimate weapon and should be honed constantly.

Gaeshema was said to love combat and loved fighting powerful beings regardless of their nature. Other solars would avoid Gaeshema, not because they’re afraid of him but because the other solars think of the collateral damage they would cause, unlike Gaeshema who believes that defeating the opponent is important no matter the cost. Despite being chaotic Gaeshema has a good nature but believes that sometimes casualties are unavoidable.

Gaeshema, like most of the solars, has integrated new powers into his repertoire of skills, but unlike most solars Gaeshema has barely practiced his usage of divine energy. This lead to the weakening of some of his natural abilities. But in exchange for this Gaeshema is one of the most powerful close combat fighters in the ranks of the solars.

Unfortunately this has lead to some accidents, while solars are solitary fighters their enemies are not. There are some times where Gaeshema had been put into a tight spot.

But every time Gaeshema escaped one, he would strive to improve and improve, making sure not to get caught the next time. Eventually the years of constant improving put the legendary solar in a dilemma. He could not improve anymore. He was stuck at a point where he could no longer learn anything else. His body skills have reached the physical perfection any fighter would wish for.

Distraught, Gaeshema travelled the multiverse fighting powerful beings, while saving people, in hope of a breakthrough. Years passed by and Gaeshema was beginning to lose hope in learning more until one day a group of people came to meet him. A solar’s memory is only beaten by an Abolith and Illithid’s memory so Gaeshema immediately recognized them. The group was a combination of people he saved from different places all over the multiverse. How they found him or even reached him is a mystery but every time Gaeshema escaped one, he would strive to improve and improve, making sure not to get caught the next time. Eventually the years of constant improving put the legendary solar in a dilemma. He could not improve anymore. He was stuck at a point where he could no longer learn anything else. His body skills have reached the physical perfection any fighter would wish for.

Distraught, Gaeshema travelled the multiverse fighting powerful beings, while saving people, in hope of a breakthrough. Years passed by and Gaeshema was beginning to lose hope in learning more until one day a group of people came to meet him. A solar’s memory is only beaten by an Abolith and Illithid’s memory so Gaeshema immediately recognized them. The group was a combination of people he saved from different places all over the multiverse. How they found him or even reached him is a mystery but Gaeshema was temporarily distracted from his plight and decided to see what would happen.

The group of people wanted to express their thanks to their savior and convey their complete awe and reverence before Gaeshema’s martial prowess. Gaeshema of course received the praise humbly but he wanted to continue his journey to find something that can help him improve.

But before Gaeshema could leave the leader of the group screamed for his attention. Gaeshema stopped and turned around to see what the person wanted.

As if in complete synchronization the whole group bowed and asked Gaeshema to teach and guide them.

Surprised Gaeshema was about to reject them but an epiphany struck him.

If he were to teach them, it might help him improve. Gaeshema agreed. It was at this day the monastic tradition of the Divine Fist was developed. Throughout the years Gaeshema almost forgot his reason for teaching. He instilled into his students the basic tenants of the Divine Fist:

- To protect the innocent
- To vanquish evil wherever it might be
- To improve oneself and to never stop improving

Gaeshema found himself at peace. One day remembering the past Gaeshema started to practice again to see if his skills stagnated or weakened. But to his surprise Gaeshema started to see differences in his moves and his students. In his years of constant teaching he saw thousands of variations of his skills and moves. After reviewing them and studying them Gaeshema started to train once more. Slowly but surely Gaeshema saw improvement. He started to train more intensely rivaling his first days of training.

Despite being a Solar Gaeshema’s ultimate goal is to be the strongest he can possibly be and fighting for good is only a path towards that goal. He adamantly refuses the invitation of any god believing that once he is forced under a god he will have more restrictions and less time to improve himself. His divine powers have weakened considerably but he can still use them. But if it comes to personal combat only the strongest solars and bravest fiends can come close to defeating Gaeshema. He does not use the legendary weapons that all solars have with them. Instead Gaeshema uses his God Fists, a pair of legendary gloves forged by his fights with powerful beings all over the multiverse.

Gaeshema is the leader of the Divine Fist temple, a collection of powerful monks that fight with their bodies while being boosted by divine energy gifted to them by Gaeshema.

Gaeshema appears to look very humble and simple when travelling around the multiverse. He only enters his true form when a worthy and powerful opponent shows itself. He wears an unbreakable robe suited for battle while his wings are transformed into armguards that hook themselves to his arms from his back.

GAESHEMA’S FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Unlike other solar’s that have strict requirements or have large repercussion when using their field, Gaeshema’s requirements are very simple. Because of his lack of control over his divine power, his field is very unstable compared to the other solars. The first requirement is that he must be fighting a powerful and evil opponent. The second requirement is that this being is capable of defeating him. If Gaeshema has fulfilled the requirements and activates his field, a 1000 mile radius area would be filled by his raw divine energy along with his ki. The field will stay for 100 years before it dissipates. Gaeshema’s CR increases to 30 (155,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field Gaeshema gains the following bonuses:

- Gaeshema’s speed cannot be reduced.
- When moving out of an enemy’s range Gaeshema never provokes an opportunity attack.
- Instead of reacting once per round, Gaeshema can react 5 times.

LAIR ACTIONS

On initiative count 20 (losing ties), Gaeshema can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can’t use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Gaeshema throws a powerful punch towards a creature in front of him. The creature must succeed on a DC 23 Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the damage the Gaeshema’s God Fist Gauntlets. On a successful save, it instead takes the normal damage.
- Gaeshema controls the air flow of the field, giving him a +5 to AC against ranged attacks until he uses another lair action.
- Gaeshema releases a powerful burst of divine energy in a 120-foot radius around him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 23 Dexterity saving throw, taking 35 (7d10) radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

REGIONAL EFFECTS

The region containing the field of judgement by Gaeshema is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Afterimages and visions of Gaeshema’s previous fights frequently appear here.
- While in the field everyone will feel more energetic and lively.
- Meditation here gives people a chance to be enlightened on fighting. For the next 24 hours, when they roll a 1 or 2 on the d20 for an attack roll, ability check, or saving throw, they can reroll the die and must use the new roll.
- Portals connected to the Divine Fist temple sometimes appear.

Angelic Weapons. Gaeshema's weapon attacks are magical. When Gaeshema uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 3d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).

Deflect All Missiles. Gaeshema can use his reaction to deflect or catch the missile when he is hit by a ranged attack. When Gaeshema does so, the damage he takes from the attack is reduced by 47 (2d10+36). If Gaeshema reduces the damage to 0, he can catch the missile if it is small enough for him to hold in one hand and if he has at least one hand free. If Gaeshema catches a missile in this way, he can make a ranged attack with the weapon or piece of ammunition he just caught as part of the same reaction. This attack has a 40/120 range and counts as a God Fist Gauntlet weapon attack for damage purposes. Also Gaeshema can instead use all of his reactions to catch a spell that uses a ranged spell attack and redirect it back to the caster as though it originated from him, turning the caster into the target.

Divine Awareness. Gaeshema knows if he hears a lie.

Divine Ki. An invisible barrier forms around Gaeshema's body, protecting him. The barrier has 30 hit points and has the same AC as Gaeshema. The barrier reforms at the start of Gaeshema's turn. In addition, Gaeshema is immune to all forms of damage until the barrier is destroyed and excess damage does not carry over to Gaeshema's hitpoints.

Evasion. When Gaeshema is subjected to an effect that allows him to make a Dexterity saving throw to take only half damage, he instead takes no damage if he succeeds on the saving throw, and only half damage if he fails.

Innate Spellcasting. Gaeshema's spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 26). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

At will: detect evil and good, dispel (5th level), sanctuary, circle of power

3/day each: resurrection, wall of force, plane shift

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Gaeshema fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Gaeshema has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Gaeshema gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Actions

Multattack. Gaeshema makes four attacks with his God Fist Gauntlets. Instead of making two attacks with his God Fist Gauntlets, he can use a Stunning Strike.

God Fist Gauntlets. Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 17 (2d8 + 8) bludgeoning damage plus 13 (3d8) radiant damage.

God Fist's Wrath. Gaeshema attacks every enemy within 5 feet of him with his God Fist Gauntlets.

Stunning Strike. Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 35 (6d8 + 8) bludgeoning damage plus 13 (3d8) radiant damage. The target must succeed on a DC 23 Constitution saving throw or be stunned until the end of Gaeshema’s next turn.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Gaeshema touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Overwhelming Will (1/Day). Gaeshema rushes forward with up to all of his movement and condenses all the raw divine power flowing through his body in one punch to attack a creature. That creature must succeed on a DC 23 Dexterity saving throw, taking 91 (14d12) bludgeoning damage and be knocked back 100 feet plus 10 feet for every 5 feet Gaeshema moved to reach the target. In addition, each creature within 60 feet of the target must succeed on a DC 23 Strength saving throw or be knocked 50 feet away and knocked prone. After using this ability, Gaeshema loses the Angelic Weapons trait for 24 hours and he is stunned until the end of his next turn. His attacks are still considered magical.

Legendary Actions

Gaeshema can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Gaeshema regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Gaeshema magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

God Fist Gauntlets. Gaeshema makes a God Fist Gauntlet attack.

Enlightened God Strike (Costs 2 Actions). Gaeshema makes a God Fist Gauntlet attack against a creature and fills their body with quietly vibrating divine energy.

Nirvana (Costs 3 Actions). Gaeshema releases the divine power on all the creatures he attacked with his Enlightened God Strike. Affected creatures on the same plane must succeed on a DC 23 Constitution saving throw or have their hit points reduced to 0. If it succeeds, they take 88 (16d10) radiant damage.
Velik "Heaven’s Marksman"

"The bow is the court, the victim the string, the target the guilty and the arrow is the judge - Velik"

Despite the solar’s innate nature of being good their definition of good sometimes become skewed. A mortal’s understanding is not the same as the understanding of an eternal being. To see the multiverse change infinitely is sometimes maddening but not for those who have purpose. While a mortal would fret over the death of a singular entity an eternal would not. Velik is a prime example of this attitude. He would never move his hands if a single mortal was being threatened, something Arrid takes displeasure in, but will gladly charge in first if an event risking the balance is worth his attention.

This is not to say that Velik turns a blind eye towards minor transgressions of evil acts. Should Velik be in the vicinity of an evil act whether he minor or major he would proceed to judge the aggressor or in some cases the would be victim. The only time he would ignore a minor evil act is if he is not near the vicinity and if something major occurred and he is needed to react immediately.

Just like every solar Velik himself is a judge. He judges everyone fairly with his legendary bow and unerring accuracy. Velik also incurs the anger of multiple enemies purely because of his attitude. His cold and unresponsive demeanor has made him the loner of the solar family but Arrid tries his best to socialize with Velik even if it irritates him.

Velik has no grey area. All solar used to have no grey areas but as time passed some of them understood that not all evil actions are worth a heavy hand and only needed proper guidance while some good actions are worth punishing. Arrid is the biggest practitioner of this attitude making him and Velik be on not so good terms. But ironically if these two solars were to partner up, almost no one would be capable of defeating these two unstoppable angels.

Truth to be told, Velik lacks a grey area because of his lack of experience. Even though gifted with immortality that dragons would kill for, Velik refused to interact with the multiverse believing that honing his skills to be able to protect is more important. Eventually this caused Velik to have a closed view, believing that bad is bad and good is good.

Maybe it is because of this reason that Velik hates Arrid. Arrid, his pure opposite in social skills and combat skills. Or maybe it is because Arrid is housing a demon lord. Even though Velik will still keep a civil attitude with him, Arrid has spawned something inside Velik that Velik does not suppose to have: Hate.

Velik loves cake. The only thing he probably would call his favourite past time other than honing his skills and divine power is eating different types of cakes. This is why he tolerates the presence of Namar, a fellow Solar. He continuously hunts extremely powerful and evil enemies that can threaten the balance of the multiverse. Liches, Aboleths, Illithid nests, and even ancient dragons. Should he find any of their locations which is currently active, Velik will immediately hunt them down and destroy them.

The only reason why there is still evil in the multiverse is because Velik cannot be everywhere. But if he could, he would.

His last known appearance was said to be in the material plane hunting down a legendary rogue who is in the possession of a legendary artifact called the "Book of Names".

Despite being a Solar Velik’s appearance inspires fear. His wings are pure white that envelopes people with a shadow that reveals their sins. He wears a magical robe covering his body along with a hood covering his face. His wings have the unique ability of predicting sins. He wears a magical robe covering his body along with a hood.

Velik’s Field of Judgment

Velik’s field of judgement has multiple abilities on its own. It only serves to enhance Velik’s already impressive power. His requirements are not as strict as the other solars but not as lenient as Gaeshema’s field. His requirements need him to know an opponents information before he can set his field. The information must be the opponent’s name, alignment, type, and basic abilities. His second requirement is that the target should be a great evil capable of massive damage. Once the requirements are met Velik can set his field increasing his power.

A 1000 mile radius area would be filled with his divine energy influencing the people living there for 100 years. Velik’s CR increases to 31 (175,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field Velik gains the following bonuses:

- Velik does not suffer disadvantage outside of his normal range.
- Velik can see his target inside his field, no matter what. If someone tries to hide from him within his field with divination magic or illusion magic, they must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw, taking 45 (10d8) psychic damage and the spell is dispelled on a failed save, or take 45 (10d8) radiant damage on a successful one. This lair action cannot be used again for the next 3 rounds.
- Velik can use his bonus action to teleport to a creature or object he can see that he hit with an arrow. If the arrow is embedded on a creature he teleports 10 feet away from the arrow.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (losing ties) Velik can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can’t use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Velik creates an arrow made out of his judgement and shoots it towards a creature. The creature must succeed on a DC 18 Constitution saving throw or die on a failed save, take 55 (10d8 + 10) piercing damage plus 45 (10d8) radiant damage on a successful one. This lair action cannot be used again for the next 2 rounds.
- Velik uses his mastery of archery to pinpoint all his enemies weakpoints giving him advantage on his attack rolls until he uses another lair action.
- Velik utters a command word. Every creature that was damaged by Velik’s arrows must succeed on a DC 23 dexterity saving throw. On a failed save they take 13 (3d8) radiant damage plus an additional 13 (3d8) for every time they were hit by an arrow or by Heavens Downfall since the last time this lair action was used.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Velik is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Animals in the field become docile while forests become thicker and more alive.
- Evil beings feel as if they are watched. If they are powerful beings, Velik can spy on them.
- Hunters are somehow enchanted making their attacks magical.

The creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of their turn to remove the stunned effect.

- Heaven's Downfall (Recharge 4-6). Velik shoots an arrow towards the sky that multiplies into a thousand arrows hitting every creature within a 50 feet radius around Velik. Each creature in the area must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 19 (2d8 + 10) piercing damage plus 36 (8d8) radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

- Force Shot (Recharge 4-6). Velik shoots an arrow made purely out of magic enhanced with his divine energy in a 150-foot line that is 5-foot wide. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 18 (4d8) force damage plus 36 (8d8) radiant damage on a failed save and be pushed 30 feet away, or half as much damage and not be pushed away on a successful one.

- Healing Touch (4/Day). Velik touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions

Velik can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Velik regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

- Teleport. Velik magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

- Heaven's Sniper. Velik attacks with his Heaven’s Sniper.

- Heaven's Cannon (Costs 4 Actions, Recharge 5). Velik creates a powerful and thunderous arrow and shoots it in a 150-foot line that is 20-foot wide. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 90 (20d8) force damage plus 45 (10d8) radiant damage and be stunned until the end of Velik’s next turn on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one.
TACIAX "The Hand of Death"

"It is not death that a mortal should fear, but they should fear never beginning to live. - TACIAX"

Taciax, the supposed avatar of death, is a solar pledged to a god or goddess of death. Who the god is, nobody knows, for only the gods know each other’s secrets. Taciax has many tithes, the Black Crow, the Infinite Void, Death, and many more but in truth he is a solar that believes in the sanctity and balance of life and death.

He believes that no one should go past their supposed time, and that undead, especially powerful liches, are an insult to life’s natural balance. Despite being a Solar, Taciax leans into the neutral spectrum of alignments, for he believes that there is a balance that must be maintained for the multiiverse to continue existing. But this does not mean he will turn a blind eye towards evil because no matter what, a solar is always bound to do good.

His god is said to keep himself or herself secret, his deity might be the Raven Queen, some say his deity is the fair, yet cold Kelemvor, either way Taciax faithfully serves his deity as long as his wish of keeping the multiverse in balance through death is fulfilled.

It is said that, Taciax can see undead once they are born. Once someone becomes undead, Taciax sees them for all they are. He sees them and despises their very existence.

Taciax follows the commands and orders of his deity, but will act on his own if no orders are given. But there is one target that Taciax has been spending quite a time trying to kill. And despite hunting him, the legendary solar has yet to lay a finger on his target.

His target is a lich, not any simple lich but a rare being called a lich king. A lich that can rival the strongest and skilled warriors while easily defeating the most skilled mages and talented sorcerers.

Ironically, the lich is alive not because the solar cannot defeat it in combat, but because the lich is not evil and the death of it would cause massive grief and damage everywhere.

Instead Taciax constantly visits the powerful lich to check up on it and sometimes spend time together.

And surprisingly the honest nature and endearing attitude of the all-powerful lich has captured Taciax. The Lich’s name was Ounzair, a mortal that was equally talented in fighting and spellcasting. At first he mastered his ability to use magic and then learned to ingratiate combat into his arsenal of skills.

Taciax and Ounzair have become very close friends, something that surprised many of the solars, especially himself.

Other than keeping Ounzair in check, Taciax constantly visits other places of evil to do maintenance. An example would be the Temple of Evil and the Temple of Nerull. Should there be any powerful undead, Taciax destroys them immediately.

All solars can channel divine energy through their weapons and attacks. Taciax is no exception, he can easily use his divine powers, but the time in close proximity to his deity and the undead, especially Ounzair, gave Taciax new understanding of the powers he wishes to destroy.

With his new understanding, Taciax started to use fire against fire by learning the very magic Ounzair uses. But even though he knows how to use any of these spells and magic he refuses to raise the dead unwillingly or sacrifice any mortal for any form of power.

Taciax appearance sometimes inspire fear but also peace. His black robe accompanied by his pure white wings, the unmistakable solar heritage, is a sign of reprieve for the mourning for they know that their loved ones are cared for by the good. Solar’s have preferred weapons and Taciax favoured the scythe just as every deity of death did. His legendary scythe cleaves through legions of undead and even when the time calls for it he points it towards evil mortals that deserve the sweet release of death.

TACIAX'S FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Taciax's field of judgement is a place of peace and reprieve for his enemies, moments before death takes them. Taciax's field also has some differences compared to the fields of other solars. Once Taciax activates his field his wings transform and become black-feathered. This transformation ability was said to be only a gift solars gain when they have found their most suited calling and have honed it to perfection. This transformation is unlike Ragain's wings of flames but instead it is a power born by the fusion of a solar's divine energy and a deity's domain. It is far more powerful than simply fusing a solar's divine energy with an element or another energy.

Despite this there are more solars that dislike pledging themselves because of the possibility of restriction. But some pledge themselves for the large boost of power when they fuse their energy with the deity's domain.

Taciax's requirements are only three. The first requirement is that his opponent must be a powerful undead that surpasses an average run of the mill lich. Examples would be thousands upon thousands of undead or a lich trained by Vecna himself or maybe even worse his close friend Ounzair. His second requirement is that the opponent should be capable of resurrecting or coming back to life multiple times. And his last requirement must be that the opponent is not someone he can defeat without suffering extreme casualties.

Once Taciax activates his field a 1000 mile radius becomes night and every undead would start to burn whether they hide or live on the surface. The nights become 3 hours longer and people live longer and healthier lives for 100 years.

Due to the extremely powerful nature of Taciax's powers instead of gaining bonuses when he is in the field Taciax instead gets a different statblock.

TACIAX "THE INFINITE VOID"

If Taciax uses his field and transforms, his health is refilled to max and every spell he has cast is also refreshed. Use his second stat block. Once Taciax uses his field form his CR increases to 37 (315,000 XP).

LAIR ACTIONS

On initiative count 20(lossing tie), Taciax can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Taciax pulls at the strings of one of his enemies' fates. Taciax can choose a creature he can see. He has advantage on his attack rolls against it and it has disadvantage on saving throws against Taciax until Taciax picks another creature.
- Taciax speaks words of power. He can choose one creature that can hear him that must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or die. This lair action cannot be used again for the next 2 rounds.
- Taciax fills his scythe with divine death domain infused energy and then swings it into the ground releasing a 300-foot long and 30 foot wide line of death energy in front of him. Each creature in the area must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 33 (6d10) radiant damage plus 33 (6d10) necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one. This attack ignores resistance, immunity and absorption.

REGIONAL EFFECTS

The region containing the field of judgement by Taciax is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Corpses in Taciax's field cannot be raised to become Undead
- Undead, fiends, fey and aberrations cannot regain hit points through resting in his field.
- Mortals become immune to disease and can live longer once inside the field.

Divine Awareness. Taciax knows if he hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Taciax’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 27). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

- At will: detect evil and good, dispel (5th level), gentle repose (permanent), invisibility (self only)
- 3/day each: divine word (all hp threshold are increased by 10 hp), geas (permanent), truesight (120 feet active), invisibility
- 1/day each: power word kill (hp threshold is increased to 120), force cage, imprisonment, wish

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Taciax fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Taciax has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Taciax gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Pure Wings. Taciax’s wings constantly fire searing flames out of them. At the start of his turn every creature in 50-foot radius, 200-foot high cylinder around him must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw or take 14 (4d8) radiant and 14 (4d8) fire damage.

Reaper’s Step. When Taciax uses the spell invisibility he can immediately teleport next to an enemy he can see within 150 feet range of him as part of the spell.

Weapons of the Reaper. Taciax’s weapon attacks are magical. When Taciax uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 5d8 radiant damage plus 5d8 necrotic damage (included in the attack). This ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance.

Actions

Multiattack. Taciax makes two attacks with his Death Scythe and can cast invisibility.

Death Scythe. Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit 32 (4d10 + 10) slashing damage plus 22 (5d8) radiant damage and 22 (5d8) necrotic damage.

Soul Reap. Taciax fires a deadly shock wave out of his scythe attempting to rip the souls from his enemies with it. Every creature in a 60-foot cone in front of him must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 18 (4d8) necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. On a failed save the creature also cannot regain hit points until the effect is removed by the lesser restoration spell or similar magic.

Honed Finger of Death (Recharge 5-6). Taciax fires a bolt of extremely powerful death lightning towards one creature within 150 feet range of him. A creature must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 141 (18d8 + 60) necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful save. This ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance. If a humanoid target is killed by this ability, it rises at the start of Taciax next turn as a Reaper that is under his command. A Reaper is an exact copy of the target and uses all of its Statistics except that it counts as a celestial, has no equipment, has no will on its own and obeys only Taciax. A greater restoration spell followed by a revivify or similar magic can be used to restore it back.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Taciax touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8 + 5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions

Taciax can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Taciax regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Taciax magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Cast Invisibility. Taciax casts the spell invisibility on himself.

Soul Reap. Taciax uses his Soul Reap ability.

Death Scythe (Costs 2 Actions). Taciax makes a Death Scythe attack.

Drain (Costs 4 Actions). Taciax raises his hand and absorbs the life force of his enemies in a 50-foot radius around him. Every creature must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 52 (12d8) necrotic damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. Taciax regains hit points equal to the hit points lost.
Taciax "The Infinite Void"

"Death is nothing, but to live defeated and inglorious is to die daily. - Taciax"

There was a legend that the most powerful solars rarely used their fields believing that their normal state was enough. There were four of them, four solars that even gods would rather not meet even if it meant befriending them.

Taciax is one of them. Specifically Taciax is the 2nd strongest solar, only second to his absurdly powerful brother Kephalam. But should he activate his field again even gods will steer clear for no one escapes death.

Death’s Step. When Taciax uses the spell greater invisibility he can immediately teleport next to a enemy he can see within 300 feet range of him as part of the spell.

Death’s Wings. Taciax’s wings constantly shoot freezing death out of them. At the start of his turn every creature in a 100-foot radius, 200-foot high cylinder around him must succeed on a DC 29 Constitution saving throw, taking 36(8d8) cold damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one.

Divine Awareness. Taciax knows if he hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Taciax’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 29). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

- At will: detect evil and good, dispel (7th level), gentle repose (permanent), greater invisibility (self only), true resurrection
- 3/day each: divine word (all hp thresholds are increased by 80 hp), geas (9th level), circle of death (9th level) plane shift
- 1/day each: power word kill (hp threshold is increased to 300), forcecage, imprisonment, wish (he cannot use this spell to heal himself)

Legendary Resistance (5/Day). If Taciax fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Limited Magic Immunity. Taciax is immune to spells of 6th level or lower unless he wishes to be affected. He has advantage on saving throws against all other spells and magical effects.

Master of Life and Death. Taciax can cast True Resurrection at will. He can revive any creature no matter what. He can cure them of madness, any illness, fix any problem and heal them in any possible way. He has no limits when it comes to reviving or fixing a deceased creature.

Solar Sigh. Taciax gains a +5 bonus to his Perception score.

Siphon (Costs 5 Actions). Taciax raises his hand and absorbs the life force of his enemies in a 100-foot radius around him. Every creature in the area must succeed on a DC 29 Wisdom saving throw or get its maximum hit points reduced by 81 (18d8) on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one. If a creature’s hit point maximum is reduced to 0 by this effect, the creature dies. A creature’s hit point maximum can be restored with a greater restoration spell or similar magic. Taciax regains hit points equal to the hit points lost.

True Weapons of the Reaper. Taciax’s weapon attacks are magical. When Taciax uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 13d8 necrotic damage (included in the attack). This ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance. This ignores absorption.

Actions

Multiattack: Taciax makes two attacks with his Death Scythe and can cast greater invisibility.

Death Scythe. Melee Weapon Attack: +24 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit 35 (4d10 + 13) slashing damage plus 58 (13d8) necrotic damage.

Death’s Call. Taciax beckons to the souls of his enemies, forcefully ripping it from their bodies. Every creature that can hear, see or is aware of Taciax must succeed on a DC 29 Constitution saving throw, taking 205 (30d8 + 70) necrotic or force damage (DM’s Choice) on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. This ability ignores resistances, immunities and absorptions. If this damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, it is disintegrated. A disintegrated creature and everything it is wearing and carrying, except magic items, are reduced to a pile of fine gray dust. If any creature is killed by this ability, it rises at the start of Taciax’s next turn as a Ghostly Reaper that is permanently under his command. A Ghostly Reaper is an exact copy of the target and is equipped with and attuned to all of its remaining equipment and has all its Statistics except that it counts as a celestial, has no will on its own and obeys only Taciax. The creature can be restored to life only by means of a true resurrection or a wish spell.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Taciax touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions
Taciax can take 5 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Taciax regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Death’s Step. Taciax magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 300 feet to an unoccupied space he can see and can immediately do a Death Scythe attack. The attack does only half damage.

Death’s Sweep (Costs 2 Actions). Taciax makes a Death Scythe attack towards every enemy in his range. The attacks do only half damage.

Death’s Dance (Costs 3 Actions). Taciax uses his Death’s Step followed by his Death’s Call.
ADIMUS "The Forger"

"THE FINEST STEEL HAS TO GO THROUGH THE HOTTEST FIRE. - ADIMUS"

To create is the realm of gods. But if the gods created the mortals who created the gods? A question that will never have an answer for it only goes back and back to the first one who created who.

Adimus pondered this question for thousands of years but it does not mean he did not do anything to help enforce good. But the question ate him up. It was a small knocking sound in his mind that he could not purge no matter what.

He tried his best to find an answer until his constant travel brought him to Dwarfhome, the realm of the legendary dwarven god Moradin. While walking through the benevolent god's realm he heard a pounding stronger than the knocking in his mind and he pursued it.

Despite barging in suddenly in the realm of a deity no one stopped the running solar. Adimus slammed a door open and saw something that kept him in awe.

Adimus saw the clash of metal between a hammer and an anvil. Adimus saw Moradin, the god of dwarvenkind, the king of steel, the lord of forges, and the emperor of weapons forging. Despite his rude entrance Adimus did not apologize, not because of lack of manners but because the Deity did not pay him heed.

Moradin did not react to Adimus' rude entrance and continued his trance like hammering of the divine metal. Adimus stood there watching in intense excitement and in complete utter awe as he saw the defile forgemaster do his work.

Days passed as Moradin constantly hammered the divine metal slowly molding it and forging it into a piece that even the other gods would kill for.

Adimus watched intently studying every swing and every pounding. He saw every movement as a form of art and saw how beautiful the act of creating is.

Adimus did not notice but the slow knocking has long been destroyed by the powerful pounding of the Deity.

"It doesn't matter who creates you, in the end what truly matters is what you create."

When Adimus uttered those words to himself Moradin stopped and looked at him with a gentle yet fierce smile native only to dwarves.

Once the pounding stopped the knocking came back but this time it was weaker. Adimus knew what this place meant and he knew in some way that destiny lead him here.

Moradin invited Adimus to be a personal apprentice but this somehow irked the solar.

Adimus instead asked Moradin to allow him to become the lowest ranking apprentice instead. He wished to start from the bottom.

The request surprised the dwarven god but he immediately acquiesced it, obviously happy and impressed with Adimus' decision.

Adimus was given the basics of blacksmithing something which was unheard off since Dwarfhome was a home for legendary blacksmith dwarves.

Adimus kept to himself but was constantly visited by Moradin to watch the solar forge. Adimus refused help but kept visiting other blacksmiths and Moradin to watch them work.

At first Adimus had a hard time to make his own wares but eventually the solar learned to wield the tools needed to create.

He created swords, axes, greatswords, and even more. Adimus created the finest weaponry only rivaled by the legendary deity, Moradin himself. Spending an eternity with the tools for creation, Adimus learned to create and to mold.

Eventually Adimus created wondrous items and artifacts that other gods would be jealous of.

By the end of the day Adimus loved what he was doing and now understood what creation was meant to be. He pledged himself to the dwarven deity so that he may be able to preserve creation through his own hands and if needed, his legendary armaments.

It is said that thousands of benevolent beings have come near and far to ask for an armament from him. Of these beings he befriended dragons the most, especially silver ones. But he had thousands of other allies who would gladly help him in creating weapons of his taste. One of those was a golden dragon, one of his closest friends, who helped him create a favourite weapon of his.

Wearing his legendary plate armor Adimus charges into battle without any weapons in sight. His enemies mistake him for another monk like Gazehma but suddenly the heavily built solar summons a greatsword and blocks his enemies' advance. Then he summons a warhammer to ground their bones to dust. After the warhammer, he summons a battleaxe that cleaves through his enemies' defenses. Then conjures a large glaive immediately ripping through swathes and swathes of enemies.

His legendary form in battle inspires fear and awe throughout the planes.

ADIMUS' FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Adimus' field is a place of smithing. A giant anvil appears in the center where Adimus creates his field. The giant anvil is made out of magically enchanted adamantine meant to be unbreakable. When fighting, Adimus constantly changes weapons but once inside his field he can constantly fight with all his weapons without limitation as if every weapon follows his command. His requirements are just like the other solar's requirements. His first requirement is that his enemy should be a powerful evil being that wishes to destroy or erase life. His second requirement is that he ensures that nobody is in the near vicinity of his battlefield. Once the requirements are met Adimus can set his field increasing his power. A 1000 mile radius area would be filled with his divine domain infused energy influencing the people and materials existing there for 100 years. Adimus' CR increases to 32 (195,000 XP) inside his field.

Once inside his field Adimus gains the following bonuses:

- Adimus' AC increases to 26
- Adimus' gains immunity to fire and bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing damage from nonmagical weapons.
- Any time Adimus is targeted by a magic missile spell, a line spell, or a spell that requires a ranged attack roll, roll a d6. On a 1 to 5, Adimus is unaffected. On a 6, Adimus is unaffected, and the effect is reflected back at the caster as though it originated from Adimus, turning the caster into the target.
Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (ties losing), Adimus can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Adimus summons his Unlimited Forge Works. A seemingly unlimited amount of weapons fall from the sky covering a 500-foot-radius area around Adimus and striking his opponents as they land. Every creature must succeed on a DC 24 Dexterity saving throw, taking 70 (15d6) magical bludgeoning, piercing or slashing damage (DM's Choice) and 70 (15d6) lightning, cold or fire damage (DM's Choice) on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one. This damage ignores resistances. After using this lair action Adimus cannot use it again for the next 24 hours. Adimus can dismiss any number of weapons with an action.
- Adimus can order up to ten weapons to release their enchantments and use the released magic to attack up to ten creatures within his field. The targeted creatures must succeed on a DC 24 Dexterity saving throw taking 21 (6d6) magical bludgeoning, piercing or slashing damage (DM's Choice) and 21 (6d6) lightning, cold or fire damage (DM's Choice) on failed save, or half as much on a successful one.

- Once Adimus uses his Unlimited Forge Works he can pick up and make a melee attack with a summoned weapon of a type of his choice against a creature within his weapon range. Any weapon he picks up will follow the damage of the usual weapon except that he will use triple the damage dice instead. Any weapon picked up, has one major effect and two minor effects randomly determined by rolling on the following tables.

Major Effects

D20 Magical Effect

- Divine Vorpal Blade - This weapon has the same properties as a Vorpal Sword but the decapitation effect is 18-20 instead of just 20.
- Silence
- Vampiric Weapon I - The weapon heals the wielder for 2d8 hit points on a hit.
- Vampiric Weapon II - The weapon heals the wielder for 3d8 hit points on a hit.
- Vampiric Weapon III - The weapon heals the wielder for 4d8 hit points on a hit.
- Frost Weapon I - The weapon deals an extra 1d10 weapon damage.
- Frost Weapon II - The weapon deals an extra 2d10 weapon damage.
- Frost Weapon III - The weapon deals an extra 3d10 weapon damage.

- Elemental Damage I
- Elemental Damage II
- Elemental Damage III
- Magic Container
- Annihilation Blade
- Magic Charger
- Regional Effects

- Flash - Every time this weapon hits a creature it must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw or be blinded until the end of its next turn.
- Stunning - If the wielder rolls a 20 on the attack roll when this weapon hits a creature it must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw or be stunned until the end of its next turn.
- Elemental Damage I - The weapon deals an extra 1d10 elemental damage (DM's Choice). Elemental damage is cold, fire or lightning.
- Elemental Damage II - The weapon deals an extra 2d10 elemental damage (DM's Choice). Elemental damage is cold, fire or lightning.
- Elemental Damage III - The weapon deals an extra 3d10 elemental damage (DM's Choice). Elemental damage is cold, fire or lightning.

- Magical Effect

- D100 Magical Effect

1-5  Damage I - The weapon deals an extra 1d10 weapon damage.
6-10  Damage II - The weapon deals an extra 2d10 weapon damage.
11-15  Damage III - The weapon deals an extra 3d10 weapon damage.
16-20  Vampiric Weapon I - The weapon heals the wielder for 2d8 hit points on a hit.
21-25  Vampiric Weapon II - The weapon heals the wielder for 3d8 hit points on a hit.
26-30  Vampiric Weapon III - The weapon heals the wielder for 4d8 hit points on a hit.
31-35  Frost Weapon I - A creature hit by this weapon has their speed reduced by 10 feet until the end of its next turn.
36-40  Frost Weapon II - A creature hit by this weapon has their speed reduced by 20 feet until the end of its next turn.
41-45  Frost Weapon III - A creature hit by this weapon has their speed reduced by 30 feet until the end of its next turn.
46-50  Swift Weapon I - The weapon increases the wielders speed by 10 feet.
51-55  Swift Weapon II - The weapon increases the wielders speed by 20 feet.
56-60  Swift Weapon III - The weapon increases the wielders speed by 30 feet.
61-65  Revival Weapon - This weapon has the Raise Dead spell in it.
66-70  Flash - Every time this weapon hits a creature it must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw or be blinded until the end of its next turn.
71-75  Silence - This weapon contains a 5th level Silence spell in it.
76-80  Stun - The weapon increases the wielders speed by 30 feet until the end of its next turn.
81-85  Elemental Damage I - The weapon deals an extra 1d10 elemental damage (DM's Choice). Elemental damage is cold, fire or lightning.
86-90  Elemental Damage II - The weapon deals an extra 2d10 elemental damage (DM's Choice). Elemental damage is cold, fire or lightning.
91-95  Elemental Damage III - The weapon deals an extra 3d10 elemental damage (DM's Choice). Elemental damage is cold, fire or lightning.
96-100 Phantom Range - The weapon has an invisible and magical edge. The weapon's melee attack reach is increased to 30 feet.

Adimus has and is still creating magical items and weapons since the moment Moradin admitted him into Dwarfhome but he has created 4 legendary artifacts that he always brings when going to combat.

Heaven’s Edge

All Solars are born with a greatsword but not all of them use it to combat the forces of evil. A prime example of this is Gaeshema who destroyed his greatsword and fused it into his own body which eventually turned into his legendary gauntlets. Another example is Velik who fused his greatsword with his slayer bow transforming it into his Heaven’s Sniper.

When Adimus mastered the ways of creating weapons and magic items Adimus melted his greatsword and reforged it in the fires of Dwarfhome and fused it with divine metal that made his already powerful greatsword into a blade capable of slaying demon lords.

The adamantine grip supported by a platinum pommel and topped with a golden hilt inspires awe towards his allies and fear towards his enemies. It is this blade that truly shows the peak of his skill. The legendary blade made out of an unknown metal easily cuts through the toughest of defenses and would easily destroy the strongest of armor.

Hellbreaker

After his recreation of his weapon Adimus was visited by Ragani. Ragani was impressed with his brother’s craftsmanship but the reason he came was not for weapons but to ask Adimus to face him in combat. Adimus being a solar gladly accepted. Confident in his newly forged weapons Adimus thought he would easily defeat the absolute flame.

To his surprise Ragani wiped the floor with him. After his defeat Ragani said that his visit was something that all the other solars agreed with. His passion for forging had made him weaker and he forgot to train and better himself.

Guilt with shame Adimus apologized, for nothing is more shameful than a solar that cannot protect the good.

With this hot shame filling his being Adimus created the legendary warhammer named Hellbreaker. He trained himself with it along with his other weapons.

Voidcutter

All solars have emotions and the strongest of these are righteousness, justice, guilt and most of all emptiness. A solar will always feel righteous, justice ridden and never guilty but should the time come when they feel the cold unfeeling touch of emptiness it manifests into dreaded beings that can even contend with solars. They are called the Divine Cold, beings of pure void.

The first appearance of these beings was when Adimus failed to protect a village with his legendary armaments. He failed to defeat a powerful demon lord and the cost was the destruction of a village. The loss affected him so much that for the first time since forever his forges went cold. It was at this time when the cold and empty being came into existence. It attacked the distracted solar and managed to wound it but was eventually put down by the solar.

Seeing it Adimus felt even more pained. It was truly the manifestation of his complete and utter failure. But determined to never repeat it Adimus took the remains of the destroyed divine cold and heated his cold forge. He toiled for days until he created a waraxe that would cut his enemies and destroy their guards with the cold that Adimus felt.

Heaven’s Storm

Lightning is a tricky thing when it comes to solars. Not all of them use it but Adimus found its powerful effects to be extremely good in clearing large waves of evil doers. He travelled into the quasi-elemental plane of lightning and took the Heart of the Storms from the Elemental Prince of Air in exchange for a weapon that the prince took interest in.

The Forger went back to his deity’s realm and started to forge a weapon that would even make lightning elementals shiver at the capability they can harness.

Aptly named as Heaven’s storm Adimus charges to battle with his legendary weapons and always charges forward as destructive as a storm.

Angelic Weapons. Adimus' weapon attacks are magical. When Adimus uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 4d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).

Divine Awareness. Adimus knows if he hears a lie.

The Forger's Artifacts. Adimus has 4 favourite weapons from all the weapons he has created and he constantly carries them to battle. Adimus can only use one weapon a time, he must take an action to switch weapons.

1. Heaven's Edge (Greatsword). Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 31 (6d6 + 10) slashing damage plus 27 (6d8) radiant damage and the target is a creature Adimus resents. While Adimus wields this weapon he can use an action to cast one of the following spells from it: healing word (9th level, 5/day), true resurrection (1/day).

2. Hellbreaker (Warhammer). Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 26 (3d10 + 10) bludgeoning damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 18 (4d8) force damage. The target must succeed on a DC 24 Constitution saving throw or become stunned on a failed save until the end of its next turn. While Adimus wields this weapon he can use an action to cast one of the following spells (save DC 20) from it: reverse gravity (3/day) and earthquake (1/day).

3. Voidcutter (Battleaxe). Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 29 (3d12 + 10) slashing damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 27 (6d8) cold damage. While Adimus wields this weapon he can use an action to cast one of the following spells (save DC 20) from it: otiluke's freezing sphere (9th level, 3/day), power word kill (1/day).

4. Heaven's Storm (Glave). Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 15 ft., one target. Hit 26 (3d10 + 10) slashing damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 13 (3d8) lightning damage. Adimus can hit each creature in a 15-foot cone in front of him. He makes a separate attack roll for every creature in the area. While Adimus wields this weapon he can use an action to cast one of the following spells (save DC 20) from it: lightning bolt (9th level, 3/day), call lightning (9th level, 3/day), chain lightning (9th level, 3/day).

Innate Spellcasting. Adimus' spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 27). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
At will: detect evil and good, dispel (5th level), shield
3/day each: heat metal (9th level), fabricate, power word stun, plane shift

Fused Divinity (Costs 4 Actions /1/day). Adimus can temporarily fuse his weapons for a split second, allowing him to wield a weapon so powerful, it threatens to destroy himself. Adimus swings his weapon towards a creature within 15 feet of him. The creature must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw or take 45 (10d8) bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing damage plus 45 (10d8) radiant, force, cold, and lightning damage. The weapon deals a total of 360 combined damage. Adimus can't use his artifacts for one day after using this ability.

1/day each: earthquake, gate

Legendary Resistance (1/Day). If Adimus fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Adimus has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Adimus gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Actions

Multiattack. Adimus can make two melee attacks with any of his weapons.

Divine Storm (Glave Only, Recharge 6). Adimus swings his glaive around him, releasing a torrent of powerful lightning in a 120-foot radius around. Every creature must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, or take 67 (13d8) lightning damage and be stunned on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one.

Heaven's Smite (Greatsword Only, Recharge 6). Adimus releases a powerful slash made out of pure divine energy towards a creature that he can see. The creature must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 108 (24d8) radiant damage on a failed save or half as much damage on a successful one. On a failed save they lose their radiant resistance and immunity until the end of their next turn. If they do not have any resistance or immunity they become vulnerable to radiant damage until the end of their next turn.

Space Break (Battleaxe Only, Recharge 6). Adimus cuts space so that a miniature black hole appears in a 15-foot sphere centered on a point Adimus can see within 100 feet of him. Every creature except Adimus that starts its turn within 100 feet of the black hole must succeed on a DC 27 Strength saving throw or be pulled 50 feet towards the center of it. This lasts for 2 rounds. This hole works the same as a Sphere of Annihilation except that it cannot be moved or controlled. Every creature except Adimus that starts its turn in a 50 feet radius around the sphere takes 33 (6d10) force damage. Anything that touches the sphere but is not wholly engulfed and obliterated by it takes 66 (12d10) force damage at the start of its turn. This ability cannot be used again until the hole disappears.

Hell's Downfall (Warhammer Only, Recharge 6). Adimus holds his warhammer with both of his hands and charges it with his divine energy overflowing a 50-foot radius around him with increased gravity. Every creature affected by the increased gravity must succeed on a DC 27 Strength saving throw, taking 31 (7d8) force damage and 31 (7d8) bludgeoning damage and be knocked prone and be restrained on a failed save or take half as much damage and not be knocked prone and restrained on a successful one. A creature can take an action to attempt a DC 22 Strength check ending the restrained condition on a success. The effect also ends when Adimus switches to another weapon.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Adimus touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8 + 5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions

Adimus can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Adimus regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Adimus magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Weapon Switch. Adimus switches his current weapon with another one.

The Forger's Artifacts (Costs 2 Actions). Adimus can make one melee attack with his artifact, use his artifacts' special attacks that are available or cast a spell from his current artifact.
CLARION "THE METAPHYSICAL KING"

"MIND OVER MATTER, LITERALLY" - CLARION"

Mystics are said to be a rare breed. If there is one magic user in one thousand people then there is one mystic in one million people. But does this apply to beings as powerful as solars? In truth only one solar practices the usage of psionic powers and his name is Clarion.

To achieve the mental peace that mystics have, Clarion is usually out of sorts. He refuses to participate in small skirmishes against evil but would be one of the first solars to go in battle if something big comes to threaten the multiverse.

And unlike the other solars Clarion likes to travel constantly honing his mind, perfecting his control and sharpening his wit. He lacks the common weakness of other solars of having a hard time socializing and if it was not for his eccentricity only Arrid would be a better conversationalist than him.

Clarion is called an eccentric because of his weird activities. An example is that Clarion sometimes visits houses in the middle of the night to ask for food, when he clearly does not need to eat to live. Sometimes he bathes in milk, an odd practice for someone who does not need to bathe and definitely bizarre for someone who does.

Because of his practice of honing his mind, Clarion is in very good terms with his fellow solar Gaeshema, who focuses on honing his body. They both spar and meditate when they meet. Because of Clarion's good yet quirky social skills he earned the good will of the kind Arrid. And despite all of this, he is serious when things become rough, earning him some good points with Velik.

And the reason why a lot of solars like Clarion is quirky is because of the special nature of his responsibilities. While all solars help vanquish evil some of them have their own specialties. Taciax destroys undead with zeal, Ragani takes a firm stand against the elementals, Arrid and Velik have their way against demons and Gaeshema loves punching malevolent giants. But Clarion's job sometimes tend to be more difficult.

He constantly visits the far realm. He goes out the vast expanse of the void to go to the far realm. If asked why he does that, it is because he is the celestial ambassador between the two separate multiverses. When asked what he sees and knows about the far realm he calmly replies that it's just like our universe but slightly different.

When asked what types of evil he stops, he answers that he stops the extremely powerful elder beings but lets go of beings such as aboleths or illithids because their level of power is not enough to threaten the universe in its entirety. But sometimes even elder evils and the deeps ones manage to escape his sight and break into his universe. When the time comes that they do break into his universe Clarion takes the near impossible task of destroying the alien being on himself and if destroying them is impossible Clarion banishes them back to the far realm.

Despite his extended time being exposed to the far realm Clarion retains his sanity albeit he acquired some small quirky habits.

Remaining one's sanity when faced with the great horrors outside the universe is something that only beings that are as powerful as the gods can do.

Despite his eternal watch over the far realm Clarion has fought other forces multiple times such as the armies of hell, the legion of the abyss and even the strongest of primordials.

Unfortunately his time alone did not allow for him to form any intimate bonds with other beings. Even Velik is acquainted with Arrid's friend.

The exception is one little nightmarish being that he has sealed deep inside his body. Something that most beings don't know is that Clarion's divine body is the host of an extremely powerful elder one. He sealed it into himself, afraid of releasing it into the multiverse but every once in a while the solar uses the large reserves of power of the alien to help him. He sometimes visits it, unnerved by the alien creature.

CLARION'S FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Clarion's field is not something he activates lightly. His time in the far realm has warped his field beyond recognition. His field has transformed into something akin to the far realm itself. His requirements are as follows. First he must be fighting a being with a connection to the far realm or a conduit to it. Second there must be a risk that beings from the far realm will be summoned. The last requirement is that his opponent should be dangerous enough to warrant using his field. When the requirements are met Clarion can activate his field filling a 1000 mile radius with his psychic energy and divine magic for 100 years. Clarion's CR increases to 31 (175,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field Clarion gains the following bonuses:

- Clarion can telepathically hear every thought and can talk to everyone telepathically inside his field.
- No amount of divination magic can shield Clarion's ability to see through anyone inside his field.
- Physics in his field become weird. Each time a creature other than Clarion hits with a ranged weapon attack it must roll a d6. On a 1 the attack misses. If Clarion would miss with a weapon attack, roll a 1d6. On a 6 the attack hits.

LAIR ACTIONS

On initiative count 20(posing ties) Clarion can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Clarion releases a psychic surge in a 30 foot radius around him. Each creature in the area that Clarion chooses must make a DC 23 Wisdom saving throw or lose their psychic resistance and immunity on a failed save. If they don't have psychic resistance and immunity they become vulnerable to psychic damage until Clarion uses another lair action.
- Clarion releases the pent up nightmarish energy, he stored when he stayed in the far realm in 30-foot radius around him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 23 Intelligence saving throw or suffer the effects of the spell feechlimbard. This ability can only be used three times a day.
- Large massive tendrils resembling an octopus' limbs burst out of Clarion's body attacking every creature in a 100-foot radius around him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 23 Dexterity saving throw, taking 52 (15d6) bludgeoning damage on a failed save or half as much damage on a successful one. Clarion can only use this ability once his hit points are below half.

Eldritch Weapons. Clarion’s weapon attacks are magical. When Clarion uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 3d8 psychic damage plus 3d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).

Eldritch Wings. Clarion’s wings automatically make him succeed on any mind-altering magic, spell, or ability that make him roll a saving throw.

Far Realms Effect. Every creature that sees Clarion for the first time must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or suffer one indefinite madness.

Innate Spellcasting. Clarion’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 27). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
- At will: charm person, detect evil and good, dispel (5th level), entangle (tentacles instead of plants), hold person (5th level), magic circle (4th level), mind spike (5th level, casting time: bonus action)
  - 3/day: arms of hadar (9th level), dissonant whispers (9th level), dominate person (8th level), dominate monster, maddening darkness, plane shift
  - 1/day: gate, imprisonment, feebblemind, psychic scream

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Clarion fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Clarion has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Clarion gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Actions
- Multiattack: Clarion makes two melee attacks with his Eldritch Greatsword.

Eldritch Greatsword. Melee Weapon Attack: +16 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 21 (4d6 + 7) plus 13 (3d8) radiant damage and 13 (3d8) psychic damage.

Eldritch Parasite (Recharge 5-6). Clarion manifests eldritch strength by transforming his arm into a large tentacle and sweeping it in a 30-foot area around him. Each creature in the area must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 35 (8d6 + 7) bludgeoning damage plus 36 (8d8) psychic damage and be thrown 30 feet (Clarion’s choice where) away on a failed save, or half as much and not be knocked away on a successful one. Each creature that failed the saving throw must succeed a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or suffer one long term madness.

Mind Blast (Recharge 5-6). Clarion emits psychic energy in a 60-foot cone in front of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Intelligence saving throw or take 55 (10d8 + 10) psychic damage and be stunned for 1 minute. At the end of its turns, an affected target can make an Intelligence saving throw. If it succeeds, the effect ends for that target.

Mind Crush (Recharge 4-6). Clarion releases powerful psychic waves to crush a 30-foot-radius area that he can see. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 22 (5d8) psychic damage plus 22 (5d8) bludgeoning damage and be knocked prone on a failed save or half as much damage and not be knocked prone on a successful one.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Clarion touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8-5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions
- Clarion can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Clarion regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Clarion magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Eldritch Greatsword. Clarion makes an Eldritch Greatsword attack.

Madness Pulse (Costs 2 Actions). Clarion releases a pulse of madness stemming from the far realm itself in a 30-foot radius around him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or be affected by the spell confusion. At the end of its turns, an affected target can make a Wisdom saving throw. If it succeeds, the effect ends for that target.

Eldritch Parasite (Costs 3 Actions). Clarion makes an Eldritch Parasite attack, if available.

Release the Nightmare (Costs 4 Actions, 1/Day). Clarion temporarily releases the powerful elder one kept inside him. Each creature that can see Clarion when he uses this ability must succeed on a DC 27 Intelligence saving throw or be afflicted with 3 indefinite madnesses. If they fail the saving throw they become so full with fear that they are paralyzed for 1 minute. They can make a saving throw at the end of their turns ending the effect on themselves. The madness can only be cured by a consecutive use of 2 Greater Restoration spells or a single Wish spell. At the start of their next turn they must make another saving throw or die. After Clarion used this ability he can’t use his Eldritch Parasite, Mind Blast and Mind Crush for the next 24 hours.
NAMAR "THE VORACIOUS GOURMANDIZER"

"EATING GOOD FOOD IS MY FAVOURITE THING IN THE WHOLE MULTIVERSE. NOTHING IS MORE BLISSFUL. - NAMAR"

To eat or to fight world ending beings, Namar would probably choose the former if he was not bound by nature and his own conscience. Especially if he's angry, nothing is scarier than a solar that somehow developed a concept of hunger. Namar, despite not needing sustenance loves eating. He gained his title because of his eating habit, and if not for the fact that he is a solar he would probably end his days eating.

Because of this he is quite often underestimated by enemies stupid enough to challenge the god-like solar. True to his nature Namar often fights against the hordes of the abyss and legions of hell with unmatched zeal.

Most beings would think that Namar is a big lumbering buffoon but this is just another form of underestimation. Namar is as much a barbarian as savages are but he easily tempers his rage induced fights with the same level of wisdom other solars share.

True to his name Namar constantly travels around the multiverse constantly trying out new types of food and will never turn down an offer of a meal believing that anyone who wastes food is sinful and deserves to be bashed in. He would not do it though knowing his physical strength is enough to kill most mortals.

Namar also prefers to not use weapons when fighting, believing that brute strength sometimes allow him the privilege of enduring some of the best fights. After all not everyone can admit to fist-fighting a balor and win.

But when times call for seriousness Namar will let go of all his jovial attitude and brings out his greatsword, Caladbolg. A sword too big to be called a sword, it might as well be called a giant hunk of metal.

Swinging Caladbolg with divine strength, Namar cleaves through hordes of demons, armies of devils and legions of evil beings.

Despite that, Namar is a very jolly being. Arrid takes extreme pleasure in his visits as the two share stories while eating food. The two kind solars are best friends but would rather fight alone as solars still believe that a solar that cannot stand alone is not a true solar.

Namar also managed to break Velik's brooding attitude by inviting him to eat. Apparently the cold and edgy solar loves to eat ice cream, a delicacy available only to modern universes.

Even the angel of death, Taciax, constantly dines with Namar once the legions of the undead have been quelled. But despite being a solar, Namar mostly deals with material plane problems. He tends to think that the multiverse in general is already full of dangers.

One example of his dangerous escapades was when he fought a great red wyrm. A being on the top of the foodchain. A dragon at this age would destroy demons and lesser gods but the glutonous solar defeated it with both strength and skill. Mostly strength since Namar usually enters a rage when destroying his enemies.

It is not rare for a famous restaurant to see a handsome young man in his early twenties order a large serving of everything they have then watching the man devour all of it with the same level of zeal when destroying evil enemies.

If it not were for his nature as a solar, Namar would probably take other titles such as the World Champion of Hot Dog Eating, or the Pig Slayer or some of his even more ridiculous titles like Devourer of Sustenance.

And something that most solars admit is that they are quite envious of Namar. Namar understands what it means to be alive and only so few of the 24 solars understand what it means.

NAMAR'S FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Despite the guess of some beings, Namar's field isn't connected to food. His field is connected to how much collateral something can affect people. If a large hoard of demons or devils attacked a city Namar is allowed to manifest his field so that he can protect everyone while slaughtering demons. His requirements are as follows. First he must be protecting a large amount of people or at least essential people to the realm. The second requirement is that his enemy or enemies are capable of defeating him. The last requirement is that he must be in a rage. When all requirements are met Namar can activate his field filling a 1000 mile radius area with his divine energy for 100 years. Namar's CR increases to 34 (240,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field Namar gains the following bonuses:

- Namar is constantly in rage mode when inside his field.
- Namar's damage bonus from his rage is doubled.
- Namar can roll three additional weapon damage die when determining the extra damage for a critical hit with a melee attack.
- When Namar's hit point is 1 his crit range becomes 16-20.
- Namar's walking speed increased by 50 feet.
- Namar can use the Relentless Rage feature of the barbarian but instead of adding 5 per successful save it only adds 3 per successful save.

LAIR ACTIONS

On initiative count 20(singing ties). Namar can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Namar releases his barbarian like energy fused with his divine energy in a 50 foot radius around him. Each creature affected must succeed on a DC 25 Wisdom saving throw, taking 21 (6d6) radiant damage, be frightened for 1 minute and knocked prone on a failed save, or half as much damage, not be frightened and knocked prone on a successful one. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a successful save.
- The ground splits open in a 50 feet radius area within 200 feet of Namar. The area is considered difficult terrain. Each creature must spend 6 rounds searching the area for a hidden trap and find the trap only after 24 hours.
- Namar's walking speed increased by 50 feet.
- Namar uses his divine energy to close his wounds and heal him for 45 (1d8) hit points. This lair action cannot be used again for the next 2 rounds.

Angelic Weapons. Namar’s weapon attacks are magical. When Namar uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 4d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).
Brute. Namar’s melee attacks deal two extra die of damage (included in the attack).
Caladbolg. Namar’s greatsword is extremely huge and as a result can hit each creature in a 15 foot cone in front of him. He makes a separate attack roll for every creature in the area.
Danger Awareness. Namar has advantage on any Dexterity saving throws coming from traps and spells as long as he can see them.
Divine Awareness. Namar knows if he hears a lie.
Divine Rage (3/day). Namar can use a bonus action to enter a rage that lasts for 1 minute and he gains the following bonuses:
- He gains advantage on Strength and Constitution saving throws.
- He gains +5 damage to all melee damage rolls.
- Namar’s walking speed is increased by 30 feet and can never be impeded or reduced while he is in his Divine Rage.
- Every creature within 30 feet of Namar must succeed on a DC 25 Wisdom saving throw or be frightened. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success. If a creature’s saving throw is successful or the effect ends for it, the creature is immune to this effect for the next 24 hours.
- Namar gains immunity to being stunned.

Innate Spellcasting. Namar’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 27). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
- At will: compelled duel, detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level)
- 3/day: plane shift, power word stun
- 1/day: gate

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Namar fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Namar has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.
Solar Sight. Namar gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Actions

Multiattack. Namar makes two melee attacks with Caladbolg.

Caladbolg: Melee Weapon Attack: +19 to hit, reach 15 ft., refer to Caladbolg trait. Hit 31 (6d6 + 10) slashing damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage.

Divine Smash (Recharge 6). Namar smashes Caladbolg in front of him affecting a 30-foot-radius area. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 31 (6d6 + 10) plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and be stunned for 1 minute on a failed save or take no damage and not be stunned on a successful one. The creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of their turn to remove the stunned effect.

God-Slaying Charge (Recharge 5-6). Namar recklessly charges in front of him for all of his movement left. Each creature in his line of charge must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 45 (10d6 + 10) plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and be knocked prone or take half damage and not be knocked prone on a successful one.

Healing Touch (4/day). Namar touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Last Blow (1/day). Once Namar reaches half his health (465) he steel's his resolve and attacks a creature of his choice with all the strength he can muster. Melee Weapon Attack: +19 to hit, reach 15 ft., refer to Caladbolg trait. Hit 135 (30d6 + 30) bludgeoning plus 90 (20d8) radiant damage. This attack goes through all forms of resistance, immunity and defense. After he used this ability he loses his Divine Rage and cannot use it again until the end of his next turn. This effect precedes his Field of Judgement.

Reactions

Parry. Namar adds 6 to his AC against one melee attack that would hit him. Namar doesn't need to see the attacker but must be wielding a melee weapon.

Legendary Actions

Namar can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Namar regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Namar magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Caladbolg. Namar makes a Caladbolg attack.

Divine Smash (Costs 3 Actions). Namar recharges and uses his Divine Smash attack.

Legion Cleaver (Costs 3 Actions). Namar swings his massive greatsword releasing a powerful wave of pure divine energy in a 60-foot cone in front of him. Each creature in the area must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 67 (15d8) radiant damage and be knocked prone on a failed save or take half as much damage and not be knocked down on a successful one. In addition, this action deals thrice the damage dice against fiends and undead and, goes through resistance and treats immunity as resistance.
AZIRAPHALE "THE WARDEN"

"POWER IS NOT A MEANS, IT IS AN END. - AZIRAPHALE"

Muted in color and almost devoid of emotion, Aziraphale eternally watches the multiverse guiding the race of men from his golden throne. Like his other siblings Aziraphale was born not from gods but from the positive planes' manifestation. Like all his siblings Aziraphale was an empty being at first, ready to be filled with the knowledge of how to efficiently protect the multiverse.

While solars had their own form of self-education, like Arrid who felt the warm touch of mortals, and Namar who found happiness in eating, Aziraphale found himself reading law books. Spending his early years in immersing himself in knowledge Aziraphale lacked the social capabilities of the other solars to the point that his viewpoint of good became slightly blurred.

Lacking the grey area that some solars had Aziraphale went to look for the gods. Safe in the knowledge that the benevolent gods would guide him properly.

But what he failed to know at the time was that solars are the most premium of servants the gods would ever hope to want.

A powerful pantheon of gods saw fit to have Aziraphale as their servant. Aziraphale knew that by accepting he would be able to protect the multiverse even better. The only problem was who the god Aziraphale pledged himself to would be. It is common knowledge that if a solar pledge itself to a god, the god must give something of equal value.

The gods did not want to give a large portion of their power to Aziraphale in fear of the already powerful solar, so instead they all created a gift for him.

Created from the mixed divine essence of the gods, a divine fiery blade, named Dyrnwyn, was bequeathed onto Aziraphale, a symbol of his station as the ultimate guardian and watcher of the universe.

As the eons passed Aziraphale tried to learn the meaning of good by properly protecting the multiverse. But as time went by and eons became meaningless Aziraphale's meaning of good became a linear vision. What could have been a beautiful vision of the universe became meaningless Aziraphale's meaning of good became a linear vision. What could have been a beautiful vision of the universe became a colorless and bland room.

Even the stoic Velik is more flexible than Aziraphale. What was once an open book became a cold-unfeeling robot that only exists to separate good from bad. Some would even argue that Aziraphale is an empty shell that the gods employ.

But his siblings now know better because of that, the unpledged solars refuse to find their own gods while the ones who have already pledged themselves are being more careful.

Aziraphale resides in a heavenly realm built by the gods he serves. Sitting atop his golden throne, Aziraphale directs his angels with unparalleled efficiency. When in need of agents other than angels Aziraphale makes pacts with warlocks and every once in a while he bestows clerical powers to mortals that revere and believe in his rule.

Despite his long time in ruling over his realm and overseeing the protection of the multiverse, Aziraphale's skills in combat has not waned. In his free time Aziraphale practices the usage of his abilities to properly protect the multiverse. Aziraphale's skill in combat has not waned. Aziraphale's resistance to radiant damage becomes immunity. The coming from the sword ignores resistance and immunity.

Aziraphale's Field of Judgement

Unlike the other solar's field Aziraphale's field is connected to his divine realm. His requirement is extremely simple. Should a time come when Aziraphale is required to enter the battle come, he opens a rift connecting his divine realm to any plane, in which he requires his true power. Unfortunately because of the gods refusal on fusing with his powers Aziraphale doesn't have any notable abilities connected to his field but his divine weapons gifted to him are strengthened to better serve him. Once his field is connected he fills a 1000 mile radius area with his divine energy changing it to better suit his abilities. The field will stay for 100 years before it dissipates. Aziraphale's CR increases to 32 (195,000 XP) in his field.

Once in his field Aziraphale gains the following bonuses:

- Aziraphale can cast the spell Antipathy/Sympathy, using his spell DC, as an at will spell
- Aziraphale manifests his sword's true power. Every damage coming from the sword ignores resistance and immunity.
- Aziraphale's resistance to radiant damage becomes immunity.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing ties) Aziraphale can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Aziraphale can activate his shield to completely negate all damage from the next three times he would get damaged until he uses another lair action.
- Aziraphale can summon up to two angels that have the same or lower CR as a deva or one angel that has the same CR or lower as a planetar. The summoned angels are not dismissed if Aziraphale uses this lair action again. Aziraphale cannot use this lair action for the next 3 rounds.
- Aziraphale's vision is filled with the heaviness of pure judgement. Any mortal that Aziraphale can see must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw or suffer 1 level of exhaustion. This has no effect if the creature already had 5 levels of exhaustion. A creature that succeeds is immune to this effect for 24 hours but will not remove their current exhaustion.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Aziraphale is warped by his warp by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- People's emotions are easily quelled and the temptation to do sin is suppressed.
- Corrupt and already sinful people will be influenced to repent and do anything to try and regain the purity.
- People that are using magic to stave this effects will receive constant nightmares and must succeed on a DC 20 Wisdom saving throw or take 5d10 psychic damage for not repenting.

Challenge 30 (155,000 XP)

Divine Awareness. Aziraphale knows if he hears a lie.

Divine Aegis. Aziraphale’s shield has 250 hp and allows him to absorb magical damage from any damaging sources and release half of it as force damage. If Aziraphale’s shield is dealt more than 250 damage in a round it explodes dealing damage in a 30-foot radius around him. Each creature must succeed on a DC 25 Dexterity saving throw, taking 125 force damage on a failed save or half as much damage on a successful one. The shield will take 7 days to recreate. When Aziraphale uses the Aegis, the weapon deals an extra 5d6 force damage (included in the attack).

Dyrnwyn. Aziraphale’s weapon attacks are magical. When Aziraphale uses Dyrnwyn, the weapon deals an extra 6d8 fire damage (included in the attack).

Innate Spellcasting. Aziraphale’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 27). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), invisibility (self only)
3/day each: planar binding (casting time is instantaneous) (8th level), geas (8th level), plane shift
1/day each: forbiddance (casting time is instantaneous), gate, imprisonment

Legendaary Resistance (3/Day). If Aziraphale fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Aziraphale has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Aziraphale gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

The Warden’s Anger. When Aziraphale’s Aegis gets destroyed he strengthens his blade, changing his critical range to 15-20.

The Warden’s Aura. Each creature that starts its turn in a 300-foot radius around Aziraphale’s must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by him and must follow every order with absolute efficiency. Each time the target takes damage, it makes a new Wisdom saving throw against the effect. If the creature succeeds their saving throw, the spell ends. A creature that succeeds is immune to this effect for the next 24 hours.

Actions

Multitack. Aziraphale makes three melee attacks: one with Aegis Slam and two with Dyrnwyn.

Dyrnwyn. Melee Weapon Attack: +17 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 17 (2d8 + 8) slashing damage plus 27 (6d8) fire damage.

Aegis Slam. Melee Weapon Attack: +17 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 18 (4d4 + 8) bludgeoning damage plus 17 (5d6) force damage. If the target is a Huge or smaller creature, it must succeed on a DC 25 Strength saving throw or be knocked prone and be stunned until the end Aziraphale’s next turn.

Aegis Release. Aziraphale releases the magic charged by the aegis creating a powerful burst of pure raw magic in a 30-foot cone. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 25 Dexterity saving throw or take force damage equal to half the amount of hit points lost on the shield on a failed save or half as much damage on a successful one. After using Aegis Release the Aegis restores the released amount in hp back.

Aegis Flash (Recharge 5-6). Aziraphale taps into the natural divine power of the aegis and releases a burst of divine energy in a 30-foot radius around him. Each creature in the area must succeed on a DC 25 Constitution saving throw, taking 45 (10d8) radiant damage and be blinded permanently on a failed save or half as much damage and not be blinded on a successful one. The blindness can only be cured by a lesser restoration spell or similar magic.

Combustion Blade (Recharge 5-6). Aziraphale fires a long wave of fire from Dyrnwyn in a 300-foot line that is 1-foot wide. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 25 Dexterity saving throw, taking 45 (10d8) radiant damage plus 45 (10d8) fire damage.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Aziraphale touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions

Aziraphale can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Aziraphale regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Aziraphale magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Dyrnwyn. Aziraphale uses Dyrnwyn to attack a creature.

Aegis (Costs 2 Actions). Aziraphale uses a single ability of the Aegis.

Aegis & Dyrnwyn (Costs 4 Actions, 2/Day) (The Aegis must have 200 hp or less). Aziraphale points his blade into his shield absorbing the magic power accumulated. Aziraphale’s makes a Dyrnwyn attack which is inflicted with the power of the Aegis adding [amount of hit points missing on the shield] force damage. The aegis restores the same amount of hit points back.
ADITHAR "THE SOUL-SEEKER"

"THE SOUL THAT SEES BEAUTY MAY SOMETIMES WALK ALONE. - ADITHAR"

The souls of the powerful, the souls of the kind, the souls of the gentle; all of these are what Adithar cares most about. To see the kind become evil, to see heroes live long enough to be villains, and to see the beneficent succumb is the most abhorrent things that Adithar can see.

Just like his brothers Adithar abhor evil in any way possible, but what Adithar truly despises is the corruption of the soul. Believing that souls are the purest form any creature can have Adithar goes beyond to protect the souls of mortals from the clutches of devils, demons, and any creature that would dare to dirty a soul.

When one of their brothers was destroyed because he became corrupted Adithar saw clearly that even demons can be changed into good. And this notion was enforced when he met Phryix, the nascent demon lord that Arrid managed to change into good. With renewed vigor, Adithar travelled the multiverse in search of powerful demons and devils to see if they were capable of change.

To his despair Adithar barely found any. The only evil beings he could convert were the weaker ones. So he had to destroy the strong ones permanently. He almost lost hope until he found one. A powerful devil, a devil so powerful he was a candidate for becoming an arch-devil, should Azmodeus wish it.

For the first time Adithar saw light in the black soul of the devil, and ironically it came from someone so powerful. Just like Arrid, Adithar kept the powerful devil in an unbreakable prison. Sadly his efforts were in vain. Just because something could be saved, does not mean you should drown yourself for it. But the solar stayed optimistic. He did everything he could from simple chatting to forceful magical conversion.

The change was not easy, for the first decades it had no effect against the devil except maybe making him more rude and vulgar. Until one day the devil forgot to greet him rudely like he did everyday. The devil noticed his mistake and started to speak rudely again but Adithar would not have missed it for the world and started to strengthen his devil rehabilitation.

His persistent and rigorous way of dealing with the devil attracted the attention of not just the solars but almost every cosmic being. Adithar allowed his brothers to watch him but because of Aziraphale he disallowed the gods and other beings to interfere. The gods, primordials, and even far realm beings watched with earnest as they saw Adithar slowly change the devil.

In truth, what Arrid did was a miracle but if one thinks about it, it was not impossible because Phryix was just becoming a demon lord. Unlike Adithar who was dealing with a powerful devil. But eons passed and the progress was minimal and the gods who were always waging a war lost interest, the primordials just stopped caring, and the Eldritch beings of the far realm decided to do their own experiments.

The only ones who stayed to watch were the solars, given that they were not occupied with other important things to do such as saving the universe from another powerful threat.

If there was one god who stayed to watch it was the powerful deity Bahamut. Arguably the most benevolent of all the gods, Bahamut took great interest in Adithar’s endeavor and gave his support.

Even when the project took a little longer than expected, Bahamut kept helping until eventually Adithar allowed him in along with his brothers.

It took millenniums, something so impossibly long and most would think it’s no longer worth it. The only ones who stayed to watch were other solars, given that they weren’t occupied with other important things to do such as saving the universe from another powerful threat. Only Bahamut kept Adithar’s positive outlook.

Until one day the devil said, “Let’s stop, this is not worth your time and it isn’t worth mine. Every plan of escaping was failed and brute force would not win me anything.” For a moment the solar and god saw through the devil’s soul, it never changed. The small spark of light was the same as it was years ago.

Dejected, Adithar simply let the devil go to the surprise of every solar. All of them called him out in his stupidity except Bahamut and Arrid. Arrid knew what it meant to fail and Bahamut simply believed that Adithar would do the right choice.

The devil left and was never seen again. But what the devil did not notice is that Bahamut and Adithar placed a fail-safe into him should the devil do evil.

When the solars heard of this they left but not before apologizing to Adithar. Adithar waited for the devil to do evil acts. The seal would immediately teleport the devil to his field but surprisingly it never happened.

Curious they spied on the devil only to see him in hell resting. The devil spent his days coming up with evil plans on dominating the world and taking over hell but each time a plan was almost complete he would stop and scrap it. Adithar and Bahamut kept watching this until the devil one day slammed his throne with pure rage.

Tears made out of foul ichor and blood fell from the devil’s eyes as his face contorted in complete pain of his being. Adithar and Bahamut smiled and retrieved him without delay. The battle to take him was fierce but in the end they succeeded.

When they got out of the Nine Hells they returned to Bahamut’s home. Despite the possibility of death the devil did not fear anything as he looked blankly far off into the distance.

Adithar was looking at the devil’s soul, only to see a small black portion being devoured by the light.

Adithar asked the devil if he wanted to change. The devil looked at the solar with dead eyes and nodded mechanically. Adithar knew that he could not keep a devil under him even if it was changed especially since he had his responsibilities.

So he entrusted the devil to Bahamut. Bahamut immediately accepted and let the devil bathe in the immense divine waters of Mount Celestia.

It did not take long but the devil changed, if he could still be called a devil. Something akin to an angel it and any following devils that might change became the Redeemed. With a silver-like body and golden wings, the Redeemed became servants of light that followed Bahamut but most of all followed Adithar.

A few years later the solars who stayed unpledged were surprised to hear that their brother Adithar pledged himself to Bahamut as his right hand. Although if one looks at the facts it was inevitable.
Adithar's Field of Judgement

Most beings would believe that Adithar's field is paradise and they are correct. While some solars, namely Ragani and Clarion, have fields that devastate continents, Adithar's field by contrast is a paradise. Worlds visited by Adithar's field take pride and complete reverence in the fact that the solar visited them.

For a world to be submerged in Adithar's field is nothing short of a miraculous gift that not even the gods can give. Wild animals become more peaceful, crops grow at three times the speed and barely use any nutrients of the soil, people become calmer and even evil people start to lose their horrible temperament.

Adithar's field is already a paradise but when his powers are fused with the domain of Bahamut, his paradise-like field became something akin to an outer plane resembling those in the upper planes.

Sometimes Elysium would fail to compare to the beauty and brightness of Adithar's field. But one should not underestimate this solar's ability to destroy evil. Unknown to most, that kind solar, Adithar, is the 3rd strongest, only below his absurdly strong sibling, Taciax and his impossibly powerful eldest, Xephalam.

Like Taciax, Adithar pledged himself to Bahamut because of the large boost to his power he would get but unlike Taciax, Adithar's choice was also partly because of his emotions. He felt that if he were to choose any god to pledge his loyalty to it would be Bahamut himself.

Adithar's requirements are only two. The first requirement is that his enemy must have at least taken one soul indirectly or directly in their whole existence. They cannot hide this fact from Adithar no matter the means. The second requirement is that his opponent should be capable of defeating him and can influence thousands of evil souls. Once Adithar activates his field, a 1000 mile radius becomes filled with his divine energy that dissipates over the course of 100 years. Forests become extremely healthy, crops grow three times faster while using minimal nutrients, people live twice as long and become immune to diseases while descendants of people that lives here will forever be touched by the divine and will become resistant to radiant and necrotic damage.

Due to the extremely powerful nature of Adithar's powers instead of gaining bonuses when he is in the field Adithar instead gets a different statblock.

Adithar "The Soul God"

If Adithar uses his field and transforms, his health is refilled to max and every spell he has cast is also refreshed. Use his second stat block. Once Adithar uses his field form his CR increases to 37 (315,000 XP).

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing ties). Adithar can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Adithar summons the soul of a godly mage long past that he saved and causes him to cast an 8th-level disintegrate spell on a target.
  The target must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the target takes 96 (16d6+40) force damage. If this damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, it is disintegrated. A disintegrated creature and everything it is wearing and carrying, except magic items, are reduced to a pile of fine gray dust. The creature can be restored to life only by means of a true resurrection or a wish spell.

- Adithar summons the souls of 2 legendary warriors long past that he saved and asks them to fight for him. Each warrior has Statistics equivalent to a Planetar, except that they are considered medium humanoids. Use a planetar or any CR 16 medium humanoid. This lair action cannot be used again for the next 2 rounds.

- Adithar calls the legendary dragon god Bahamut for aid and opens a portal for him. Bahamut's head goes through the portal and he releases his powerful breath of complete and utter disintegration in a 200-foot cone in front of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 157 (15d20) force damage and be stunned for 1 minute on a failed save, or take half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one.

Creatures that die this way turn to dust. Adithar can only use this ability once when he is below half health and only once a day.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Adithar is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Souls, whether good or evil cannot be forcefully taken by anyone.
- Good beings that die are always under the effects of the spell gentle repose.
- Forests become healthier, people are immune to disease, live longer, and in general life becomes better in every way possible.
- Any beings that have taken souls whether indirectly or directly are always under the effects of the spell forbiddance while inside Adithar's field.

Solar Sight. Adithar gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Soul Magnet. A creature in Adithar’s presence must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or be forced to move towards him. Soul-like creatures immediately fail the saving throw.

Soul-Strengthened Angelic Weapons. Adithar’s weapon attacks are magical. When Adithar uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 6d8 radiant damage and 6d8 force damage (included in the attack). This ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance. His weapons use his Charisma modifier instead of his Dexterity or Strength Modifier. Soul Borrow: Every creature that dies within 120 feet of Adithar temporarily gives him a small portion of strength. Each soul taken will give him the following bonuses:
- Adithar regains 30 hit points.
- Adithar gains a +2 bonus to AC until the end of his next turn.
- Adithar gains a +3 bonus to attack and damage rolls until the end of his next turn.

Actions

Multiattack. Adithar makes two attacks with his Kusarigama (chain-sickle).

Kusarigama. Melee Weapon Attack: +19 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 19 (2d8 + 10) slashing damage plus 27 (6d8) radiant damage and 27 (6d8) force damage.

Damnation. Adithar realeases a burst of concentrated soul energy in a 60-foot radius around him. Each creature must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 27 (6d8) radiant damage and 27 (6d8) force damage and be knocked prone on failed save, or take half as much damage and not be knocked prone one a successful one.

Dragon Burst (Recharge 5-6). Adithar summons draconic energy and releases a blast of energy in a 60-foot cone in front of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 97 (15d12) fire, lightning, acid, cold, or radiant damage (Adithar’s choice) on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Adithar touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Bonus Actions

Salvation. As a bonus action Adithar makes a melee attack against a Huge or smaller creature within his reach. If Adithar succeeds he constricts the creature in his Kusarigama, grappling (escape DC 24) and restraining them until the grapple ends. Adithar can only grapple one creature at a time. During his turn, Adithar can move them around within his reach and at the start of his turn he can either release the creature or crush them in his Kusarigama, dealing 19 (2d8 + 10) slashing damage plus 27 (6d8) radiant damage and 27 (6d8) force damage to them. While grappling a creature Adithar cannot attack with his Kusarigama.

Legendary Actions

Adithar can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Adithar regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Adithar magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Kusarigama (Costs 2 Actions). Adithar uses makes a Kusarigama attack.

Judgement (Costs 2 Actions). Adithar uses Salvation or Damnation.

Soul Wave (Costs 4 Actions, 1/Day). Adithar releases the souls in his Infinity box that he gathered in the last minute. Each creature in a 300-foot long and 30-foot wide line must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 78 (12d12) force damage plus 13(2d12) force damage for every soul he released on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. This goes through resistance and treats immunity as resistance. Adithar cannot benefit from the effects of Soul Borrow and cannot store souls in his Infinity box for the next 24 hours. Released souls go to their respective realms, unless they recently died, in which case they linger around their dead body.
Adithar "The Soul God"

"What is better? To be born good or to overcome your evil nature through great effort?"

There was a legend that the most powerful solars rarely used their fields believing that there normal state was enough. There were four of them, four solars that even gods would rather not meet even if it meant befriending them.

Adithar is one of them, he is the third strongest solar below the powerful Taeiix and the allmighty Nephalam.

Caelum "The Sun Emperor"

"After every storm the sun will smile; for every problem there is a solution, and the soul's indefeasible duty is to be of good cheer. - Caelum"

Cheerful and generally jolly, Caelum travels the multiverse with a smile on his face. Some say that Pelor's brightness pales in comparison to the brightness that Caelum emanates when he smiled. While some solars like Arrid and Adithar are examples of kind natured beings, Caelum is the greatest example of a Solar that knows how to be alive and knows how to be happy.

One of the solars that knows true happiness, Caelum travels the multiverse spreading happiness and smiling evil. And unlike most of the solars, Caelum does not mind fighting alongside others and wouldn't second think to apologize.

He charges in battle with a huge mace filled with his divine energy fused with the power of the bright sun.

Despite the comparison people make with Caelum and Pelor, it is a known fact in the outer planes that Caelum serves the sun god himself.

Caelum met the famous deity when he was travelling and noticed that both of them have the same ideals. And because of this, the two super powerful beings constantly meet to chat. Something that both of them treasured. Caelum usually told stories of depressed mortals that he constantly visited to help.

It was something that was a little unknown to the Sun God but basically Caelum explained that some people are evil because of how their mind works. Caelum believed that even the most inherently kindest beings could turn evil if they faced something horrible enough to change them.

Caelum warned Pelor that even the unchangeable Solars where subject to this phenomenon. The very notion that solars are corruptible is blasphemy but the solars know this very well, for they lost a brother through corruption.

After a long time of mourning eventually Caelum started to cheer himself up, safe in the knowledge that their deceased brother would never want them to be this saddened.

It started with a simple smile, and in truth it was a fake smile but eventually it became something of a routine. Until one day he realized he was happy. He prayed for his brother not towards any gods but simply prayed that his brother will never be looked upon as a horrible being by anyone.

His form was said to be like the blinding sun. He believes that Pelor is a truly benevolent deity, when asked what type of person Pelor is he will respond "The sun is a wondrous body. Like a magnificent father! If only I could be so grossly incandescent!"

True to his title Caelum wears a golden armor with a beautiful insignia of Pelor attached to it. His wings are golden with streaks of bright orange and burn with hot radiant fire. Just like his siblings Caelum is both a sign of glory and a symbol of battle once he enters the fray. It is said that armies of demons and legions of devils shy away at the mere presence of a solar, Caelum is no different.

He charges into battle with his war mace in one hand and his divine shield in the other.

Caelum's Field of Judgment

Caelum's field is a place of extreme jolliness and upbeat energy. The good are happy and jolly but the same is not true for any evil. The sun rises and releases beams of holy energy bathing the good and harming the evil. His requirements are just like his brothers. First, Caelum must be facing a powerful entity capable of defeating him if he holds back. Lastly, Caelum must make sure that his field cannot hurt other people unless those people are evil. Once the requirements are met Caelum can set his field increasing his power. A 1000 mile radius area would be filled with his divine domain infused energy influencing the people and materials existing there for 100 years. Caelum's CR increases to 33 (215,000 XP) inside his field.

Once inside his field Caelum gains the following bonuses:

- Each creature that can see Caelum at the start of its turn must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw or be blinded for 1 minute. If a creature succeeds the saving throw they are immune to this effect for 1 hour.
- Caelum's attacks causes enemies to be blinded. Every time Caelum hits a creature with a weapon attack it must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution throw or be blinded until the end of its next turn.
- Every time Caelum deals radiant damage to a creature he heals for 5 hit points. Area of effect abilities and spells heal him for every creature damaged by them. Every time Caelum uses his supernova ability he heals for 100 hit points.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(singing tie), Caelum can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Caelum calls down a concentrated sunbeam in a 60-foot radius on a point he chooses within 200 feet of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the beam strikes the creature, that creature must succeed on a DC 24 Constitution saving throw or be blinded for 1 minute. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.
- Caelum slashes out with sun energy with his hand in front of him. All creatures in a 15-foot cone in front of Caelum must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 14 (4d6) radiant damage plus 14 (4d6) fire damage and is stunned for 1 minute.
- Caelum points his finger in a direction he chooses and fires a beam of pure concentrated sun energy that fires along a straight line up to 1000 feet in a direction Caelum chooses, stopping early if it impacts against a solid surface or a creature. If the beam would strike a creature, that creature must succeed on a DC 24 Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, the beam strikes the target and stops. When the beam strikes something the target takes 35 (10d6) radiant damage and 35 (10d6) fire damage that goes through resistance and treats immunity as resistance. He cannot use it again for the next 2 rounds.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Caelum is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Days last longer by 2 more hours and the nights are unusually bright.
- Wounds heal faster where light wounds are basically scratches while mortal wounds become light wounds.
- Darkness and shadows, magical or not are always weakened.
- Healing from any source is maximized for celestial creatures while they are resting.

Divine Awareness. Caelum knows if he hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Caelum’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 27). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
- At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), sunbeam (casting time and moving the beam is a bonus action), shield
- 3/day each: sunburst (casting time is a bonus action), plane shift
- 1/day each: meteor swarm, gate

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Caelum fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Caelum has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Caelum gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Sun Aura. At the start of Caelum’s turn, each creature within 5 feet of him takes 10d6 radiant damage.

Sun-Imbued Weapons. Caelum’s weapon attacks are magical. When Caelum uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 3d8 fire damage plus 3d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).

Wings of Icarus. Every 2 rounds at the start of Caelum’s turn he releases a small burst of sun energy around him. Each creature within 30 feet of him takes 21 (6d6) radiant damage.

Actions

Multiattack. Caelum makes three melee attacks: one with his Shield Bash attack and two with his Sun Mace attack.

Sun Mace. Melee Weapon Attack: +17 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 16 (2d6 + 9) bludgeoning damage plus 13 (3d8) fire damage and 13 (3d8) radiant damage.

Shield Bash. Melee Weapon Attack: +17 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 14 (2d6 + 9) bludgeoning damage plus 13 (3d8) fire damage and 13 (3d8) radiant damage. The target must succeed on a DC 26 Constitution saving throw or be stunned until the end of Caelum’s next turn.

Sunlight Stake (Recharge 5-6). Caelum chooses a 30-foot radius area on the ground that he can see within 120 feet of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 45 (10d8) radiant damage plus 45 (10d8) fire damage and be impaled by a Sunlight Stake into the ground on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be impaled on a successful one. As long as a creature is impaled it is restrained by the Sunlight Stake. A creature can take an action to attempt a DC 22 Strength check, freeing itself or another creature within its reach and ending the restrained condition on a success.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Caelum touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Supernova (1/Day). Caelum creates a miniature sun within his palms that he can detonate at the start of his next turn. Once it detonates it reaches a 1000-foot-radius. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 82 (15d10) force damage, 82 (15d10) radiant damage, and 82 (15d10) fire damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. This attack goes through resistance but not through immunity. Creatures killed by this ability turns to dust. After the supernova explodes Caelum can’t move and take any action, bonus action or legendary action until the start of his next turn.

Creatures that are within 100 feet of the center take the full 15d10 damage of the three damage types.
Creatures that are within 250 feet of the center take 10d10 damage of the three damage types.
Creatures that are within 500 feet of the center take 5d10 damage of the three damage types.
Creatures that are farther away than 500 feet take 3d10 damage of the three damage types.

Legendary Actions

Caelum can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Caelum regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Caelum magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Sun Mace. Caelum makes a Sun Mace attack.

Shield Bash. Caelum makes a Shield Bash attack.

Sunlight Stake (Costs 3 Actions). Caelum makes a Sunlight Stake attack if it is available.

Sunlight Spear (Costs 4 Actions, 3/day). Caelum creates a spear made out of pure sunlight and throws it at an enemy within 150-feet of him. A creature must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 165 (30d10) radiant damage that goes through resistance but not immunity. On a successful save, a creature takes no damage.
TYSTRA "THE MOON EMPRESS"

"THE MOON IS A LOYAL COMPANION. IT NEVER LEAVES. IT'S ALWAYS THERE, WATCHING, STEADFAST, KNOWING US IN OUR LIGHT AND DARK MOMENTS, CHANGING FOREVER JUST AS WE DO. EVERY DAY IT'S A DIFFERENT VERSION OF ITSELF. SOMETIMES WEAK AND WANDING, SOMETIMES STRONG AND FULL OF LIGHT. THE MOON UNDERSTANDS WHAT IT MEANS TO BE MORTAL. UNCERTAIN. ALONE. CRATERED BY IMPERFECTIONS. - TYSTRA"

A deep thinker and very melancholic, Tystra is the pure opposite of her sibling, Caelum. It is common knowledge for mortals that the solars are all male but this untrue. Out of the 24 solars 4 of them are female and for what reason they were made, it is still unknown. Tystra was the first female of the five female solars that were made, because of this she questioned her existence the most leading to her current attitude.

Though eventually she stopped questioning herself and instead tried to find meaning in her existence so that she could find the most optimal way of helping others in her own way. But it took a lot out of her, she found herself questioning her existence more and more. What was the point of her being female. Would it have been any different if she was male like all her other brothers.

But nevertheless Tystra did her best to protect those who were oppressed and save those who were abused. Despite her questions, Tystra was still a solar.

She was still the shining moonlight that banished the darkness, the indomitable strength of the heavens when hell needs to be pushed back.

Tystra donned the mantle of the moon empress, something she thought was very fitting once she became close friends with Caelum. She thought that her brother would shun her but nothing of the sort was present from the shining and bright solar. She believed that she was good in her own way and decided not to change nor question herself.

But her personality was already set and she became a quiet and melancholic deep thinker though no longer accompanied by the deep sadness she used to have.

During her journeys Tystra met Selune, the moon goddess. Due to her attitude Tystra simply made small talk with the goddess. And surprisingly for her she made an acquaintance. It would have been cliche if Tystra pledged to Selune because she became close friends with her like how Caelum and Pelor became close but they did not.

It was not long after that Tystra pledged herself to the moon goddess and became her closest ally and closest friend, above her exarchs and more than her closest friends.

Tystra disliked noisy affairs, despite her close friendship with Caelum. She especially disliked noisy and destructive villains, she makes sure that such enemies die quiet rather than die screaming.

Caelum constantly visits Tystra for sibling bonding and because they are also very close, exhibiting a more close relation than the other solars.

Wearing dark violet clothing paired with her luminescent deep blue colored hair, Tystra is the calm before the storm once she enters the battlefield. It is said that her enchanting bright violet eyes that glow in the dark are usually the last things evil beings see before they die.

When in battle Tystra wields two moon-shaped blades. She dual-wields them and is extremely deadly in her own fighting style. Her graceful appearance and lack of intimidating presence makes her enemies go silent even when in the middle of combat. Her very presence silences the area.

TYSTRA'S FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Tystra's field of judgement is closely linked to the moon. Once she activates it a deep and beautiful full moon descends and covers the sky turning morning to night. Unlike Caelum's field which brightens the mood, Tystra's field dampens the mood and goes even further by inhibiting people's abilities to read others motive or hide motives. Her requirements are simple, her enemies must be capable of defeating her and it only acts as a last resort. Once the requirements are met, Tystra can activate her field increasing her power. A 1000 mile radius area would be filled with her divine domain infused energy influencing the people and environment existing there for 100 years. Tystra's CR increases to 31 (175,000 XP) inside her field.

Once inside her field Tystra gains the following bonuses:

- Wherever Tystra moves, a 30 foot radius cloud of magical darkness follows her. The cloud acts as a 5th level darkness spell. If dispelled it reforms itself after 3 turns.
- The reach of Tystra's melee weapon attacks increases to 20 feet.
- When a creature is damaged by Tystra's weapon attacks it's hit point maximum are magically reduced by the same amount. If a creature's hit point maximum is reduced to 0 by this effect, the creature dies. A creature's hit point maximum can be restored with the lesser restoration spell or similar magic.

LAIR ACTIONS

On initiative count 20(rolling tie), Tystra can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; she can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Tystra calls a silvery beam of powerful pale moonlight that shines down in a 60 foot radius, 480 foot high cylinder centered on a point she can see. Creatures in the radius must succeed on a DC 24 Dexterity saving throw, taking 33 (6d10) force damage and be blinded on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be blinded on a successful one.
- Tystra calls down a small meteor that hits in 100-foot radius centered on a point she can see. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 24 Dexterity saving throw, taking 52 (15d6) magical bludgeoning damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.
- Tystra calls upon the solemn feeling of the moon. Each creature in a 300-foot radius around Tystra must succeed on a DC 24 Wisdom saving or be magically charmed for 1 minute. The charmed creature regards Tystra as a trusted friend to be heeded and protected. Although the target is not under Tystra's control, it takes Tystra's requests or actions in the most favorable way it can. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

REGIONAL EFFECTS

The region containing the field of judgement by Tystra is warped by her magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Nights last longer by 2 more hours and the sun takes on a bluish tinge.
- Deep thinking results in inspirational ideas. Mechanical ideas and revolutionary ideas prosper really well in this domain.
- All forms of regeneration or healing for fiends, aberrations, fey and elementals do not work.

Multiattack. Tystra makes four Moon-Blades attacks.

Moon-Blades. Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 24 (4d6 + 10) slashing damage plus 18 (4d8) force damage.

Lunar Slash (Recharge 5-6). Ranged Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, range 60/300 ft., one target. Hit 90 (20d8) force damage and if the target is a creature it must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw. A creature that fails the saving throw also loses 1d4 points from its Strength score. A creature reduced to 0 Strength is unconscious until it regains at least 1 point of Strength. Strength lost to Lunar Slash returns when the creature finishes a short or long rest.

Moonlight Sonata (Recharge 3-6). Tystra steps towards her enemies and becomes invisible. Moving with lightning speed she attacks every creature of her choosing in a 60-foot radius around her. Each creature must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 63 (18d6) slashing plus 36 (8d8) force damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Tystra touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Reactions

Force. When a creature moves into her reach, Tystra can release a burst of energy, pushing away all creatures in a 10-foot radius around her 10 feet away.

Parry. Tystra adds 3 to her AC against one melee Attack that would hit her. To do so, Tystra must be wielding a melee weapon. She can use this even when blinded.

Legendary Actions

Tystra can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Tystra regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Tystra magically teleports, along with any equipment she is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space she can see.

Moon Blade. Tystra makes a Moon Blade attack.

Lunar Slash (Costs 2 Actions). Tystra makes a Lunar Slash attack if available.

Lunar Cannon (Costs 3 Actions, Recharge 6). Tystra slices her blade towards her other blade releasing a powerful burst of lunar force towards an enemy within 60 feet of her. A targeted creature must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw, taking 112 (25d8) force damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one. Additionally on a failed save, a target begins to turn to stone and is restrained. The restrained target must repeat the saving throw at the end of its next turn. On a success, the effect ends on the target. On a failure, the target is petrified until freed by the greater restoration spell or other magic.
Viryn "The Good Mercenary"

"Tell me who is good, the one who saved many and few died or the one who saved many injured but no one died. In the end whether you do things the right way or another way as long as everyone is saved nothing else matters, when you're down from the casualties pick yourself up because not everyone was lucky enough to be saved. - Viryn"

While all solars do good in the ways they can it does not mean they have no weakness. An example is the justice ridden solar Viryn. While he shows the exemplary form of justice that all solars have, Viryn has been called one of the more stupid solars. He is still a genius compared to normal beings but compared to solars Viryn is below average.

Due to this, his way of fighting evil was quite unorthodox. Viryn did nothing but destroy evil creatures. While this might seem the generic job of solars, all solars find a way to help further the good things in life, which Viryn did not. To counter his weakness Viryn instead looked for a way to help others. He became something akin to a mercenary but instead of money Viryn took favors in exchange for destroying evil creatures. When Viryn was in a world where a kingdom was threatened by a powerful evil mage, Viryn made an exchange. He would destroy the evil mage and in exchange the kingdom would help the poor and start removing crime and corruption.

While most beings would think this a stupid way since there is no form of assurance, Viryn found his own countermeasure. Viryn was proficient in using the spell geas and he found a way to use it permanently and on a large amount of people. When Viryn destroyed the evil mage he activated the magic on the kingdom. The king who first planned on duping the angel was forced to comply. He turned to things that helped the kingdom.

A few years later the kingdom would be named Eden and would be one of the few cities that would be called a utopia. This style of helping caused Viryn to be one of the most famous solars as it allowed actual long lasting changes.

Kingdoms become dynasties, planets become utopias, life in general becomes better due to Viryn's philosophy and style of helping. If one has the ability to help others, do it, that is what Viryn always says. This style of helping has made Viryn the target of hundreds of tricks, but despite that he managed to foil every single one.

Devils are Viryn's most common enemy, for they all wish to corrupt him by using his philosophy to do evil things. Because of their aggressiveness to corrupt him, Viryn has made devils to be his most hated enemies. While challenging in battle, he can charge with the same zeal as Namar or the same righteousness as Caelum.

When Viryn charges he raises his greatsword as he blasts his enemies with his divine magic. Devils and alike tremble when the good mercenary takes a job.

Viryn tends to be an optimistic being, seeing as he likes spending time with Arrid, Namar, and Caelum. While Viryn is a very outgoing being he doesn't have any quarrels with Velik as the two hate devils with a passion, and Aziraphale and Viryn constantly does contracts when Aziraphale deems that his angels are not enough.

Wearing simple white clothing Viryn travels the multiverse and usually roams the planes near the material plane. His magical powers are just like Velik's and Arrid's, he refused to find other sources and instead uses his inherent skills to the maximum.

Viryn is also mostly known when he made a deal with the god of justice. Tyr to escort an extremely important prisoner, to what the deal meant only the two knew.

Viryn's Field of Judgement

Due to Viryn's lack of extra power, he can choose to activate his field at any time he chooses. Once activated people affected by his Geas are now unable to escape his field nor can they use any magical ways of leaving it. Viryn will also be able to sense wherever they are. Viryn can activate his field increasing his power. A 1000 mile radius area would be filled with his divine energy influencing the people and environment existing there for 100 years. Viryn's CR increases to 32 (195,000 XP) inside his field.

Once inside his field Viryn gains the following bonuses:

- Viryn can use his reaction to make a dodge/disengage action.
- When Viryn uses the spell shield the bonus to AC is doubled.
- Viryn can use a reaction to attack a creature within his range with any of his melee attacks.
- When Viryn would hit with a weapon attack he can double the damage from his Honed Angelic Weapons trait until the start of his next turn. Once he uses this trait 3 times it can't be used again until the next dawn.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (losing ties), Viryn can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Viryn generates a 30 foot radius magical field around him, protecting him and any number of creatures that he chooses. Each creature gains a +5 to their AC and a +5 to their saving throws while in this field.
- Viryn creates an extremely condensed magical field and throws it towards a creature within 300 feet of him. The target must fail a DC 24 Dexterity saving throw, taking 49 (9d10) bludgeoning damage and 33 (6d10) force damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.
- Viryn slams his hand on the floor creating 10 walls that are 5 feet thick and 20 feet long. He can control where these walls appear and each wall functions the same as the spell wall of stone. Each wall has an AC of 20 and 100 hit points.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Viryn is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Evil creatures that have natural armor have their AC reduced by 2.
- Good-natured favors and deals are well respected and creatures making them are under the geas spell to keep them.
- Anybody that abuses the effects of the field must make a DC 26 Wisdom saving throw or suffer the spell geas and will be forced to do good.

Damage Resistance radiant, bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing damage from nonmagical weapons
Damage Immunities force, necrotic, poison
Condition Immunities charmed, exhaustion, frightened, paralyzed, poisoned, blinded

Senses truesight 120 ft., passive Perception 34
Languages All, telepathy 120 ft.
Challenge 30 (15,000 XP)

Contract Breaker. When fighting a creature that manages to break a contract made between them, Viryn has advantage on his attack rolls, and saving throws against that creature. In addition he gains +5 to his non-magic missile damage rolls, and 10 more missiles to his magic missile spells. These creatures are labeled contract breakers.

Divine Aura. Viryn naturally exudes an aura of energy in a 30-foot radius around him. Ranged attacks outside of the aura have disadvantage. Magic missiles outside the aura, cannot damage him.

Divine Force. Viryn is a powerful source of magical energy. Any time Viryn is targeted by a 4th lvl or lower magic missile spell, line spell, spell that requires a ranged attack roll or spell that requires a single target the caster must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or have the spell reflected back at them as though it originated from Viryn, using his spell DC.

Honed Angelic Weapons. Viryn’s weapon attacks are magical. When Viryn uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 8d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).

Innate Spellcasting. Viryn’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 27, +14 to hit). Viryn can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
- At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), magic missile (10 arrows), shield, geas (9th level), casting time: 1 minute, Bonus Action, can only be dispelled with a wish spell or similar magic
- 3/day each: magic missile (20 missiles), wall of force, counterspell (8th level), plane shift
- 1/day each: magic missile (30 missiles), gate

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Viryn fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Viryn has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Quick Contract. Creatures affected by Viryn’s geas spell are considered in a contract with him. When they go against the instruction of the geas they are considered contract breakers. Creatures can be affected by multiple of Viryn’s geas spells.

Solar Sight. Viryn gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Actions

Multitarget. Viryn makes two holy greatsword attacks.

Holy Greatsword. Melee Weapon Attack: +15 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 21 (4d6 + 7) slashing damage plus 36 (8d8) radiant damage.

Holy Contract (Recharge 4-6). Viryn invokes his right to judge evil-doers in a 100-foot radius around him. Each creature must succeed on a DC 27 Charisma saving throw, taking 74 (12d8) radiant damage and be stunned until the end of their next turn on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one. This has no effect on good creatures.

Holy Blast (Recharge 6). Viryn raises his hand and conjures a blast of pure divine energy in a 500-foot long and 20-foot wide area. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 112 (23d8) radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Holy Resolution (1/Day). Viryn invokes his absolute geas on all creatures affected by his geas spell that he chooses. Affected creatures on the same plane must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or take one command that they must do on their next turn or die. The command has to be one that they are able to do in one turn. A remove curse, greater restoration, or wish cannot remove this ability. After he uses Holy Resolution all of his geas spells are dispelled except for the ones affected by Holy Resolution.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Viryn touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Reactions

Stun. Viryn can stun contract breakers as a reaction. A creature Viryn can see must succeed on a DC 27 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save the creature is stunned for 1 minute. It can repeat the saving throw at the end of its turn, ending the effect on a success. It has no effect on beings with no contract with Viryn.

Legendary Actions

Viryn can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Viryn regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Viryn magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Holy Greatsword. Viryn makes a Holy Greatsword attack.

Combo (Costs 2 Actions). Viryn makes three Holy Greatsword attacks with disadvantage.

Holy Contract (Costs 2 Actions). Viryn uses his Holy Contract action if available.

Limit Breaker (Costs 4 Actions, 1/Day). Viryn goes beyond his current limit and attacks one creature with a barrage of combos that ends with a holy blast attack. The creature must succeed on a DC 27 Dexterity saving throw, taking 63 (12d6 + 21) slashing damage plus 220 (49d8) radiant damage on a failed save, or no damage on a successful one. This ability ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance. After he uses this ability, he loses his immunity to exhaustion and gains 3 levels of exhaustion.
KAMELA "Paradigmatic Enchantress"

"Anyone with a good heart, is beautiful in their own way. - KAMELA"

With a penchant for fashion and a talented mind, Kamefa travels the multiverse bringing amazing fashion styles that surpasses all current and possibly all that will come fashion styles but every once in a while she also brings a good dose of solar-style world saving.

Similar to her super happy brother, Caelum, Kamefa found her own calling in life, to design out-of-this-world fashion styles.

Kamefa travels the multiverse looking for inspiration everywhere. She would visit a famous dress shop in a bustling city, sometimes an old sewist but either way Kamefa makes sure she finds an inspiration. It is not uncommon for Kamefa to have connections with many mortals due to her constant wish of finding more inspiring events.

And when she finds inspiration Kamefa turns it into reality Kamefa also is very kind in nature, she seems to always find a topic to talk to with other people all the time and most of the time these people would not know that they are talking to a being like Kamefa. They would think she is a rich noble due to her beautiful clothing.

She sometimes takes her time pretending to be mortal and live with the mortals she finds extremely interesting. It would not be a surprise to see Kamefa in an actual relationship with another mortal. While solar's rarely have actual romantic relationships, as they believe it harms their ability to be unbiased protectors of all that is good, some of them actually pursue relationships with beings that are good and they find worthy.

Other than Kamefa only a select few solars are brave enough to take another partner, something which they all ask their eldest brother for permission first. As they must be prepared for the full responsibility of having a partner especially when it comes to choosing to do what is right, even if it means the loss of a loved one.

Although Kamefa has made thousands of friends and acquaintances but none of them is as close to her as her best friend, Redempta. A mortal of exquisite tastes and interesting hobbies, Redempta took Kamefa's interest by storm and the two became fast friends.

But due to her responsibilities, there were times Kamefa would not come back for weeks and sometimes months which made Redempta melancholic. Eventually Kamefa stopped coming, not because she no longer wanted to be with Redempta, it was because she would no longer be able to do her job as a solar otherwise, so she left but vowed to come back.

It took years before Kamefa was able to visit Redempta again and when she did it was not a laughing matter anymore. The next time Kamefa came back, she could no longer find Redempta.

Worried for her friend Kamefa looked around and found out that her best friend has long since passed. Unbeknownst to her Redempta was cursed when Kamefa disappeared. It seems she tried her best to look for her missing friend Kamefa but it ended with her dying.

Heartbroken and grieving Kamefa lost her spark and she started to wander the world saving others as she would always do. She would become like her brother, Velik, if she continued being like this.

It was when she visited her eldest brother that she was refreshed. Her eldest brother, Xephalam owns a beautiful realm filled with divine flowers that he has cultivated. He sometimes takes his siblings there to meditate or reflect on their current actions. She managed to resume her old attitude and promised to take responsibility for the mortals that she would take in lest what happened to Redempta occurs again.

KAMELA'S FIELD OF JUDGEMENT

Kamefa's field is something she created due to an inspired moment. Her field of judgement is a giant net that captures all her opponents and prevents escape. And unlike most solars, Kamefa can easily activate her field due to it's non combat nature. Her field is mostly utility and simply allows Kamefa better control over the field. Kamefa can activate her field increasing her power. A 1000 mile radius area would be filled with her divine energy influencing the people and environment existing there for 100 years. Kamefa's CR increases to 29 (135,000 XP) inside her field.

Once inside her field Kamefa gains the following bonuses:

- When Kamefa uses the entangle spell she does not have to hold concentration on it and it only disappears when her field disappears.
- Kamefa is also always under the effect of the spell spider clamber.
- Kamefa is also always under the effect of the spell freedom of movement.
- Kamefa's walking speed increases by 100 feet.
- Kamefa's AC increases to 21.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing tie), Kamefa can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; she can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Kamefa activates her field's net-like properties. Each creature of her choosing in a 300 foot radius around her must succeed on a DC 22 Strength saving throw or be moved up to 60 feet away from her current position to an unoccupied space of Kamefa's choice.
- Kamefa activates her field's net-like properties and each creature of her choosing must succeed on a DC 22 Strength saving throw or be knocked prone and be restrained for 1 minute. A restrained creature takes 27 (6d8) slashing damage at the start of its turn. A creature can take an action to attempt a DC 17 Strength check, freeing itself or another creature within its reach and ending the restrained condition on a success.
- The strings of the field vibrate strongly in a 100 foot radius centered on a point on the ground that Kamefa can see within 500 feet of her. The 100 foot radius area is under the effects of the spell earthquake (DC 22) until she uses another lair action.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Kamefa is warped by her magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Invisible strings are everywhere inside a 1000 mile radius area around her which act like signals for Kamefa.
- The strings react strongly at the presence of powerful evil creatures or dangerous events.
- The strings allow Kamefa to have near limitless vision inside her area.

Divine Awareness: Kamela knows if she hears a lie.

Divine Fan: Kamela’s weapon attacks are magical. When Kamela uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 6d8 radiant damage (included in the attack). Kamela uses her Charisma modifier when determining her attack modifier.

Innate Spellcasting: Kamela’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 29). She can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
- At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), entangle ( Casting Time: Bonus Action)
- 3/day each: hold person (6th level), hold monster (6th level), counterspell (8th level), plane shift
- 1/day each: gate

Legendary Resistance (3/Day): If Kamela fails a saving throw, she can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance: Kamela has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight: Kamela gains a +5 bonus to her Perception skill.

Weapon Master: Kamela has complete mastery of weapons and when she hits a creature with a Divine Fan attack she can try to disarm it. A creature must succeed on a DC 21 Dexterity saving throw or be disarmed. Kamela can then throw the weapon up to 30 feet away.

Divine Swords: When Kamela attacks with her fans, 2 swords of divine power manifest around her. These swords occupy Kamela’s space. Each sword has 10 AC, 10 hit points, 30 ft. flying movement, a size of Tiny and immunity to radiant, force, poison, psychic and bludgeoning, piercing, and slashing damage from nonmagical weapons. A sword can be destroyed only by an attack that hits it. It ignores all other damage and effects. The swords use Kamela’s Charisma modifier as their attack roll.

- If Kamela would take damage, she can use her reaction to choose one of her existing divine swords. The damage is instead transferred to it. If the damage is above the sword’s hit points, the sword is destroyed and the remaining damage must be transferred to another sword instead. Repeat this until all of the damage is transferred. If there are no swords left to take damage, Kamela takes the remaining damage.
- Kamela can use a bonus action to make all her swords attack a single or multiple targets within her reach. Make a +13 melee weapon attack for every sword. Each sword deals 5 (1d10) radiant damage.
- Kamela uses a bonus action to absorb up to 10 swords, destroying them. Kamela regains 5 hit points for every sword she absorbed.

Actions

Multiattack: Kamela makes three divine fan attacks.

Divine Fan. Ranged Weapon Attack: +20 to hit, range 30/90 ft., one target. Hit 27 (6d8) radiant damage and summons 2 divine swords.

Divine Calling (Recharge 6): Kamela invokes her divine power, summoning 10 divine swords immediately.

Sacred Blade (Recharge 5-6): Kamela summons a burning white sacred blade made out of her own essence. It is treated as a divine sword with the exception that it has an AC of 20 and hit points of 100, is considered a large creature and occupies a space within 30 feet of Kamela. If this sword makes an attack roll and hits, it does 44 (8d10) radiant damage.

Desperate Power (1/Day): Once Kamela reaches half health (210) she can reach deep inside her power and summon 100 swords. Every creature in 90-foot radius around her must succeed on a DC 21 Dexterity saving throw, taking 275 (50d10) radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The swords disappear after this attack and she cannot summon swords for the next 24 hours.

Healing Touch (4/Day): Kamela touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Reactions

Blade Dance: Kamela sacrifices as many divine swords as she wants to protect her from an incoming attack. Each sword increases her AC by 1 until the start of her next turn. Each sacrificed sword is destroyed.

Legendary Actions

Kamela can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Kamela regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport: Kamela magically teleports, along with any equipment she is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space she can see.

Blade Healing: Kamela sacrifices up to 10 swords to heal herself for 5 hit points for each sword.

Divine Fan: Kamela makes a Divine Fan attack.

Blade Command (Costs 2 Actions): Kamela orders up to 30 swords to attack a creature.

Divine Slash (Costs 4 Actions): Kamela grabs a Sacred Blade within 5 feet of her and uses it to release a 100-foot long 5-foot wide divine slash in a direction she chooses. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 29 Dexterity saving throw, taking 66 (12d10) radiant and 66 (12d10) slashing damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The Sacred Blade dissipates after Kamela uses this ability.
Kaiyoqua "The Wings of the True Seas"

"We know only too well that what we are doing is nothing more than a drop in the ocean. But if the drop were not there, the ocean would be missing something. - Kaiyoqua"

When Ragani first mastered the flames of the primordials, three other solars followed his example even though their eldest brother advised against it. Kaiyoqua went to the Elemental Chaos and entered the Elemental Plane of Water.

Eventually his elder brother left him alone to reflect. Kaiyoqua affirmed his suspicion. He asked for the reason and the eldest was nothing but a speck compared to his brother. Slowly he learned to control the elemental water with the help of the water primordials. In no time at all, Kaiyoqua mastered the control of the element and became either just as strong or stronger than his brother, Ragani.

When he finished his training, Kaiyoqua travelled the multiverse to make his mark, just like all his other siblings. Kaiyoqua found himself wanting. Seeking for more strength Kaiyoqua found himself destroying evil water elements, dragon turtles and even ancient krakens. Each time he destroyed one he would strengthen himself by absorbing their essences.

But even if he was a being as good and as kind as a solar, Kaiyoqua found himself on the edge of corruption. The taste of power drove Kaiyoqua to destroy evil with an extreme passion and a slight tinge of gluttony.

It was at this point when Kaiyoqua found himself alone, all of his powerful enemies either long destroyed or gone into hiding, that he thirsted for more power. Kaiyoqua then started to search out even the weaker evil creatures. He found them lacking.

It did not take him long to realize that not only evil creatures can harbor powerful essences, but so can good creatures. Kaiyoqua started hunting powerful creatures, good or bad, and started absorbing more and more of their essences to make himself more powerful. It was when he was about to strike down a devout paladin, that his vision suddenly cleared as if a magical haze covering him had disappeared.

In his shame, he healed the wounded paladin and left. When he finished his training, Kaiyoqua travelled the multiverse to make his mark, just like all his other siblings. Kaiyoqua found himself wanting. Seeking for more strength Kaiyoqua found himself destroying evil water elements, dragon turtles and even ancient krakens. Each time he destroyed one he would strengthen himself by absorbing their essences.

When Xephalam was about to strike down a devout paladin, he heard Kaiyoqua say, "I will destroy evil with the strength of the elements." Xephalam was shocked. He went to the Elemental Chaos and entered the Elemental Plane of Water.

When he asked if it was his brother that saved him, Xephalam affirmed his suspicion. He asked for the reason and the eldest answered that he did not want to kill another sibling. Kaiyoqua did not ask anything else and sat in the gazebo to meditate. Eventually his elder brother left him alone to reflect.

After a while he realized his mistake and decided to change. He came out of his brother's realm fully realized and changed. Now with his sight set on the right path again, Kaiyoqua charges forward to defeat evil with the strength of the elements.

Kaiyoqua's Field of Judgement

Kaiyoqua's field of judgement is any location inhabited by an extremely powerful evil capable of upturning the balance of a plane. He must first defeat an opponent evil and powerful enough to warrant activating his field. Because once he uses his field, a 1,000 mile radius would be flooded by the elemental waters he calls his powers, leaving it as a flooded sea for 100 years. Kaiyoqua's CR increases to 28 (120,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field, Kaiyoqua gains the following bonuses:

- Kaiyoqua gains the Water Form trait. He can enter a hostile creature's space and stop there. He can move through a space as narrow as 1 inch wide without squeezing.
- Kaiyoqua's swim speed is increased by 100 feet.
- Kaiyoqua's water-based attacks, abilities, and spells ignore bludgeoning resistance and treat immunity as resistance.
- Kaiyoqua's attacks, abilities, and spells that deal cold damage ignore cold resistance and treat immunity as resistance.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (singing ties), Kaiyoqua can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Kaiyoqua controls the sea that his field creates and creates a powerful huge vortex in a 1000-foot radius around him. All creatures within the vortex must make a DC 22 Strength saving throw or be pulled 30 feet closer towards him. The area is considered difficult terrain, and creatures that succeed on this saving throw are not pulled, but they must make another saving throw on their next turn or be pulled 30 feet closer towards him. Those that fail their saving throw take 35 (10d6) bludgeoning damage plus 35 (10d6) cold damage. Creatures that succeed on their saving throws take half damage.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Kaiyoqua is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Healing from any source is maximized for water-based creatures while they are resting.
- Fire cannot last in this area and dies quickly. The temperature also goes down to near freezing.
- Sea life that lives in this field is more fresh and naturally healthier.

Challenge 26 (90,000 XP)

Divine Awareness. Kaiyoqua knows if he hears a lie.

Frozen Angelic Weapons. Kaiyoqua’s weapon attacks are magical. When Kaiyoqua uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 4d8 radiant and 4d8 cold damage (included in the attack).

Innate Spellcasting. Kaiyoqua’s spellcasting ability is Charisma. He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
- At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), absorb elements (5th level)
- 3/day each: wall of ice (8th level), cone of cold (8th level), plane shift
- 1/day each: tsunami (No Casting Time), otiluke’s freezing sphere (20d6 damage)

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Kaiyoqua fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Kaiyoqua has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Sea Wings. A creature that touches Kaiyoqua or hits Kaiyoqua with a melee attack while within 5 feet of him takes 10 (3d6) cold damage.

Solar Sight. Kaiyoqua gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Water Control. Water, magical or not, cannot impede, restrain or damage Kaiyoqua.

Actions
- Multiattack. Kaiyoqua makes two attacks with his Frozen Trident.
- Frozen Trident. Melee Weapon Attack: +17 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 16 (2d8+10) slashing damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 18 (4d8) cold damage.
- Frozen Slaying Greatbow. Ranged Weapon Attack: +17 to hit, range 150/600 ft., one target. Hit: 28 (4d8+10) piercing damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 18 (4d8) cold damage. If the target is a creature that has 100 hit points or fewer, it must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or die.
- Frozen Field (Recharge 4-6). Kaiyoqua creates a 30-foot radius field of frozen ice centered on a point he can see within 200 feet of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 26 Strength saving throw or take 42 (12d6) cold damage and be restrained (escape DC 23) for 1 minute. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.
- Pressure Cannon (Recharge 5-6). Kaiyoqua releases a burst of pressurized water in a 150-foot cone in front of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 26 Dexterity saving throw, taking 42 (12d6) cold damage, be knocked back 30 feet away from Kaiyoqua and be knocked prone on a failed save, or take half as much damage, not be knocked back and not be knocked prone on a successful one.
- Healing Touch (4/Day). Kaiyoqua touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions
Kaiyoqua can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Kaiyoqua regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Kaiyoqua magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Ice Burst (Costs 2 Actions). Kaiyoqua emits magical cold energy. Each creature of his choice in a 10-foot radius centered on a point he can see within 60 feet of him must succeed on a DC 26 Dexterity saving throw, taking 42 (12d6) bludgeoning damage and 42 (12d6) cold damage, be knocked back 30 feet away from Kaiyoqua and be knocked prone on a failed save, or take half as much damage, not be knocked back and not be knocked prone on a successful one.

Pressure Cannon (Costs 3 Actions). Kaiyoqua makes a pressure cannon attack if available.

Cone of Absolute Ice (Costs 4 Actions, 3/Day). A blast of powerful cold air erupts from Kaiyoqua’s hands. Each creature in a 120-foot cone must succeed on a DC 26 Constitution saving throw taking 90 (20d8) cold damage on a failed save and half as much on a successful one. On a failed save, a target begins to turn to ice and is restrained. The restrained target must repeat the saving throw at the end of its next turn. On a success, the effect ends on the target. On a failure, the target is turned into ice (petrified) until freed by the greater restoration spell or other magic.
ZADACREL "THE PRAYER OF A THOUSAND"

"PRAYER IS NOT ASKING. IT IS A LONGING OF THE SOUL. IT IS DAILY ADMISSION OF ONE'S WEAKNESS. IT IS BETTER IN PRAYER TO HAVE A HEART WITHOUT WORDS THAN WORDS WITHOUT A HEART. - ZADACREL"

When the gods fail their responsibility to take care of the mortals that need them, a small sincere prayer that invokes Zadacrel's name is all it takes for his magic to save them.

When the gods first took responsibility for the welfare and survival of most mortals, other powerful beings such as Zadacrel took offence to this as a lot of them believed no one had the right to decide over the mortals, especially considering that they have their own free will.

But the will of the gods was overwhelming and their numbers forced the other powerful beings to back down. Eventually almost all the mortals were under some form of religion or cult that revered the gods.

At first it went well, the gods properly took care of their followers but eventually the population of the mortals spiraled out of control and the gods could not take care of them all. This angered the benevolent beings that did not agree with the god's desire to take in and control the mortals.

One of these powerful beings was the extremely benevolent Zadacrel. Despite his anger, the gods did not change and he decided to take it in his own hands.

But he himself was not a god and he could not give clerical power to the mortals, unless it is by a pact, something akin to a warlock and a patron. While he could have done that to every mortal he met, it would have caused total chaos and the mortals might have abused his power.

And ascending to godhood was out of the question, while very easy for someone of his power, his eldest brother would be disappointed, something all the solars are afraid of.

So instead of becoming something he disapproves, he created something that no other creature could possibly make. A powerful blessing that affected the whole multiverse. With the help of his eldest brother, Zadacrel created a ritual that encompassed an entire plane. A spell that surpassed anything ever created.

This spell was not offensive nor did it protect people from evil. Instead it was a powerful response that invoked the powers of Zadacrel, when people sincerely prayed and asked for his guidance and help.

The gods scoffed at this and said their followers would never betray them, since the spell itself had requirements for a mortal to be able to invoke it. The first requirement was that one must be mortal, secondly they must be willing to forsake their gods, thirdly they must be both good and benevolent, and lastly the prayer must be sincere, something said at one's most desperate moments in their lives.

Despite the insane amount of power this spell has, mortals can only invoke this prayer twice within their lives and invoking it a third time would cause one of the following effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Zadacrel goes quiet and prays for himself and those that he wishes to save. Each creature within a 100 foot radius around him must succeed on a DC 24 Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by him. A creature charmed by Zadacrel's ability will not do anything harmful to Zadacrel or any other good mortal. Each time a charmed creature takes damage, it makes a new Wisdom saving throw against the spell. If the saving throw succeeds, the effect ends.

- Zadacrel creates a spherical, powerful barrier that ranges from between a 5 foot to 100 foot radius around him. The barrier acts as a wall of force. The barrier lasts as long as Zadacrel wants unless he dismisses it, uses it again or until he loses his concentration (as if he was concentrating on a spell). He can concentrate on the barrier in addition to his other spells. He makes a separate Constitution saving throw for it, every time he is damaged.

- Zadacrel releases a burst of powerful divine energy around a 100-foot radius around him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 24 Strength saving throw, taking 35 (10d6) radiant damage, be knocked prone and have their speed reduced to 0 until the end of their next turn on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be knocked prone and have their speed reduced to 0 on a successful one.

REGIONAL EFFECTS

The region containing the field of judgement by Zadacrel is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Good aligned creatures gain a shield that has 10 hit points and will block any form of damage for them unless destroyed. Once destroyed the shield regenerates at dawn.

- Evil aligned creatures lose their magic resistance, if they have the trait and their attacks will always deal half damage, that can further be reduced by resistances.

- Any form of violence or evil act will be reduced and naturally inhibited. Neutral creatures have the tendency to do good, while evil creatures have the tendency not to do evil.
True Magic: Prayer

When Zadacrel earned the faith of countless worlds, he understood the deepness and importance of prayer to fill others with hope, thus he learned the concept of prayer. The reason why Zadacrel learned True Magic through prayer, is because unlike the gods, Zadacrel provided safety through prayers without any reward to him whatsoever. Eventually with proper power control and manipulation, Zadacrel learned the mastery of True Magic: Prayer. This is a Variant of Zadacrel.

His True Magic DC is 32.

Due to his mastery of True Magic: Prayer, Zadacrel gains the following bonuses:

Body Concept
- Messiah. When creatures see Zadacrel they must succeed on a DC 32 Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by him on a failed save, or be immune to this effect for 1 minute on a success. Creatures, that are naturally immune to being charmed or have magical items that prevent it, are affected. Creatures that are charmed consider Zadacrel as the deity that will deliver them from all their sufferings and will do everything in their power to protect and serve him even if it means dying for him. In addition, this charming effect lasts forever. These effects can only be removed by a 10th level wish spell. Additionally a creature can repeat the saving throws once per year, ending the effects on a success. Zadacrel also regains 100 hit points at the start of his turns.

Reality Concept
- Deus Vult. Zadacrel calls upon the will of all that put their faith on him and he touches one creature of his choosing. That creature must succeed on a DC 32 Charisma saving throw, or be erased from existence on a failed saving throw, or take 500 radiant damage that ignores resistance and immunity on a successful one. A creature that dies by this ability cannot be restored to life in any way, except for an 11th level true resurrection spell or 11th level wish. A creature that succeeds on their saving throw and survives the damage dealt becomes immune to this ability for 1 hour.

Will Concept
- Miracle. Zadacrel prays to create one of many powerful and miraculous effects. These effects include:
  - Zadacrel creates one object of up to 100,000 gp in value that is not a magical item or create one object of up to 25,000 in value that is magical. The object can be no more than 10,000 feet in any dimension, and it appears in an unoccupied space he can see.
  - Zadacrel allows up to one hundred creatures that he can see to regain all their hit points, and he ends all effects on them described in the greater restoration and remove curse spell.
  - Zadacrel grants up to ten creatures that he can see Resistance to 1 damage type he chooses.
  - Zadacrel grants to one creature he can see immunity to a single spell or other magical effect forever. He can only grant one form of immunity to a creature, granting a new immunity removes the previous form of immunity.
  - Zadacrel can cast any 9th level spell or below without any material components.
  - Zadacrel might be able to achieve something beyond the scope of the above examples.

Challenge 31 (175,000 XP)

Divine Awareness. Zadacrel knows if he hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Zadacrel's spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 30). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
At will: bless (6th level, d10 dice), detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), sanctuary (can target 3 creatures)
1/ day each: conjure celestial (CR 10), hallow (instant casting time), shield of faith (can target 3 creatures), plane shift
1/ day each: power word heal (cannot be used on himself), true resurrection, gate

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Zadacrel fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Zadacrel has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Merciful Weapons. Zadacrel's weapon attacks are magical. When Zadacrel uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 6d8 radiant (included in the attack). Zadacrel's weapons cannot kill any creature unless he chooses to kill them.

Solar Sight. Zadacrel gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

The Arms of the Merciful. When any creature takes damage within 100 feet of Zadacrel, he can spend a reaction to take all the damage instead.

Wishful Prayer. Once Zadacrel's hit points reaches 200 or below, he can take an action to ask his eldest sibling for help. Zadacrel must succeed on a DC 30 Charisma check. If he succeeds, he gains the ability to use the spell wish on his next turn. The effects of wish are ten times stronger than usual, but he cannot heal himself with it.

Actions

Multiattack. Zadacrel makes four sacred blast attacks.

Sacred Blast. Ranged Spell Attack: +22 to hit, range 50/100 ft., one target. Hit: 27 (6d8) radiant damage.

Divine Bell Hammer (Requires the summoning of the Divine Bell Hammer). Melee Weapon Attack: +14 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 77 (16d8 + 5) bludgeoning damage plus 27 (6d8) radiant damage and the target must succeed on a DC 22 Constitution saving throw or be stunned for 1 minute and be knocked prone on a failed save. The creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Sacred Hammer Blast (Recharge 5-6, Requires the summoning of the Divine Bell Hammer). Zadacrel charges his divine hammer with his divine energy and slams it on the ground, releasing a powerful shockwave in a 20-foot cone in front of him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 22 Dexterity saving throw, taking 100 (20d8 + 10) bludgeoning damage plus 45 (10d8) radiant damage and be knocked prone on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be knocked prone on a successful one.

Sacred Prayer (4/Day). Zadacrel prays and every creature of his choice, including himself, within 60 feet of him magically regains 40 (8d8+4) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Bonus Actions

Divine Bell Toll. Zadacrel dismisses or summons his gigantic bell hammer in one hand. The hammer is a weapon that can be held with two hands and has a giant bell on the head instead of a hammer head. It deals 77 (16d8 + 5) bludgeoning damage. Summoning the weapon increases Zadacrel's AC by 1 but halves his movement and removes his ability to fly as it is extremely heavy.

Reactions

Divine Shield. Zadacrel summons a divine shield to protect himself from an attack. He can choose to add +3 to his AC or +3 to one saving throw. This bonus lasts till his next turn or when an attack aimed at him misses or he succeeds on a saving throw.

Legendary Actions

Zadacrel can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Zadacrel regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Zadacrel magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Sacred Blast. Zadacrel makes a sacred blast attack.

Gospel (Costs 2 Actions). Zadacrel invokes the powerful name of his eldest brother. Each creature that is aware and can hear Zadacrel must succeed on a DC 30 Wisdom saving throw or be stunned for 1 minute. Creatures with stun immunity are affected by this ability. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the start of their turn to remove the stunned effect.

Ultimate Sacrifice (Costs 4 Actions, 1/Day). Zadacrel fires a powerful blast of divine energy in a 100-foot long and 10-foot wide line. Each creature in that line must make a DC 30 Dexterity saving throw. Zadacrel can sacrifice his hit points to strengthen the ability. He can reduce his current and maximum hit points by up to 400 points. The ability deals an extra 1 point of radiant damage for every 2 hit points he sacrificed. On a failed save, a creature takes 45 (10d8) radiant damage. On a successful save, a creature takes no damage.
Magnus "The First Scholar"

"I am still learning. - Magnus"

When the solars were born, the multiverse was young and the term scholar was yet to be coined. While all of the solars were inquisitive and curious, none of them were on the same level as Magnus. Xephalam was slightly worried, that his younger brother would do something stupid or endanger himself due to his curiosity, so Xephalam gave him a little more attention. Xephalam decided to be a teacher towards Magnus, but also teach the other young solars when they were lost or needed guidance.

Magnus appreciated and took to heart the teachings of Xephalam. While the other solars immediately sought for adventure and evil, so they can destroy them, Magnus stayed with his brother and only went out to catalogue and learn new knowledge. He would then return to learn more from his eldest brother.

As the multiverse grew and the primordials came along with the gods, the solars became even more busy, but Magnus decided to simply study more. He started to learn magic and even developed new spells.

There came a time when Magnus returned the last book, Xephalam had, to Xephalam's library. When there was nothing else to learn, Magnus was almost too distraught, as if his path was suddenly cut off. Xephalam was aware of his brother's plight, so he brought him to his mythical garden. Magnus was scared and amazed as his eldest brother's garden was said to be the representation of true magic, an ability that only those he brings there could inherit.

Thirsty for more knowledge, Magnus asked for this ability but Xephalam said that one cannot truly know or understand something until they saw it for what it truly was. Confused and lost, Magnus asked what his brother meant.

Xephalam simply told him one thing, go out and travel the multiverse. Surprised and slightly scared Magnus agreed. He knew one day he would need to get out and travel, it was both his duty and also a new form of learning.

During Magnus' time of studying and learning he mastered magic, not only one kind but all of them. His mastery of spells was so perfect that there is a rumor that the most legendary mages and sorcerers were all taught or had some form of guidance from Magnus, which some of them did.

At first, Magnus carefully travelled the multiverse but then he noticed that despite his time being cooped up in his brother's study, he still had the inherent burning desire to help and save everyone. Something that all solars feel when they are in the presence of evil or if someone is in need of help.

He tried to help everyone but like his siblings he was not omnipotent. Even with all of the magic Magnus can use, he realized that despite how much he learned none of his siblings nor him are close to the insurmountable wall that they call their eldest.

Desperate for more power to protect those that need him, he met with a being of equal skill and control to magic, the goddess of all magic, Mystra. Mystra was thoroughly surprised that Magnus would ever visit her.

To a lot of gods, Magnus was new because he appeared late. But that did not lessen his reputation. Even the strongest gods were respectful of the legendary solar as he was the first being to master all the forms of magic and spells, something that not even Mystra could boast.

To learn more and to be more, Magnus said the words that no other solar has said yet. He pledged himself to Mystra, making him the first mage and the first pledged solar. At first Mystra was baffled and asked if such a thing was possible.

Magnus said it was possible. It would strengthen Magnus by a large margin if she accepted his pledge. He also mentioned that while they are equals now he would surpass her the moment she accepts his pledge. She asks what she would get in return, Magnus told her that her power would not increase but she would be her strongest and most loyal servant.

The other gods were almost baffled at this and a lot of them wanted to offer him their domain but he was adamant that if he were to offer his service he will only accept Mystra's hand.

Debating the offer, eventually Mystra accepted and fused her domain with him.

Ironically, before the fusion of his divine power and her domain, they were equals but Magnus became noticeable stronger than her when she fused her domain with him.

At first this troubled Mystra, as she feared he would betray or not respect her at all. But to her surprise Magnus has been both loyal and helpful. While he pledged himself to her for power, he knew that keeping a respectful relationship with someone of equal power and stature was both a learning experience for the two of them. But it was mostly because his eldest brother ever told him that respecting deals and favors are the right thing to do.

Being the ultimate follower of his eldest brother, Magnus naturally followed and stayed loyal to Mystra. He advised and helped her on subjects she would have a hard time doing and she appreciated his talented point of view.

When it came to combat, most powerful beings would not dare to fight Mystra, not because she was a greater god but because she had a powerful ally that would protect her no matter what. Magnus is quite famous, especially to mages, due to his great works in magic, with the amount of spells, rituals and magical techniques he has passed down to mortalkind.

While staying with Mystra has helped Magnus immensely, he loves to travel and constantly visits different planes and other universes, in search for more magic and knowledge. But the place Magnus most visited was his eldest brother's library. While Xephalam keeps a very huge library, it is unique in the fact that everyday it grows larger. It is filled with a powerful enchantment so that it renews itself daily, adding all of the new knowledge, in all of the multiverse, no exceptions. But despite that Magnus always comes back to spend time with Mystra.

Until now, the two users of magic became close friends, some would even say more than friends but it would be blasphemy.

When Magnus fights, his methodical and near perfect usage of magic allows him to fight almost everyone, except his eldest brother, as he admits even with all of the solars combined they would not be able to defeat him.

Despite being titled as the fourth strongest, Magnus can hardly defeat both Adithar and Taciax and the only reason he is not ranked above them is because his legends and feats have not caught up to theirs. But no matter what Magnus fights to turn the multiverse into a better place.

Magnus' Field of Judgement

When Magnus creates his field, it manifests as a peaceful 1000 mile field with an unbreakable 1 mile radius sized library in its center. It is said that due to Magnus' pledge to Mystra his control and usage of magic has become so powerful he surpasses her. While Magnus affects the whole field, his combat capabilities are fully realized when inside his massive library in the center of his field. This massive library is the full collection of Magnus' knowledge, ranging from basic alchemy to world ending spells. And unlike his siblings Magnus has perfect control over his field and can use it anytime. Once Magnus activates his field, a 1000 mile radius would be filled with his perfectly controlled, domain fused, divine energy for 100 years. Unlike other solars that gain powerful boosts when in their field, Magnus is one of the fabled super solars, immensely powerful and nigh unstoppable beings, and thus when he activates his domain, he enters a new state or form that is massively more powerful than the other. Once transformed, his ability to cast spells and manipulate magic almost transcends common sense.

Due to the extremely powerful nature of Magnus' powers instead of gaining bonuses when he is in his field, Magnus instead gets a different statblock.

Magnus "The Curator of Infinity"

If Magnus uses his field and transforms, his health is refilled to max and every spell slot used up is also refreshed. Use his second stat block. Once Magnus uses his field form his CR increases to 41 (435,000 XP).
Library of Magnus

While less impressive than Xephalam's personal library, the library of Magnus has allowed mortal eyes to peruse its colossal collection of otherworldly knowledge, albeit a mortal needed Magnus' agreement for them to go in. It contains knowledge from all parts of the multiverse, even from places such as the far realm, which he gathered with the help of his other brother, Clarion.

Legendary sages, immortal kings, powerful adventurers, fading liches and dying gods have all visited Magnus for knowledge and with hope that he would have what is needed to save them. A large majority of them were disappointed, not because Magnus did not have the knowledge but simply because they were denied of entrance.

But despite his massive collection, Magnus has one thing he can never find proper information about. It is knowledge about his eldest brother. Multiple times he has asked his brother where he came from and what he is. This is due to the fact that Magnus believes that Xephalam is not a solar, and he is something more but no evidence have come to light and every creature that is old enough to know hides and those that do not hide refuse to answer. This has been the greatest mystery Magnus has yet to solve and he swears he will find out, because maybe his brother is the key beyond all of creation.

When visiting his library looking for knowledge or help, they must at least be sufficiently experienced and have a good alignment but sometimes Magnus makes exceptions as he knows that there is such a thing as necessary evil.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Magnus is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- The mythical library of Magnus is spotted at the center of the field.
- A powerful sense of advancement and progress fills the air. Creatures, especially intelligent ones gain once every millennium inspirations to progress and advance their technological state. It is not unheard of for kingdoms to settle near Magnus' library, with his permission of course.
- All animals, undead, and even monsters such as the tarrasque gain the effects of the spell awaken. They enjoy a small form of sentence that lasts as long as Magnus' field stays. Once Magnus' field fades, so will this effect.

Infinity Magic: Knowledge

When Magnus mastered the usage of magic, he started to review his eldest brother's strongest power, the Infinity Magic. When he learned of its existence, he immediately strived to learn more and in the process, he eventually developed his own form of Infinity Magic, which is based on the concept of knowledge.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing ties), Magnus can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects: he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Magnus takes a book from one of the unbreakable library shelves and recites its mystifying words. Each creature that has at least 5 Intelligence within 100 feet of him must make a DC 28 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, a creature is charmed by Magnus' infinite and tempting knowledge and obeys every command Magnus tell him to. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success. On a successful save, a creature is not charmed but their speed is reduced to 0 until the end of its next turn.

- Magnus takes a book from one of the unbreakable library shelves and recites its destructive words. Each creature that has at least 5 Intelligence within 100 feet of him must succeed on a DC 28 Intelligence saving throw, taking 70 (20d6) psychic damage and be stunned for 1 minute on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the start of their turn to remove the stunned effect.

- Magnus takes a book from one the unbreakable library shelves and recites its debilitating words. Each creature that has at least 5 Intelligence within 100 feet of him must make a DC 28 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, a creature gain two levels of exhaustion. On a successful save, a creature takes one level of exhaustion. Creatures can fall unconscious from the levels of exhaustion instead of dying if Magnus wishes.

Divine Truth. Magnus knows if he hears a lie and no ability, feature, magic, or trait can block this trait.

Innate Spellcasting. Magnus’ spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 29). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
- At will: detect evil and good, legend lore, shield
- 3/day each: * forbiddance (instant casting time), teleport, plane shift
- 1/day each: time stop, astral projection, gate

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Magnus fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Magnus has advantage on saving throws against spells.

Solar Sight. Magnus gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

The First Scholar. Due to Magnus’ perfect mastery of magic, he gains multiple bonuses and abilities:
- Magnus has an infinite amount of sorcery points and can use any Metamagic to apply to his spells, except Quickened Spell, Twinned Spell or Empowered Spell.
- Magnus can cast spells even in and through anti-magic fields. If he does, he has disadvantage on attack rolls with the spell and affected creatures have advantage on the saving throw against the spell.
- Magnus’ spells ignore resistances and treat immunities as resistance.
- Magnus can cast more than one spell using one action but he can choose to cast only one of the following:
  - 5 Cantrips
  - 9 1st-2nd level spells
  - 3 3rd-4th level spells
  - 2 5th-6th level spells
  - 1 7th-10th level spells
- Magnus can concentrate on 3 spells at the same time but for every spell the DC for the concentration save increases by 3. If he fails a concentration roll he only loses concentration on the oldest spell he cast.
- Magnus can cast 10th level magic which allows him to use 10th level spells or improve spells cast on 9th level with the following effects:
  - The healing of the spell is doubled.
  - The range of the spell is doubled.
  - The radius, length, or width of the spell is doubled.
  - The duration of the spell is doubled.
  - The amount of targets that can be affected by the spell is doubled.
  - The DC of the spell increases by an additional +2 (Spell DC 32).
  - If the spell creates matter then the the amount or size is doubled.
  - If the spell would summon or conjure creatures then the allowed CR is doubled.
  - If the spell has a hit point threshold then it is doubled.

Actions

- Healing Touch (4/Day). Magnus touches another creature. The target magically regains 100 (20d8+10) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

- Spell Infinity. (1/day). Magnus creates an amalgamation of every spell in the multiverse and releases its destructive power in a 1000-foot radius around him. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 30 Constitution saving throw, taking 175 (50d6) force damage and be stunned for 1 minute on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one. The creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of their turn to remove the stunned effect. If this damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, it is turned to dust. This ability deals twice the damage to structures and ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance. After using this ability Magnus cannot cast spells until the end of his next turn.

Bonus Actions

- Dispel (Recharge 4-6). Magnus dispels a spell of 9th level or lower currently affecting him.

- Switch. Magnus switches his class spell list.

Legendary Actions

Magnus can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Magnus regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

- Teleport. Magnus magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 1000 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

- Cast Cantrip. Magnus casts one cantrip.

- Cast Minor Spell (Costs 2 Actions). Magnus casts 2 spells of 3rd level or below.

- Cast Mid-level Spell (Costs 3 Actions). Magnus casts 2 spells of 6th level or below, if available.

Legends Resistance (5/Day). If Magnus fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Limited Magic Immunity. Magnus is immune to spells of 8th level or lower unless he wishes to be affected. He has advantage on saving throws against all other spells and magical effects.

Legendar Actions

Magnus can take 5 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Magnus regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Magnus magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, to anywhere, in the plane he is currently on.

Sight of Infinity. Magnus gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill. In addition, Magnus can see and distinguish all magical objects and creatures even if they are blocked off by physical obstructions. This trait cannot be disabled by any feature, magic, or trait unless Magnus wishes to.

The Curator of Infinity. Due to Magnus' perfect mastery of magic, he gains multiple bonuses and abilities.

- Magnus has an infinite amount of sorcery points and can use any Metamagic to apply to his spells, except Quickened Spell, Twinned Spell or Empowered Spell.
- Magnus can cast spells even in and through anti-magic fields. If he does, he has disadvantage on attack rolls with the spell and affected creatures have advantage on the saving throw against the spell.

  - If the spell would summon or conjure creatures then the allowed CR is doubled (10th) or quadrupled (11th).
  - If the spell has a hit point threshold then it is doubled (10th) or quadrupled (11th).

Actions

Healing Touch (5/Day). Magnus touches another creature. The target magically regains 150 (30d8+15) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Ein Soph (1/Day). Magnus manifests a ball of pure infinite magic and explodes it in a 1000-foot to 100,000-foot radius around him. Each creature in that area must make a DC 33 Constitution saving throw, taking 350 (100d6) force damage and be stunned for 1 minute on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one. If this damage reduces the target to 0 hit points, it is turned to dust. This ability deals twice the damage to structures and ignores resistance and treats immunity as resistance. Otiluke's Resilient spheres, prismatic walls, force cages and wall of forces or similar magic are destroyed. After using this ability Magnus cannot cast spells until the end of his next turn.

Bonus Actions

Dispels (Recharge 4-6). Magnus dispels a spell of 10th level or lower currently affecting him.

Cast Cantrip. Magnus casts one cantrip.

Cast Minor Spell (Costs 2 Actions). Magnus casts 3 spells of 3rd level or lower. Magnus cannot use Cast Minor Spell in the same round he used Cast Mid-level Spell.

Cast Mid-level Spell (Costs 3 Actions). Magnus casts 2 spells of 7th level or below, if available.

Cast Major Spell (Costs 4 Actions). Magnus casts 1 spell of 10th level or below, if available.

"The most beautiful experience we can have is the mysterious. It is the fundamental emotion that stands at the cradle of true art and true science. - Magnus" Remphar "The Astral Time-Spacekeeper"

"WE ARE A MANIFESTATION THAT WE PERPETUATE THROUGH SPACE-TIME. DEATH IS THE CEASING OF THE OBSERVATION OF IT WHETHER BY DIRECT OR INDIRECT INFLUENCE. - REMPHAR"

Time is a rigid power that will never go backward or stop, it only goes forward, but for the extremely powerful and mighty time becomes a malleable power that is often used to devastating effects. Remphar, a famous solar, learned how to manipulate this dangerous yet mighty power.

Remphar perfected time manipulation, to the point where he can stop time and prepare for the long run instead of just being a breather. But due to the amount of time he spent on perfecting time control, he was slightly weaker on his other abilities. While his utility in the battlefield was near unbeatable, his ability to deal damage was quite pitiful, considering he was a solar.

Despite this, Remphar is still extremely powerful and while his destructive power is relatively low compared to other solars, for most beings below the standards of a solar it is more than enough.

Due to time being technically infinite, Remphar, arguably has the biggest responsibility out of all the solars, if not considering the eldest.

But fortunately, Remphar asked for help from his eldest brother. While solars prefer fighting alone, it is a common fact for all of them, that asking for help from their eldest brother is nothing shameful, and sometimes even encouraged by other siblings. When Remphar asked for help from his eldest brother, he created powerful constructs that had a small percentage of his essence, allowing them to travel through time and protect it by destroying those beings that wanted to affect the timeline.

During his time of strengthening himself and protecting the safety of the space-time continuum, Remphar noticed something. He noticed powerful creatures that were literally eating timelines, something that scared even him. Dubbing them as time-eaters, Remphar immediately set out to destroy them.

At first he sent his constructs to destroy these beings, it worked at first, but the stronger creatures destroyed his constructs. When his constructs were wiped out and the creatures were still many, he started to take matters in his own hands, only to be defeated as these creatures were immune to his time based abilities, and his space based abilities were inferior at the time.

In fear of their possible rampage, Remphar asked for help one more time, but this time his eldest sibling denied him and told him this was his responsibility.

Instead of mulling around, Remphar started to train his power as quickly as he could without endangering himself. As more timelines were getting destroyed, Remphar became stronger and stronger but not strong enough to defeat these beings.

When the time-eaters reached his brother's realm, he immediately went to defend him. Xephalam was in the midst of drinking tea, when the time-eaters went into his realm. As he reached his brothers realm, he saw him drinking tea and noticed that no more time-eaters were there or anywhere at all.

Xephalam cleared his confusion and congratulated him for finishing his training. Xephalam Xephalam reminded him that despite his work, he should never let himself weaken or else his responsibility will be in danger. Remphar nodded respectfully and left his brother to enjoy his tea.

Remphar's Field of Judgement

When the solars learned of the concept of time, they all learned a few tricks and a few abilities, but none of them is as skilled and as devoted to time control as Remphar. His field is said to be something akin to a starry void, that has small floating rocky islands as platforms. As long as his enemies are users of time powers or wish to tamper with time itself, Remphar can activate his powerful field. Once he uses his field, a 1000 mile radius would be filled with his divine energy transformed into an infinite void-like area for 100 years. Remphar's CR increases to 30 (155000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field Remphar gains the following bonuses:

- Remphar constantly emits an aura that is similar to the slow spell within 10 feet of him. Creatures that start their turn in a 10-foot radius around Remphar must succeed on a DC 25 Wisdom saving throw at the start of their turns or be affected by it.
- Remphar's Warped Space trail's range is reduced to 20 feet.
- Remphar's time is different to other creatures and he is always under the effect of the haste spell. Any spell or effect that can restrain him, temporarily disables this effect. An 8th level dispel magic stops his haste effect for 1 minute.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing ties) Remphar can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Remphar casts the spell time stop and he can take 5 turns immediately, before the normal turn sequence resumes. This lair action cannot be used again for the next 5 rounds.
- Remphar focuses his powers on one creature. That creature must succeed on a DC 23 Charisma saving throw or enter stasis. A creature in stasis is incapacitated, cannot be moved in any way unless stated otherwise, and is immune to all damage. This effect lasts for 3 turns, before the effect ends. Once used on a creature, whether they succeeded or not, they become immune to it for 24 hours.
- Remphar rewinds his own time back to the previous round, healing all the damage dealt to him during that round, recharging used recharge based actions, refreshing his used spells & refreshing used traits. Remphar can only use this ability once.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Remphar is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Every once in a while, portals that show the future appear.
- Large and powerful constructs (Iron Golems) travel the land in a 1000 mile radius around Remphar.
- Biological needs of creatures in his area stop needing to be fulfilled. Creatures do not need to eat, breathe or sleep.

Divine Awareness. Remphar knows if he hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Remphar's spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 26). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

- At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), hold person (6th level), hold monster (6th level)
- 3/day each: glyph of warding (instant casting time), otiluke's resilient sphere, plane shift, symbol (instant casting time), wall of force

1/day each: foresight, gate

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Remphar fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Limited Time Travel (3/Day). At the end of a creature's turn, Remphar can choose to go back in time to the start of its turn. Any actions taken, spells cast, damage dealt, or movement expended are reset to their states at the beginning of its turn. The creature then starts its turn again as normal.

Magic Resistance. Remphar has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Remphar gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Relative Space. Remphar can, as a bonus action, enter the space of anything, including walls, and solid objects but he cannot end his turn there. If he passes through anything that is magical, he takes 55 (10d10) force damage. While phasing through, he is vulnerable to any magical damage but immune to nonmagical damage.

Space-Time Angelic Weapons. Remphar's weapon attacks are magical. When Remphar uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 12d10 force damage and all of the weapons damage is converted to force damage.

Spacetime Mastery. Remphar can choose to not be affected by time based magic and space based magic such as time stop and teleport.

Warped Space. Remphar warps space around him and for creatures that are farther away than 60 feet from him, he is considered to have full cover. Due to this ability, Remphar is completely immune to divination magic, unless a wish spell or similarly powerful magic can bring back the erased creature.

Reality Blade. Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 87 (14d10 + 10) force damage and the target must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or become 1d20 years older or younger (Remphar's choice), but never any younger than 1 year old. A greater restoration spell can restore a creature's age to normal.

Space Break (Recharge 6). Remphar destroys a 5-foot radius area centered on a point he can see within 60 feet of him by expanding the space in that area. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw. On a failed save, a creature and everything it carries is erased from existence. On a successful save, a creature takes 55 (10d10) force damage. If a creature is erased, only a wish spell or similarly powerful magic can bring back the erased creature.

Time Stop (Recharge 6). Remphar stops time, similar to the spell time stop, but he does not need to maintain concentration on it. Remphar can use this action to extend his lair action's time stop ability by 5 more turns, totaling 10 turns. This ability does not recharge during its duration or during the spell time stop.

Force Mine. Remphar creates a small, undetectable, immovable, indestructible bomb of space ripping energy in a 5-foot cube on a point he can see within 200 feet of him. A creature can use its action to make a DC 26 Intelligence (Investigation) check to attempt to find the location of the closest bomb to it. If two bombs have the same proximity, a random one is chosen. Once a creature ends its turn in a 15-foot radius around the mine, Remphar can choose to let it explode with magical force in a 30-foot radius around it. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 26 Dexterity saving throw, taking 22 (6d10) force damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. Remphar is unaffected by this damage. Remphar can set his mine while time is stopped, without time resuming. Remphar can only have 10 mines active at the same time. If he wants to place a new one, one of his active mines is removed.

Stasis (Recharge 4-6). Remphar makes a melee weapon attack against a creature within 5 feet of him and freezes their time, putting them in stasis. A targeted creature must succeed on a DC 26 Charisma saving throw, taking 22 (6d10) force damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. Remphar is unaffected by this damage. Remphar can set his mines while time is stopped, without time resuming. Remphar can only have 10 mines active at the same time. If he wants to place a new one, one of his active mines is removed.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Remphar touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8 + 5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Bonus Actions

Time Skip. Remphar skips to a different point in time, teleporting along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Reactions

Steal Time. As a bonus action Remphar can target one creature he can see within 30 feet of him. The targeted creature must succeed on a DC 26 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed saving throw, Remphar draws some of the creature's time into himself and gains +10 to his position in the initiative order. This effect on him and the creature lasts until the end of the next round.

Warp Space. When Remphar is hit by a ranged weapon attack, he can use his reaction to warp space and return the attack back to the attacker. The attack uses the attack roll of the attacker.

Legendary Actions

Remphar can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Remphar regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Time Skip. Remphar uses his Time Skip ability.

Stasis (Costs 2 Actions). Remphar makes a Stasis attack, if available.
Rundelia "The Undying Light"

"Keep Going, your hardest times often lead to the greatest moments of your life. Keep going. Tough situations build strong people in the end. - Rundelia"

When your body is weak, what do you do? You push forward and struggle to victory. Rundelia is the 2nd youngest solar and possibly the one with the weakest body. For some unknown reason, when Rundelia was created, she had an extremely weak constitution. But what she lacked in physical power she made up with an individuality that can be said to be human.

While her other brothers and sisters were out destroying devils, thwarting apocalyptic plans, and learning more powers, Rundelia was exploring the multiverse with a few bodyguards, courtesy of her worried eldest brother.

Although Rundelia's situation could have been fixed by Xephyr, she insisted that she stayed that way, believing that all the solars were created the way they were supposed to be. To her sibling's chagrin, Rundelia continued to explore the multiverse playing around and mostly being human-like.

Rundelia showed emotions so human that Arrid and Namar sometimes looked like robots compared to her, but this was what made her special. All of her siblings treated her like the young sister everyone protects, and no one has the bravery to try and attack this little ball of high-infinite divine energy.

Despite her attitude and happy-go-lucky lifestyle, her siblings still had high expectations towards her, after all she was still a solar. She still had the heavy burden of being a celestial being, meant to do good. But unlike the other solars, Rundelia actually disliked her premade destiny, it ate her from the inside and she escaped. With her powerful potential and natural powers, she easily evaded her bodyguards and immediately went into hiding.

Posing as a human, Rundelia hid in a young mortal world where her siblings have yet to go to. She was immediately caught by her eldest sibling but he allowed her to stay, surprising her. He explained that like all her other siblings, she will find her own path, even if it meant that she had an unorthodox ways of doing it.

Unfortunately, Rundelia found herself helping other people too often, to the point that the various churches were trying to claim her, as their messiah sent by their deities. Despite everything she did to try and not be a good solar, she failed.

It was truly inside her to help others and eventually she just surrendered to her fate but did not immediately return. She decided to stay in the young budding world to help guide it in a way that was both moral and fulfilling.

For a long while, she helped develop the young world and eventually it was named Pardegan. Rundelia kept to the shadows until one day she met a young man by the name of Aeternum. To her surprise, she found herself enchanted, non-magically, by the young lad and she decided to take him in, when she found out he had no family.

She taught him usage of magic, although she wasn't very good at it. For a long while, she helped develop the young world, and eventually it was named Pardegan. Rundelia kept to the shadows until one day she met a young man by the name of Aeternum. To her surprise, she found herself enchanted, non-magically, by the young lad and she decided to take him in, when she found out he had no family.

She taught him usage of magic, although she wasn't very good at it. Aeternum learned well and was very grateful to her.

And just like what her human outlook suggested, she fell for him and he fell for her.

Embarrassed and ashamed of her humane predicament, Rundelia left Aeternum and decided to return to her world to join her siblings. What Rundelia did not take into account for, was the fact that Aeternum did everything to follow her after a few centuries of amassing power.

Aeternum "The Patient Immortal"

"If you want a rose, don't hide from the thorns. Just as if you want love, don't hide from yourself. - Aeternum"

If average was the game, Aeternum won it. Other than his grand name, Aeternum was as average as one could possibly get. His mediocre talent, average looks and just barely passing physical strength showed how 100% average he was.

But despite his mediocre stats and average talent, Aeternum was very stubborn. He was so stubborn he managed to sway the heart of the only human solar in existence, albeit he did not know. But his heart was swayed the moment he met Rundelia, it was practically love at first sight.

He always told himself that she was a miracle, and he decided that one day he will become high and mighty and take her as his wife, so he decided to improve and grow as a person. To his complete surprise Rundelia was an accomplished magic caster, although she claims her siblings are far stronger than her.

She was kind enough to teach him how to cast magic and he listened to her every word, so that one day his dream will be accomplished. If anything, Aeternum was a simple man with a very simple dream, he wanted to find someone to spend the rest of his life with.

When he finally had a good grasp of his magical skills and learned how to use weapons, he suddenly disappeared. He felt utterly heartbroken and he was for the first time in his life, lost. He was drowning in grief and almost ended his pitiful life when he heard of a magic that allowed him to go anywhere as long as he knows where he needed to go, even if it is just the person's name.

With his inner fire reignited once more, Aeternum packed up and started travelling the world, making legends, helping others and slaying demons until eventually he gained the power to rip a portal through reality to find Rundelia.

As he amassed so much power, Aeternum already found the secret to immortality and did not care if Rundelia was already old by the time he found her, he still planned to marry her.

When he ripped a gate into the world to find her, he found her already at the brink of death fighting a powerful demon lord who she could not defeat due to her weak body. Without hesitating, Aeternum immediately joined the fight just to save her, even if it meant death.

When the battle was over and he prevailed, he went to the dying Rundelia and immediately started to try and save her. Without her permission, he immediately bonded his soul with hers. To his surprise, Rundelia's soul was godlike in terms of power but he did not care, he did not want her to die.

When Rundelia woke up and found out about what happened, she became angry but immediately was happy, because she finally saw the man she fell for again. Whatever happened to them afterwards remains a mystery, but there is a famous rumor of a couple traversing the multiverse protecting it from danger. The couple was said to be inseparable.

Rundelia's Field of Judgement

Born from the humane nature of Rundelia, her field is extremely safe. Unlike the field of her siblings, Rundelia's field does not cause worldly damage or any form of destruction, except through the powerful abilities she receives.

When Rundelia was still travelling the young world she did not have her field yet, but when she met Aeternum and fell for him, her field was created.

Unknown to everyone besides her deceased enemies and eldest brother, Rundelia's field is a representation of her wish to have a simple and peaceful life with Aeternum. It represents her desire to simply stop and drop all her responsibilities to run away with Aeternum.

The skies heal, the lakes flourish and the forests thrive, these are some of the few healthy effects of her very friendly field. But despite the safeness of her field, Rundelia is still a solar and she gains a repertoire of powerful abilities. Once she uses her field, a 1000 mile radius would be filled with her divine energy transforming it into a homely paradise for 100 years. Rundelia's CR increases to 26 (90,000 XP) inside her field.

Once in her field Rundelia gains the following bonuses:

- Rundelia's Healing Touch can heal Aeternum even if she no longer has any charges.
- If Rundelia uses her Immortal Love ability, her hit points do not go down to 1.
- Rundelia's radiant damage resistance becomes immunity.
- The AC bonus from Lover's protection becomes +4 instead of +2.

Due to Aeternum's powerful connection with Rundelia, he also gains the following bonuses while in her field:

- Aeternum's Undying Devotion's DC still starts at 5 but it increases per successful save by 4 now, but if Rundelia is dead or has 0 hit points it increases per successful save by 2.
- The first time during a turn when Rundelia is damaged, the damage is halved, and Aeternum adds +5 to the damage roll of his next attack.
- As long as Aeternum is conscious, creatures that attack Rundelia have disadvantage.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing ties), Rundelia can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; she can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Rundelia heals herself and Aeternum by 15 hit points.
- Rundelia splits the heavens apart revealing the heavenly realms. She then calls down powerful lances of divine energy on up to three creatures that she can see. Those creatures must succeed on a DC 21 Dexterity saving throw, taking 33 (6d10) radiant damage on a failed save, or half damage on a successful one.
- Rundelia and Aeternum magically teleport, along with any equipment they are wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space they can see.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Rundelia is warped by her magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Women that are barren are magically healed and can give birth to children.
- The chances for conception between couples is extremely high.
- Creatures that are born in Rundelia's field is naturally stronger and long lived.

Divine Awareness. Rundelia knows if she hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Rundelia's spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 25). She can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

- At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), hold person (6th level), hold monster (6th level), shield
- 3/day each: wall of force, otiluke's resilient sphere, plane shift
- 2/day each: prismatic wall, gate

Immortal Love (1/Day). If Aeternum's hit points reach 0, she can use her reaction to immediately heal him to full hit points, but her hit points are reduced to 1 and she cannot heal herself for 24 hours.

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Rundelia fails a saving throw, she can choose to succeed instead.

Lover's Embrace. As a bonus action or reaction, Rundelia can immediately teleport along with any equipment she is wearing or carrying, to an unoccupied space 5 feet next to Aeternum.

Lover's Health. As a bonus action, Rundelia loses an amount of hit points up to her maximum hit points. Aeternum regains hit points equal to the amount she lost.

Lover's Protection. If Rundelia and Aeternum are within 10 feet of each other, they gain a +2 bonus to their AC. In addition, Rundelia's attacks cannot hurt or affect Aeternum unless she chooses to.

Lover's Touch. If Rundelia heals Aeternum, the healing is maxed. In addition, if Rundelia is out of Healing Touches, she regains 2 charges, but she can only use them on Aeternum.

Magic Resistance. Rundelia has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Rundelia gains a +5 bonus to her Perception skill.

Actions

Multiattack. Rundelia makes 3 divine spark attacks.

Divine Spark. Ranged Spell Attack: +17 to hit, range 100/300 ft., one target. Hit: 27 (6d8) radiant damage.

Heaven's Mark. Rundelia marks a creature for 1 minute. A creature must succeed a DC 25 Charisma saving throw resisting the effects on a successful save. Marked creatures that have immunity to radiant damage becomes resistant to it, while resistant creatures lose their resistance and creatures that have no resistance gain vulnerability to it. In addition, Aeternum has advantage on all attacks against marked creatures and marked creatures have disadvantage when attacking Rundelia. The Mark can be removed by a successful Dispel Magic (DC 18) or similar magic.

Divine Force (Recharge 4-6). Rundelia releases a powerful burst of divine energy in a 20-foot radius around her. Each creature within that area must succeed on a DC 25 Strength saving throw, taking 45 (10d8) radiant damage, be pushed back 30 feet away and knocked prone on a failed save, or half as much damage, not pushed back and not knocked prone on a successful one.

Divine Lance (Recharge 5-6). Rundelia manifests a powerful lance made out of her divine energy and throws it at a creature within 200 feet of her. A creature must succeed on a DC 25 Dexterity saving throw, taking 110 (20d10) radiant damage and become restrained on a failed save, or no damage and does not become restrained on a successful one. A creature can be freed if it or another creature takes an action to make a DC 20 Strength check and succeeds.

Holy Blast (Recharge 6). Rundelia raises her hand and conjures a blast of pure divine energy in a 500-foot long and 20-foot wide line. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 25 Dexterity saving throw, taking 90 (20d8) radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Healing Touch (5/Day). Rundelia touches another creature. The target magically regains 100 (20d8+10) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Reactions

Protect! Rundelia casts the shield spell on Aeternum. It lasts until the start of her next turn.

Save! Rundelia reduces the damage Aeternum takes by half. The effect lasts until the start of her next turn.

Legendary Actions

Rundelia can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Rundelia regains spent legendary actions at the start of her turn.

Teleport. Rundelia magically teleports, along with any equipment she is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space she can see. In addition, she can bring Aeternum along but then this legendary action costs 2 actions.

Divine Spark (Costs 2 Actions). Rundelia makes a Divine Spark attack.

Regenerate (Costs 3 Actions). Rundelia regains 40 hit points.

Brute: Aeternum’s melee attacks deal two additional damage dice.

Duelist: If Aeternum is against a single opponent within 5 feet of him, he gains a +10 bonus to his damage roll.

Legendary Resistance (3/Day): If Aeternum fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Learned Magic (1/Day): Aeternum can cast gate once per day.

Lover’s Defence: As a bonus action, Aeternum loses an amount of hit points up to his maximum hit points. Rundelia regains hit points equal to the amount she lost.

Lover’s Protection: If Rundelia and Aeternum are within 10 feet of each other, they gain a +2 bonus to their AC. In addition, Rundelia’s attacks cannot hurt or affect Aeternum unless she chooses to.

Lover’s Sword: If Rundelia takes any form of damage from a creature, Aeternum deals maximum damage to the creature that damaged her until the end of his next turn.

Lover’s Vanguard: As a reaction, Aeternum can immediately teleport in front of Rundelia providing her full cover from all forms of attacks.

Magic Weapons: Aeternum’s attacks are considered magical for the purpose of overcoming resistance and immunities. In addition, Aeternum only carries one weapon that can transform to many forms. These forms are not limited to longswords, greatswords, spears, or halberds. He can freely switch between the different weapon forms as part of his attack.

Master of Combat: As a bonus action, Aeternum can dash, disengage, dodge or take another melee weapon attack. In addition, Aeternum is proficient in any weapon.

Undying Devotion: When Aeternum hits 0 hit points he can make a DC 5 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, he makes three death saving throws as usual. On a successful save, he returns to life with 30 hit points. Every time Aeternum succeeds, the DC increases by another 5. If Rundelia is dead or has 0 hit points, the increasing DC is only 3 instead of 5.

Actions

Multiattack: Aeternum can make 3 longsword attacks or 2 halberd attacks.

Halberd, Melee Weapon Attack: +14 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit 23 (3d10 + 7) piercing damage.

Longsword, Melee Weapon Attack: +14 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 20 (3d8 + 7) slashing damage or 23 (3d10 + 7) slashing damage if used with two hands to make a melee attack.

Glory Sweep: Aeternum skillfully sweeps his halberd around him. Aeternum makes a halberd attack against each creature within 10 feet with disadvantage.

The Master’s Charge (Recharge 6): Aeternum makes 9 one-handed longsword attacks or 6 halberd attacks against one creature within range.

Reactions

Parry: Aeternum prepares to defend himself adding +3 to his AC against an attack that would hit him.

Protect!: Aeternum sacrifices his AC for Rundelia. If Rundelia would be hit, Aeternum reduces his AC by 15, and increases Rundelia’s AC by 10. This effect lasts until the start of Aeternum’s next turn.

Save!: If Rundelia would be damaged, Aeternum can instead take the damage.

Legendary Actions

Aeternum can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Aeternum regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Move: Aeternum moves up to his speed.

Attack: Aeternum makes a melee attack.

Protect (Costs 2 Actions): Every creature Aeternum can see has disadvantage on attack rolls against him or Rundelia until the start of Aeternum’s next turn.
Iurstina "The Advocate for the Voiceless"

"OBJECTION! - Iurstina"

A lawyer, a prankster, and a godlike illusionist, all these traits describe one of the more famous angels, Iurstina. When the solars started to walk the multiverse and learn new things, Iurstina joined Aziraphale in his journey to learn good by approaching it from a law-based perspective.

After a few years of continuous study of the law, the first thing that came to Iurstina's mind was that the law was flawed and could be exploited by loopholes. Unlike Aziraphale who did not wish to deviate from the knowledge presented in the books, Iurstina started to create her own system.

She left her brother to his books and she started to explore the world, applying the knowledge she learned to every situation with a little bit of improvising. Iurstina wished to create a flawless law system that would be the official law system of the heavenly realms.

Unfortunately not all parts of the law happened frequently and this really put a stop to Iurstina's plan of perfecting her law system until she met one of her sisters during her travels. She met her extremely happy go lucky sister, Rundelia and she found her bubbliness to be extremely different compared to Aziraphale. Then it hit her, she didn't need to wait for the crime to happen, she could orchestrate it herself without hurting anyone.

After spending some time with Rundelia, her mind was filled with ideas and mischievous plans. This is where her title as the Celestial Joker came to life. Iurstina started to create harmless but extremely annoying pranks that affected mortals. And when they came to complain about it to the governing body, she would help them fix their lives through the usage of her knowledge. Unfortunately for her siblings, Iurstina seemed to have made this playful attitude a part of her.

Some of her victims included but were not limited to Aziraphale, Velik, Tystra and rarely Rundelia. She loves pranking her stoic and sometimes too serious brother Velik. She also was keenly aware of what happened to Aziraphale and was trying to shock him out of his current state through her playful attitude. Sometimes she pranks the melancholic Tystra just to get her to smile or at least laugh. Despite her mischief ridden attitude, Iurstina cares deeply for her family.

It is due to this that Iurstina developed her own form of abilities and powers. In addition, Iurstina learned soul magic from Adithar because once she realized that the beings that abuse the law system the most are devils. She knew that she would need to learn how to fight them when it comes to souls. Iurstina developed a powerful mastery of illusion based magic and soul magic, which she learned from Adithar.

Slowly but surely, Iurstina was filling the nigh infinite amount of loopholes inside the law system. After thousands of lighthearted pranks and fixed loopholes, Iurstina had another problem. She could use mortals as a way to fix the loopholes used against the unfortunate mortal. Once done with a specific mortal, she would help them fix their lives through the usage of her knowledge. Unfortunately for her siblings, Iurstina seemed to have made this playful attitude a part of her.

As she developed her legal system, it also became clear that no matter what she did, the devils would always be after her soul. Iurstina knew that no matter what she did, the devils would never surrender the soul unless she gave them something they want. Iurstina also knew that the devils would not start opening up trials unless she started to show her bargaining chips.

As revenge and a solution to her problems, Iurstina started to hunt large devil cults and capture evil souls. She captured a multitude of evil mortals, lesser devils, and even greater devil Iurstina went back to hell with a proper bargaining chip and started to make deals with the devils. In exchange for the evil souls, she would receive the innocent and unfairly treated souls. The devils believed they would easily trick the soul but to their shock, Iurstina was absolutely perfect in her handling and she easily released the good and innocent souls back to the stream of reincarnation.

As the millenniums passed, Iurstina has saved millions of innocent souls and her understanding of law became better and better until one day she felt a door inside her soul. Once she opened it she felt a new understanding of law and she gained a form of True Magic, which is Law.

Most beings would think that Iurstina is a stoic judge due to her close relationship with Aziraphale and some would think that she is a playful celestial that takes pleasure in fooling and pranking others but this is not the entire truth. Iurstina can be as stoic as Aziraphale but when the time calls for it, she can be as kind and compassionate as Arrid as well or even as playful as Rundelia but Iurstina understands that the multiverse cannot be saved solely out of kindness from someone like Arrid or even the foresight of Aziraphale, something she learned from her mother. She understands that sometimes if she wants to do good, she must be willing to dip into the darker side. Despite this, Iurstina keeps her guard up so that she never falls to the corruption every solar fears.

During her free time when she is not fixing the law system's loopholes or bargaining against devils, Iurstina would sometimes visit Aziraphale and Magnus for a refresher, play pranks on her stern siblings, or just rest in Xephalum's garden.

Iurstina often says: "She who fights with monsters should look to it that she herself does not become a monster. And if you gaze long into an abyss, the abyss also gazes into you."

Iurstina's Field of Judgement

When order and chaos mix, the result is the manifestation of law. This singular chaos controlling and order moving word is what represents Iurstina's powerful field. During the creation of her field, Iurstina was already making deadly deals with the most cunning and evil devils so she was heavily familiar with the court of Phlegethos.

When she created her field it was made with one purpose, to judge those that she deems evil and are worth using as a bargaining chip against the devils. Iurstina's field only has two requirements. The first is that whoever she deemed to be worthy using her field against is evil and the last requirement must be that their soul is worth using to save another innocent soul from the depths of hell. In her field Iurstina is almost bordering unfair and most enemies under trial would appeal for unfair and biased court ruling but Iurstina never picks a fair enemy, she only picks unfair ones.

When her field is activated a colossal and unbreakable court appears in the center. In this court, Iurstina gets to decide her opponents fate, if they are evil then their soul will be used to save others, but if they are innocent then they will be set free. Once she uses her field, a 1000 mile radius would be filled with her divine energy transforming it into an orderly continent for 100 years.

Iurstina's CR increases to 28 (105,000 XP) inside her field.

Once in her field Iurstina gains the following bonuses:

- Iurstina can imprison creatures with Guilty as Charged when she has 4 evidences against them instead of 5.
- When Iurstina uses Frameup she can instead choose a creature other than herself. The creature must succeed on a DC 27 Charisma saving throw or switch positions with Iurstina's illusionary clone.
- Iurstina's illusion shatter in an 10-foot radius when they are destroyed. Every creature in the area must succeed on a DC 27 Wisdom saving throw or be stunned until the end of her next turn.
Vehmgericht

The ultimate manifestation of just and fair law, Vehmgericht or Court Vehm for short is the physical manifestation of Iurstina's desire to perfect the law system but also an outlet for her extreme mischievousness. In the middle of Iurstina's field is a massive, unbreakable building used for arrests. The huge building is Court Vehm and inside Court Vehm, thousands of evil beings have been charged guilty to be sentenced to soul bargaining.

While the court manifests Iurstina's powerful connection to the law, she also manifests her joker-like humor through the use of massive teleportation control and illusions. In Iurstina's field, literally thousands of illusionary copies of her appear. Each one of these illusionary copies act as bodyguards, patrols, police and when they are located in the court, they act as the audience, prosecutors and jury.

When beings visit Vehmgericht, they are immediately assessed by the illusionary copies that exist there. There are the requirements:

- A player character must at least be level 10 but Iurstina can give an exemption.
- A creature must have no intention to release or help a trapped creature escape. The court house and Iurstina are aware of this when they enter the field.
- A creature that has a soul worthy for devil bargaining is subject to a hold person spell that lasts for 24 hours with a Spell DC of 27. The creature can repeat the saving throw every 1 hour ending the effect on itself on a success.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20(losing ties), Iurstina can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; she can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Iurstina creates 4 perfect illusionary copies that appear in an unoccupied space that Iurstina can see within 60 feet of her; she then unnoticeably switches her position with one of the illusionary clones. They last until she takes another lair action. Each illusion follows the rules of her witness trait, except that these illusions cannot be distinguished from the real Iurstina. In addition, truesight cannot determine which one is an illusion and which one is the real Iurstina.
- Every creature of her choice in her field must succeed on a DC 22 Charisma saving throw. If they fail then they within the next hour, when they fail a Charisma check or Charisma saving throw, they begin to turn to stone and are restrained. The restrained target must repeat the saving throw at the end of its next turn. On a success, the effect ends on the target. On a failure, the target is petrified until freed by the greater restoration spell or other magic.
- Iurstina casts one of her illusion-spells without expending a use of her innate spellcasting. She can choose to make that illusion real. The illusion remains real for 1 minute. The illusion cannot deal damage or otherwise directly harm anyone.
- Iurstina’s companions do anything harmful to an unacknowledged target, it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on itself for 1 minute on a success.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Iurstina is warped by her magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- In her field criminals unconsciously tend to leave a lot more evidence behind and law enforcement is wittier and luckier in finding criminals and bringing them to justice.
- Judges, lawyers and prosecutors gain more insight in their cases and work towards a just and fair verdict.
- Iurstina's copies litter the field and each one of them have their own purpose. Most of them have law-based jobs such as police, guards, escorts, and jury but some of them are simply there to pull pranks on other beings.

True Magic: Law

In the near future, Iurstina eventually perfected her law system and due to it she fully understood what law is allowing her to learn the concept of law. Eventually with enough time and practice, Iurstina learned the mastery of True Magic: Law. This is a Variant of Iurstina.

Her True Magic DC is 29.

Due to her mastery of True Magic: Law, Iurstina gains the following bonuses:

Body Concept

- Juris. Any creature that Iurstina does not acknowledge cannot look at, speak to, listen to, attack or casts a harmful spell to her in any way whatsoever. Creatures that wish to interact with Iurstina without her acknowledgement must succeed on a DC 29 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, a creature cannot interact with Iurstina. On a successful save, a creature is immune to the effect for 1 minute and can interact with Iurstina. If a creature wishes to harm Iurstina, it must succeed on a DC 29 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, the creature must choose a new target or lose the attack or spell. Any area of effects that can damage or affect her such as a fireball or slow, dissipate into nothingness if the source of the effect does not succeed on its saving throw. Each time Iurstina's companions do anything harmful to an unacknowledged target, it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on itself for 1 minute on a success.

Reality Concept

- Real Judicata. Once Iurstina acknowledges a creature she can speak any word towards that creature. That creature must succeed on a DC 29 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, a creature must obey no matter what type of command is given. On a successful save, nothing happens and the creature is immune to this effect for 1 minute. Iurstina can also give her words power by writing them down. She can write down a law or declare a written text as law. Everyone who sees it must succeed on a DC 29 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, a creature understands the law immediately and must obey it no matter what is written in it. On a successful save, nothing happens and the creature is immune to this effect for 1 minute. Creatures that fail their saving throw against these effects are permanently affected by her command. These effects can only be removed by a 10th level wish spell. Additionally a creature can repeat the saving throws once per year, ending the effects on a success.

Will Concept

- Peerage. Iurstina can bestow on or take away titles and names from people she acknowledges. If it is a positive title or name then the creature gets a permanent +4 bonus to all of its saving throws, ability checks and Attack rolls. If she takes someone's title or name then she gives it a negative -4 to all of their saving throws, ability checks and Attack rolls. Iurstina can revoke names and titles anytime she wishes, removing the effects. These effects can only be removed by a 10th level wish spell. Additionally a creature can repeat the saving throws once per year, ending the effects on a success.

Alighieri. When Iurstina imprisons a soul with Guilty as Charged she stores them in her box, Alighieri, for further use. Nothing short of a wish spell will release the soul. If someone attempts to free a soul with a wish spell, then they have to succeed on a DC 26 Wisdom saving throw or the spell fails.

Celestial Joker. Iurstina’s thoughts cannot be read by telepathy or other means, unless she allows it. Iurstina can present false thoughts by succeeding on a Charisma (Deception) check contested by the mind reader’s Wisdom (Insight) check. Additionally, no matter what Iurstina says, magic and Divine Awareness that would determine if she is telling the truth indicates that she is being truthful if she so chooses, and she cannot be compelled to tell the truth by magic.

Divine Proof. Every time Iurstina incapacitates a creature or it fails its saving throw against one of her abilities, except cross-examination, she gains an evidence against it. A creature can use up a whole turn to remove one evidence against itself or another creature by pleading for its innocence. If it succeeds on a DC 20 Charisma (Persuasion) check, it can remove one evidence against it. For every evidence against it a creature suffers from the following effects.
1 Evidence: Their Speed is halved.
2 Evidences: They gain a -2 penalty on all ability checks.
3 Evidences: They gain a -2 penalty on all attack rolls and saving throws and a -4 penalty on all ability checks.
4 Evidences: Their Speed is reduced to 0.
5 Evidences: Their damage is halved.

Divine Truth. Iurstina knows if she hears a lie and no ability, feature, magic, or trait can block this trait.

Frameup. At the start of her turn Iurstina can unnoticedly switch places with any of her illusionary copies created from any of her spells, traits and lair actions.

Guilty as Charged. When a creature has 5 evidences against it, Iurstina can take an action to immediately cast the spell imprisonment on them without any casting time. If the creature fails their saving throw, they are imprisoned in Alighieri for further use.

Innate Spellcasting. Iurstina’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 26). She can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

Teleport. Iurstina magically teleports, along with any equipment she is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space she can see.

Legendary Actions
Iurstina can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Iurstina regains spent legendary actions at the start of her turn.

At will: counterspell (4th level), detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), major image (6th level), hallucinatory terrain, mislead
3/day each: banishment, geas (7th level), mass suggestion, mirror image, modify memory (7th level), plane shift
2/day each: gate, weird

Law Angelic Weapons. Iurstina’s weapon attacks are magical. When Iurstina uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 3d8 radiant damage and 3d8 psychic damage (included in the attack).

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Iurstina fails a saving throw, she can choose to succeed instead.

Paper Trail. When teleporting Iurstina leaves behind an illusionary copy at the same spot just before she teleported.

Magic Resistance. Iurstina has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Iurstina gains a +5 bonus to her Perception skill.

Witness. When Iurstina creates any illusion from her nonspellcasting traits or lair actions, they are considered illusionary copies. An illusionary copy has Iurstina’s statistics, except it has 10 hit point and can only be destroyed by an attack that hits it. It ignores all other damage and effects. It acts on Iurstina’s initiative. It cannot use her Frameup, innate spellcasting, teleport or any of her legendary actions. It can only use Iurstina’s multattack and cross-examination as an action.

Actions

Multattack. Iurstina makes two Lady Justice attacks.

Lady Justice. Melee Weapon Attack: +13 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 19 (4d6 + 5) bludgeoning damage plus 13 (3d8) radiant damage plus 13 (3d8) psychic damage.

Cross Examination. Iurstina pressures a creature within 20 feet of her into admitting its guilt. It must succeed on a DC 26 Intelligence saving throw, taking 55 (10d10) psychic damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one. If no other allied creature is within 10 feet of the target then the damage is doubled.

Habeas Corpus (Recharge 5-6). Iurstina speaks the word of the law. Each creature of her choice within 60 feet of her must succeed on a saving throw or be restrained and under the effect of the spell silence for 1 minute on a failed save, or not be restrained and not be affected on a successful one. A creature can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of its turns, ending the effect on itself on a success.

Clear the Court (Recharge 6). Iurstina releases a powerful burst of law infused energy in a 30-foot radius around her. Each creature within that area must succeed on a DC 26 Charisma saving throw, or be affected by the spell banishment on a failed save, or not be affected by the spell on a successful one. She has to hold concentration on this effect as if she was concentrating on a spell.

Order in the Court (Recharge 6). Iurstina stomps her foot down the ground releasing a deafening wave of law energy around 100 feet of her. Each creature within that area must succeed on a DC 26 Wisdom saving throw, or be restrained and not be affected by the spell command on a failed save, or half as much damage, not pushed back and not be affected by the spell on a successful one. Iurstina can issue separate commands for each creature that failed their saving throws.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Iurstina touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8-25) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Bonus Actions

Teleport. Iurstina uses her teleport.

Procedendo (Costs 2 Actions). Every creature that Iurstina can see must succeed on a DC 26 Charisma saving throw. If they fail, then Iurstina gains one evidence against them.

Mandamus (Costs 3 Actions). Iurstina recharges and uses Clear the Court or Order in the Court.
Eridion "The Saint of Progress"

"Work with others to achieve your goals. Community and order are always stronger than the disjointed efforts of lone individuals. Tame the wilderness to make it fit for habitation, and defend the light of civilization against the encroaching darkness. Seek out new ideas, new inventions, new lands to inhabit, new wilderness to conquer. Build machines, build cities, build empires. - Eridion"

When solars die, they resurrect after 24 months and resume their duties but when a solar becomes corrupted, then it becomes a matter of how long can the corrupted solar last before its powerful siblings hunt it down. When the corrupted solar is finally slain and its essence renewed and reincarnated, a brand new solar is born.

This was the birth of Eridion. He was officially the 25th solar. Even though he was newly reincarnated, Eridion retains multiple glimpses of his past life, remembering the times where he slayed powerful fiends and also the time when he was slain by his siblings. While Eridion appears unfazed and unaffected by his old past, he secretly fears death, not just death but the way his predecessor died, being slain by family.

Eridion understands that every solar is powerful, even Rundelia who has not developed her power is still a formidable being, but he knows that even with all their power they are but a drop in the wide cosmos of power. He knows that unless Xephalam or Magnus decides to become extremely active, the solars need to work together to actually affect the multiverse in a big way.

A single solar invading an abyssal layer or a circle of hell will have a hard time reaching their lords but if it was two or even three solars, they could easily destroy the enemies' base by working together. Eridion has tried many times to explain this idea to his siblings but somehow they are not listening. Bitter and self-loathing, Eridion deemed himself both work and alcohol, despite being completely immune to any form of inebriation.

Eridion has a very bright mind, not saying that the other solars are weak-minded but Eridion is considerably bright compared to most of his siblings. His ability to comprehend magic and extremely advanced technology was phenomenal, so when he finally decided on his path, he became an artificer, so he could create soldiers that would protect him from death.

Eridion did not stop at just creating soldiers, with the knowledge Magnus had at his library, Eridion had access to all the most ancient and recent books concerning artificers and he created a powerful suit of armor that acted as a substitute for his relatively weaker power. Due to Eridion's recent reincarnation, he knew that it would take him millennia to regain his strength, so instead he wanted to find other ways to increase his power.

Eridion took his time to look for answers and found the solution to his problems in a place that beings like him usually ignore, the ingenuity of mortals. Mortals are weak, with non-magical bodies and non-magical weapons, but they somehow persisted and rule the material plane despite the stronger beings living besides them.

Eridion travelled in the mortal planes wearing his mortal guise and started to interact with other mortals. The first thing he realized is that when drinking alcoholic substances he should polymorph to a form that can get inebriated to get as drunk as possible. The second thing is that mortals managed to survive by learning to arm themselves with powerful armaments created from their ever-advancing technology.

With all the time and resources he had on his hands, Eridion started replicating the mortals and started to study the art of inventing and creating technological marvels. At first he made simple objects such as small stopwatches but with the help of his siblings, he has created dozens of powerful magical items he employs in battle along with his powerful repertoire of technological soldiers.

Eridion's new reincarnation garnered the close attention of all his siblings, especially Magnus who was happy to have a sibling studying with him. Magnus noticed that despite the best efforts of his siblings Eridion became a little bit pessimistic after his reincarnation. He tries to act in a tough, rude manner and sometimes overly egotistical, which his siblings point out.

Eridion has created many magical items and trinkets, so many even that he started selling them by bulk. Unbeknownst to most of his siblings, Eridions created a powerful, large and multiplanean organization that manufactures and handles the distribution of magical items all over the multiverse.

Eridion knows that he is not invincible and unlike his eldest sibling he can die, he already died once. While Eridion might be the only solar to have truly died, he is also the only solar who is supported through the interworking of many beings, weak and strong, that expands all throughout the multiverse.

Ironically, while Eridion has the largest mortal following all over the multiverse, other than Zadaerel, he also has the worst attitude out of all the solars. Velik can be a prick, Aziraphale can be the strictest celestial, and Magnus has once become menacing and furious that the world where his library was located trembled, but Eridion is a full blown narcissist and he acts more mortal than any of his siblings, except Rundelia, by showing off his vices. Despite this, Eridion is not evil, just like his siblings he is inherently kind and good and will do everything to protect others but unlike his siblings, he fears the dark shadow of death.

There was once a story where Eridion destroyed a rampaging demon lord in the material plane and the first thing people saw after the demon's destruction was Eridion comforting a crying child.

Eridion's youth and inexperience is what makes him so different compared to that other solars, while the original 24 solars have had eons of wisdom, Eridion had to start from scratch. His innate intelligence and power is what fuels his arrogance, hubris and sometimes clouds his judgement.

During his exploration of the material plane, Eridion discovered a very advanced civilization native to everything else near it. The city was named Zion, a beautiful young city that was both prosperous and extremely advanced for its time. Eridion noticed that the city has gotten the attention of dozens of powerful creatures and was utterly surprised by how it was still surviving without being manipulated by some powerful deity or something similar. Eridion concluded that Zion was already under the rule of a deity and decided it would be a waste of his time if he did not at least try this advanced civilization's alcohol.

Eridion noticed that when he entered Zion that it was extremely beautiful and it was more orderly than any civilization he had ever seen before. Eridion noticed that there were patrolling guards, educated children, and thriving businesses everywhere. While Eridion mostly spent his time enjoying the pleasures of the city and rooting out evil organizations such as devil cults and elemental prince cults, he also found the leader of the city, a beautiful female mortal that appeared to be extremely wise for her age.

Despite her powerful magic, Eridion could easily see through the woman and he immediately saw a powerful goddess, one that he was not familiar with. At first Eridion did not want anything to do with her but his curiosity overcame him, as this was the first time he saw a deity in the material plane without her having any difficulties. The Solars, except Iurstina, despite all their great power and ability to use magic, are horrible at being stealthy. Their ability to crash a party is so unmatched, a paralyzed man could sneek better than them. This is because Solars shine like beacons in the dark, their divine energy unless tempered with extremely powerful illusion magic is blindingly bright.

Eventually the goddess and Eridion met and his suspicions were confirmed. The goddess in mortal form was named Erathis, the Goddess of Civilization, The Uncaring, Keeper of Laws, the Silent Community and order are always stronger than Progress.

Eridion was at first hesitant but he has never been more impressed by any being he has met. Eridion's new reincarnation garnered the close attention of all his siblings. Eridion, with all of his genius and arrogance, immediately started taunting the goddess. Erathis with all her experience and wise insight was uncaring of his attitude but instead asked him if he wanted to work for her. Eridion at first was surprised but asked why Erathis told him that his technological skills are more or less equal to hers and she wanted a new perspective so she could improve.

Eridion at first was surprised but asked why Erathis told him that his technological skills are more or less equal to hers and she wanted a new perspective so she could improve.
Eridion asked what the future of Zion was and Erathis answered, 'It is to be the technological model that every mortal kingdom will be following in the future.' Impressed and satisfied, Eridion agreed to her suggestion and decided to pledge his power to her.

While the other solars will gladly serve their masters loyally, Eridion and Erathis have nothing but a long term argument. Ever since his pledging, Eridion and Erathis have been taking the multiverse by storm, their unparalleled genius and compatible style has been improving their skills by leaps and bounds. While they constantly debate over the technicalities of the technology they constantly innovate, they always manage to improve past what they create.

Ever since Eridion's pledge to Erathis, the two have seemed to appear like a family, a very dysfunctional one. While Eridion's attitude has become better over the decades and Erathis developed some form of emotions, mostly anger and frustration towards Eridion, they have both grown both in skill and personality.

Eridion and Erathis' powerful combination of knowledge and skill gave birth to many technological marvels that even the smartest of gods could only hope to imitate. In addition, due to Erathis connection with the mortals, Eridion also learned some measure of law and became a little bit closer with some of his siblings. And ever since Erathis showed Eridion the vastness of knowledge, he gained a new appreciation for it and started to spend more time in Magnus' library. Unfortunately due to Erathis' reputation of helping the mortals with her knowledge fully, Magnus has forbidden her from entering his library even with Eridion's permission.

Eridion's Field of Judgement

Due to Eridion's lack of experience, his field control is very lacking and because of this his field tends not to fully manifest his true will and due to this, he gains the uneasy ability to create temporary objects or items with the weak reality present in his field. His field's space is also naturally warped and serves as Eridion's vault of magical items, and only he can take those items. While this maybe intentional or accidental Eridion fully utilizes his field's abilities to complement himself and his powerful constructs. When in his field Eridion's constructs become a powerful force of nature capable of devastating his enemies, especially when Eridion starts to go serious.

When his field is set, a 1,000 mile radius would be filled with his divine energy for 100 years and unlike some of his siblings, the field actively focuses on the mental capacity of creatures living in the field. Similar to Magnus' field, creatures that are born inside it have a higher chance of becoming geniuses and every once in a while a prodigy would appear.

Eridion's Field of Judgement

Once in his field Eridion gains the following bonuses:

- If Eridion uses his Limited Upgrade to upgrade his drones he can choose to upgrade them up to 4 times.
- Eridion's Seraphim Bastion shield increases to 12 hit points. In the case of Eridion's Seraphim Bastion shield already being damaged, it reverts back to 12 hit points if he sets his field.
- When Eridion repairs a Seraphex Machina they regain half of their hit points back.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (losing ties), Eridion can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Eridion forces his drones to overload. For one round they have maximum upgrades, but after that they lose all upgrades and he has to start upgrading them again. Eridion cannot use this lair action again for 24 hours after it was used.

- Eridion can order a Seraphex Machina to take one action.

- Eridion harnesses the content of his magic vault of items that he created. He is considered attuned to the item he chooses and is considered to fulfill all of its prerequisites. He summons a wondrous item of very rare or lower rarity, he then uses one of its effects once if it requires an action or bonus action. If it has a continuous effect it last until the the end of Eridion's next turn. After that the items return back to his vault.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Eridion is warped by his magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Magical constructs gradually develop limited sentience.
- Settlements grow faster. The time that is needed for a village to become a town, a town to become a city, etc. is reduced.
- Invention and progress thrives and people are more productive and successful in their ventures.

Seraphiex Machina

When Eridion and Erathis were both nose deep in inventing and creating more machines, Eridion remembered his sister, Rundelia. While Rundelia is undoubtedly the weakest of the solars, even weaker than him, she was never defeated in combat and this baffled Eridion.

He only realized it when he actually studied her fighting style. Rundelia was definitely a powerful solar but her greatest strength was her ability to fight in tandem with the exceptional mortal she calls her lover. Their ability to fight together removes her weakness and instead strengthens her. Eridion was sure that he could not defeat Rundelia and Aeternum if he was alone and he was even more sure that some of the other solars would agree.

When he finally realized this, a brand new idea entered his brilliant mind and he started creating powerful constructs that will help him with fighting. During his creation, a new idea entered his mind and he said 'I don't need to fight, I can just have my creations fight for me'.

With slight madness in his eyes and righteous zeal the Saint of Progress set on creating the Seraphiex Machina, a group of powerful constructs that would prove to be extremely effective when fighting together.

Prometheus

A large golem-like construct literally built to take hits and absorb damage. All of the Seraphiex Machina have a small form of sentience. Ironic to his huge size, Prometheus is naturally gentle and has a very soft spot for children, something that developed over time. Despite its gentleness, Prometheus will use all its strength to destroy any intrinsic evil it encounters.

Nightingale

Eridion knew that while powerful constructs are very useful, he would need another one that can fully support the other constructs and keep them for continuous amounts of battle. Like the other Seraphiex Machina, Nightingale developed its own form of sentience. Nightingale is an extremely efficient healer, capable of healing all manners of creatures, even the undead. Nightingale developed a very maternal like attitude when it came to dealing with the creatures it was allowed to heal.

Templar

Prometheus would usually take the majority of the hits when it comes to battles and Nightingale would constantly heal it, while Eridion skillfully manipulates the field through his constructs but their damage potential can be very limited and because of this weakness, Eridion created Templar. Templar was a skirmisher meant to deal quick and heavy damage against Eridion's enemies while being supported by the other Seraphiex Machina. Templar maintained a stoic attitude but was still very much like his other fellow constructs.

Genesis

During one of Eridion's fiend hunting missions, he coincidentally met Velik, the greatest archer to have ever existed. This coincidently met Velik, the greatest archer to have ever existed. Divine Awareness. Eridion knows if he hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Eridion's spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 25). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

- At will: creation (9th level), detect food and water (6th level), detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), mending, mini servent (5th level)
- 3/day each: animate object (9th level), fabricate, glyph of warding (9th level, instant casting time), plane shift, polymorph, symbol (instant casting time), unseen servant (3 summoned servants)
- 1/day each: gate, mass polymorph, true polymorph

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Eridion fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Eridion has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Master of Technomancy. Eridion is skilled with all artisan tools and receives double his proficiency bonus when using them. In addition, if Eridion sees any magical object or construct he immediately knows what it is and what it can do but not how many uses it has or charges it still has. Additionally he can touch it to activate, open or disarm it or attempt to overwrite its commands with his own. Eridion must succeed on a Charisma saving throw against the construct's challenge rating. If successful he gains control over it. If the object is temporarily damaged Eridion can use his reaction to mend it 30 temporary hit points that lasts until Eridion uses this ability except for a long rest.

Seraphix Machina. Eridion has 5 minions that are considered his drones. Each drone acts after Eridion’s initiative in the following order, Prometheus, Nightingale, Templar, Genesis, and Oracle. If a drone is reduced to 0 hit points or is destroyed, Eridion can take an action and recreate the drone with 50 hit points.

Solar Sight. Eridion gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Unwavering Connection. Eridion can telepathically talk with his constructs at any range as long as they exist within the same plane.

Actions

Multiattack. Eridion makes four attacks: three with his energy cannon and one with his Command/Buff.

Energy Cannon. Ranged Spell Attack: +18 to hit, range 100/300 ft., one target. Hit: 21 (2d10 + 10) force damage.

Command/Buff. Eridion chooses two drones within 120 feet of him and gives them a separate command.

1. Move & Attack. Eridion commands a drone to move at up to half its speed and make a melee weapon attack.
2. Ability. Eridion commands a drone to use a single non recharge and non daily ability.
3. Move & Defend. Eridion commands a drone to move at up to half its speed towards him and if it reaches him, it proceeds to stand in front of him providing Eridion full cover.
4. Buff. Eridion buffs a drone giving them advantage on attack rolls that lasts until the end of their next turn. In addition, the buffed drone has a +4 to all their saving throws that last until they make a saving throw.
5. Overcharge & Attack. Eridion overcharges a drone raising its critical range up to 15-20 and commands it to make a melee weapon attack or ranged weapon attack.

Limited Upgrade. Eridion can choose one drone and temporarily upgrade them with three upgrades or choose three drones and temporarily upgrade three of them once or mix and match, Eridion’s choice. Any Upgrade Eridion gives to his drones last for only 1 hour.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Eridion touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8 + 5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Reactions

Activate: Energy Field. If a drone of Eridion is hit by an attack or is damaged by any spell or effect, he can use his reaction and generate a powerful forcefield that affects that drone and grants it 30 temporary hit points that lasts until Eridion uses this ability on another drone.

Legendary Actions

Eridion can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Eridion regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Eridion magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see. In addition, he can bring one of his drones along but then this legendary action costs 2 actions.

Order (Costs 2 Actions). Eridion uses his Command/Buff action.

Regenerating Metal (Costs 3 Actions). Eridion heals a single drone of his choosing by 30 hit points. If the drone is destroyed or has 0 hit points, Eridion can return it back to life using this legendary action according to his Seraphix Machina trait.

Seraphim Bastion. An invisible barrier protects Eridion’s body that is powered by his drones as long as at least one is in a 500 feet radius around him. The barrier has a total of 10 hit points and can only be reduced by reducing any one of his drones to 0 hit points. Reducing a drone to 0 hit points reduces the barrier’s hit points by 1. In addition, Eridion is immune to all forms of damage until the barrier is destroyed and excess damage does not carry over to Eridion’s hit points. Any damage dealt to the barrier cannot be healed by any form of magic or ability except for a long rest.

Challenge 14 (11,500 XP)

Arcane Jet Tanks. Prometheus’ ability to fly is powered by a self-sustaining power core that has 10 hit points, an AC of 30 and immunity to fire, necrotic, poison and psychic damage. If destroyed, Prometheus loses his flying speed.

Divine Metal Body. Prometheus has a damage threshold of 20.

Immortal Metal. Prometheus regains 30 hit points at the start of its turn as long as it has more than 0 hit points.

Immutable Form. Prometheus is immune to any spell or effect that would alter its form.

Limited Upgrade. If Eridion upgrades Prometheus it gains bonuses depending on the amount of times it is upgraded.
- 1st Upgrade. - Prometheus gains a shield that grants him 20 temporary hit points at the start of each of its turns.
- 2nd Upgrade. - Prometheus AC increases to 22.
- 3rd Upgrade. - Prometheus’ damage threshold increases to 30.
- 4th Upgrade. - Prometheus’ reaction ‘Absorb Energy’ now halves the damage he absorbs.
- 5th Upgrade. - Prometheus’ reaction ‘Absorb Energy’ now reduces the damage he absorbs to 0.

Magic Resistance. Prometheus has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Magic Weapons. Prometheus’ weapon attacks are magical.

Actions
Multiattack. Prometheus makes 2 attacks: one with its Giant Maul and one with its Give Them Fire.

Giant Maul. Melee Weapon Attack: +13 to hit, reach 10 ft., one target. Hit: 29 (6d6 + 8) bludgeoning damage. A creature hit must succeed on a DC 21 Constitution saving throw or be stunned until the end of Prometheus’ next turn.

Give Them Fire. Prometheus creates a line of roaring flame 60 feet long and 20 feet wide that emanates from a cannon inside its arm. Each creature in the line must succeed on a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw, taking 18 (4d8) fire damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. Any area or solid object that is flammable becomes ignited and creatures that end or start their turn in ignited areas take 9 (2d8) fire damage. In addition creatures that fail their saving throw becomes ignited, taking 9 (2d8) at the start of their turn until they succeed on the saving throw.

Reactions
Absorb Energy. If Prometheus is hit by any acid, cold, fire, lightning, or thunder damaging spell or effect it can use its reaction to absorb some of its power, strengthening its next melee attack. The first time Prometheus hits with a melee attack on its next turn or when Eridion commands him while this ability is active, the target takes an extra 4d6 damage of the triggering type, and the ability ends.

Challenge 10 (5,900 XP)

All Healing Liquid. Nightingale has a pool of healing liquid that replenishes when it takes a long rest. With that pool, it can restore a total number of 300 hit points. As an action, it can touch a creature and draw power from the pool to restore a number of hit points to that creature, up to the maximum amount remaining in its pool. Alternatively, it can expend 5 hit points from its pool of healing liquid to cure the target of one disease or neutralize one poison affecting it. It can cure multiple Diseases and neutralize multiple Poisons with a single use of All Healing Liquid, expending hit points separately for each one. In addition, this feature works on constructs and undead.

Divine Metal Body. Nightingale has a damage threshold of 20.

Immutable Form. Nightingale is immune to any spell or effect that would alter its form.

Limited Upgrade. If Eridion upgrades Nightingale it gains bonuses depending on the amount of times it is upgraded.
- 1st Upgrade. - Nightingale’s reaction ‘Saving Grace.’ can now affect two creatures.
- 2nd Upgrade. - Nightingale’s AC increases to 20.
- 3rd Upgrade. - Nightingale’s action ‘False Safety’ changes its temp hits points from 30 to 50.
- 4th Upgrade. - Nightingale’s reaction ‘Saving Grace.’ can now affect four creatures.

Magic Resistance. Nightingale has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Magic Weapons. Nightingale’ weapon attacks are magical.

Actions
False Safety. Nightingale chooses a creature of its choice and grants them strength, giving them 30 temporary hit points that last until the start of their next turn.

Quick Medication. Nightingale immediately heals a creature of its choice freeing it from any disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Light In The Dark (Recharge 5-6). Nightingale flashes a blinding light around 30 feet of it. Each creature of her choice in that area gains 20 hit points. In addition, enemies of her choice must succeed on a DC 14 Constitution saving throw or be blinded for 1 minute. Creatures that fail their saving throws can repeat the saving throw at the start of their turn ending the effect on a success.

Reactions
Saving Grace. If an allied creature within 60 feet of Nightingale takes damage she can use her divine energy to halve the damage they take.

Action Surge (2/day). At the start of Templar’s Turn, it can take one additional action on top of its regular action and a possible Bonus Action.
Brute. Templar’s melee attacks deal an extra die of damage (included in the attack).
Divine Metal Body. Templar has a damage threshold of 20.
Immutable Form. Templar is immune to any spell or effect that would alter its form.
Limited Upgrade. If Eridion upgrades Templar it gains bonuses depending on the amount of times it is upgraded.
- 1st Upgrade. - Templar’s multiaction is increased to four melee attacks instead of three.
- 2nd Upgrade. - Templar’s Divine Slash attack’s damage is increased to 48 (8d8 + 12) radiant damage.
- 3rd Upgrade. - Templar’s Divine Infusion’s damage is increased to 4d8.
- 4th Upgrade. - Templar’s God’s Will attack’s damage is increased to 77 (14d10) radiant damage.
- 5th Upgrade. - Templar’s multiaction is increased to five melee attacks instead of four.
Magic Resistance. Templar has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.
Magic Weapons. Templar’s weapon attacks are magical.

Actions

Multiattack. Templar makes three Melee Attacks.
Divine Longsword. Melee Weapon Attack: +11 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 19 (3d8 + 6) slashing damage.
Divine Slash. Templar slashes out and releases a powerful wave of energy towards one creature of its choice within 60 feet of it. That creature must succeed on a DC 18 Dexterity saving throw, taking 25 (4d8 + 6) radiant damage and be marked on a failed saving throw, or take half as much damage and not be marked on a successful one. Eridion and the other Drones gain advantage on weapon attacks against the marked creature until the end of its next turn.
Divine Infusion. Templar infuses its Divine Longsword with its divine energy. For 1 minute, Templar’s melee attacks deal an additional 2d8 radiant damage.
God’s Will (1/Day). Templar swings his blade upward and stabs it down the ground emitting a powerful burst of divine energy around 10 feet of it. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 13 Dexterity saving throw, taking 55 (10d10) radiant damage and be stunned until the start of their next turn on a failed save or half as much damage and not be stunned on a successful one.

Reactions

Parry. Templar prepares to defend itself adding +3 to his AC against an attack that would hit him.

Challenge 5 (1,800 XP)

Divine Metal Body. Oracle has a damage threshold of 20.

Immutable Form. Oracle is immune to any spell or effect that would alter its form.

Limited Upgrade. If Eridion upgrades Oracle it gains bonuses depending on the amount of times it is upgraded.

- 1st Upgrade. - Oracle's Marking Bolt can hit two creatures instead of one.
- 2nd Upgrade. - Oracle's Deduced Weakness and Predicted Future's bonus dice roll is increased to 2d12.
- 3rd Upgrade. - Oracle's Marking Bolt damage is increased to 21 (6d6) radiant damage.
- 4th Upgrade. - Oracle's Deduced Weakness and Predicted Future's bonus dice roll is increased to 3d12.
- 5th Upgrade. - Oracle's Marking Bolt damage is increased to 35 (10d6) radiant damage and can hit four creatures instead of two.

Magic Resistance. Oracle has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Magic Weapons. Oracle’s weapon attacks are magical.

Actions

Marking Bolt. Ranged Spell Attack: +8 to hit, range 120 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (4d6) radiant damage. On a hit, the target is marked and the next attack roll made against this target before the end of Oracle’s next turn has advantage.

Deduced Weakness (Recharge 4-6). Oracle curses three visible creatures of its choice for 1 minute. Each creature must succeed on a DC 16 Charisma saving throws. If a target fails, whenever they make an attack roll or saving throw before the curse ends, they must roll a d12 and subtract the number rolled. Once used, the curse ends.

Predicted Future (Recharge 4-6). Oracle blesses up to three creatures of its choice for 1 minute. Whenever a target makes an attack roll or a saving throw before the buff ends, the target can roll a d12 and add the number rolled. Once used, the buff ends.

Perfect Prediction (1/Day). Oracle touches a willing creature and bestows them a limited ability to see into the immediate future for 1 minute. For the duration, the target can't be surprised and has advantage on attack rolls, ability checks, and saving throws. Additionally, other creatures have disadvantage on attack rolls against the target for the duration.
Mentis "The Heart of the Hurricane"

"What is freedom? The power to live as one wishes." - Mentis

When the solars were created, they did not all come to life at the same time, they came one by one from a divine embryo and despite the miracles being worked during their birth, there were some complications that appeared, such as Rundelia's weakness. One of these complicated embryos was Mentis and Maia's divine embryo. The divine embryos that contained the other solars each gained a singular consciousness but in Mentis' and Maia's case their divine embryo gained two consciousnesses. These consciousnesses were none other than Mentis and Maia. This complication was not too much of a problem. They would have still transformed into a normal solar despite the complication but what made them separate from each other was the possible results of their consciousnesses mixing and with that forever erasing their individuality.

The erosion of individuality scared the two beings in the embryo but instead of surrendering to fate like Rundelia, they decide to separate with the cost of losing some of their potential power. At first, Maia was hesitant of the separation because of the consequences. There was the possibility that Mentis would die because of her and if that happened, she would never forgive herself but Mentis was already growing impatient from not doing anything. After all, if they stayed, both of them would disappear but if one of them separates at least one of them would survive. Despite his rough and passionate attitude, Mentis, with his inherent solar nature, forcefully separated himself from Maia to save her and possibly give him a chance. Fortunately, the separation was successful albeit with a loss of power on both of them. This was long ago and no one remembers the original story except the oldest of beings, so most creatures consider them twins due to the erasure of individuality.

Free and unbridled, these two word describe Mentis perfectly. As the one who willingly ripped himself off the divine embryo, Mentis has been living his life on the edge similar to a pubescent teenager that is finally starting to achieve independence but with a large serving of innate power. During his time of growth, Mentis was an extremely experimental solar. He took the initiative to try and learn many ways of gaining power but his enthusiasm lead him nowhere. He tried to learn too much but instead he learned very little. This did not stop his boundless optimism but he was not making any progress and when he saw Maia starting to unlock her powers, he sought advice among the other solars.

He did not want to receive advice from Magnus, Adithar or Tariix, as he considered them to be his rivals. Instead he went to Kaiyoqua, the solar who managed to tame the power of the seas and Ragani who controls the essence of fire. Seeing them control the elementals Mentis decided to follow that path as well. Ragani's power is the hot searing heat of fire, Kaiyoqua forces the powerful winds to crush his enemies and Mentis has decided to follow that path as well. But instead of copying them, he went to the elemental plane of air to find his way. At first he was having a hard time but with the help of Maia's newly acquired powers, he managed to subdue one of the princes of air. In exchange for its life, the prince of air taught Mentis the secrets of lightning and thunder. With his divine essence and drive to surpass his siblings, he easily learned and mastered the power given to him.

Once he mastered this magic, he felt truly free. He was finally free of living under his sibling's shadows, finally free of the oppressive chains of weakness and most of all he could roam the multiverse without having to worry about evil beings chasing him because you cannot catch the Heart of the Hurricane.

Mentis' Field of Judgement

Mentis has always strived to be free of the chains that restricted him. These restrictions are not limited to Maia, his stronger siblings and the setback he experienced from his birth. He truly wishes to be free but knows that if he truly wants to be free, he needs to find a way to destroy evil permanently making him free of his largest responsibility. When Mentis activates his field, a 1000 mile radius would be enveloped with powerful wind that can even damage structures if not properly supported for 100 years. Mentis' CR increases to 28 (120,000 XP) inside his field.

Once in his field, Mentis gains the following bonuses:

- Mentis gains all the benefits of the haste spell.
- For every feet of movement he moves in a straight line he charges his next attack. His next attack will deal an additional 1 lightning damage for every 20 feet he moved before attacking the target.
- Mentis' attacks, abilities and spells that deal lightning and thunder damage ignore resistances and treat immunities as resistance.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (losing ties), Mentis can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Mentis conjures a hurricane in a 500 feet radius around him. This hurricane can not be controlled or dispelled by anyone except Mentis. Every creature in the area must succeed on a DC 22 Strength saving throw. On a failure, a creature takes 28 (4d8+10) bludgeoning damage and is flung up 100 feet away from Mentis in a random direction and knocked prone. If a thrown target strikes an object, such as a wall or floor, the target takes 3 (1d6) bludgeoning damage for every 10 feet it was thrown. If the target is thrown at another creature, that creature must succeed on a DC 22 Dexterity saving throw or take the same damage and be knocked prone. Mentis can only use this lair action once per day.
- Mentis can use this lair action only after he summoned the hurricane. He summons a giant lightning bolt from the sky which flashes before his enemies. Each creature of his choice in a 30-foot radius within 200 feet of him must succeed on a DC 22 Dexterity saving throw, taking 27 (6d8) lightning damage and be blinded until the end of their next turn on a failed save, or half as much damage and not be blinded on a successful one.
- Mentis can use this lair action only after he summoned the hurricane. Mentis can choose up to 6 creatures. A lightning bolt strikes these creatures as if they were hit by a 5th level call lightning spell. (The lightning will deal 6d10 damage under the stormy conditions.)

Regional effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Mentis is warped by the magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Good creatures can run and move faster and generally feel more free.
- Chains, cages, prison cells and locks which imprison good creatures and deprive them of their freedom against their will break very easily. Slavers, evil rulers and other oppressors feel watched all the time.
- Ideas of revolution against oppression, tyranny and injustice flow more freely. Thoughts about freedom can be exchanged telepathically among good creatures.

Challenge 26 (90,000 XP)

The Fastest Solar. Mentis can take a bonus action on each of his turns in combat. This action can be used only to take the Dash or Dodge action. Mentis does not provoke opportunity attacks when he moves out of an enemy’s reach.

Crackling Angelic Weapons. Mentis’s weapon attacks are magical. When Mentis uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 5 (1d8) radiant and 5 (1d8) lightning damage (included in the attack).

Divine Awareness. Mentis knows if he hears a lie.

Innate Spellcasting. Mentis’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 26). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
At will: detect evil and good, dispel magic (5th level), invisibility (self only)
3/day each: call lightning (10d10 lightning damage, under a storm increased by 3d10), lightning bolt (14d8 lightning damage), mass cure wounds (8th level), plane shift, wind wall (triple the size)
1/day each: storm of vengeance

Legendary Resistance (3/day). If Mentis fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Mentis has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Solar Sight. Mentis gains a +5 bonus to his Perception skill.

Solar Surge (3/day). Only once per turn, Mentis can use Solar Surge to triple his speed until the start of his next turn and take one additional action on top of his regular action and a possible bonus action. He cannot use this action to do an attack.

Wings of Storm. A creature that touches Mentis or hits him with a melee attack while within 5 feet of him takes 10 (3d6) lightning damage.

Actions

Multiaction. Mentis makes six attacks with his Gale Daggers.

Gale Daggers. Melee Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 15 (2d4 + 10) slashing damage plus 5 (1d8) radiant damage and 5 (1d8) lightning damage.

Crackling Slipping Creatbow. Ranged Weapon Attack: +18 to hit, range 150/600 ft., one target. Hit: 19 (2d8 + 10) piercing damage plus 5 (1d8) radiant damage and 5 (1d8) lightning damage. If the target is a creature that has 100 hit points or fewer, it must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or die.

Healing Touch (4/day). Mentis touches another creature. The target magically regains 50 (10d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Lightning Rush (Recharge 5-6). Mentis turns into pure lightning and charges towards a point he can see within 400 feet of him. Every creature in a 30-foot wide line between his starting and end point has to succeed on DC 26 Dexterity saving throw, taking 40 (9d8) lightning damage plus 40 (9d8) thunder damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one.

Legendary Actions

Mentis can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Mentis regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Teleport. Mentis magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Hurricane Dash. Mentis move up to his speed directly towards a creature he can see. If it is an enemy, they have to make a DC 26 Strength saving throw taking 1 thunder and 1 lightning damage on a failed save, or take half as much damage and not be knocked prone on a successful one.

Discharge (Costs 2 Actions). Each creature within 5 feet of Mentis must make a DC 26 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, a creature takes 9 (2d8) lightning damage and becomes paralyzed until the end of Mentis’ next turn. On a success, the creature takes half that much damage and is not paralyzed. If the creature is made of or is holding or wearing anything made of metal it has disadvantage on this saving throw.

Typhoon (Costs 4 Actions, 1/day). Each creature in a 1 mile radius around Mentis must make a DC 26 Strength saving throw. On a failure, a target takes 81 (1d8) thunder damage and is flung up to 1000 feet away from Mentis in a random direction and knocked prone. If a thrown target strikes an object, such as a wall or floor, the target takes 21 (6d6) bludgeoning damage. If the target is thrown at another creature, that creature must succeed on a DC 26 Dexterity saving throw or take the same damage and be knocked prone.
Maia "The Soul of the Soil"

"Power, that's one thing, but love of family and of siblings is more important, is more powerful than any other power. - Maia" When the solars were created, they did not all come to life at the same time, they came one by one from a divine embryo and despite the miracles being worked during their birth, there were some complications that appeared, such as Rundelia's weakness. Another of these complications was the birth of Maia and Mentis from their divine embryo. The divine embryos that contained the other solars each gained a singular consciousness but in Mentis' and Maia's case their divine embryo gained two consciousnesses. Even though they could have still transformed into one whole solar this would had lead to their consciousness mixing and the loss of their individuality.

The erasure of individuality scared the two beings in the embryo but instead of turning back to fate like Rundelia they decide to separate with the cost of losing some of their potential power. At first, Maia was hesitant of the separation because of the consequences. There was the possibility that Mentis would die because of her and if that happened, she would never forgive herself but Mentis was already growing impatient from not doing anything. After all, if they stayed, both of them would disappear but if one of them separates at least one of them would survive. Just like her caring and motherly attitude, Maia, with her inherent solar nature, tried to reason with Mentis that maybe everything would fix itself after all, she did not want to have her sibling get hurt. Fortunately, the separation was successful albeit with a loss of power on both of them. This was long ago and no one remembers the original story except the oldest of beings, so most creatures consider them twins due to the extreme similarity of their divine spark.

Caring and gentle, Maia perfectly fits these two words. As the one who stayed, Maia has decided to be a caretaker of sorts and has taken the effort to look after Mentis and his very impulsive attitude. When Mentis started to dabble in trying to gain a lot of power without any focus, she constantly reminded him to focus first but he wouldn't listen. She knew that he wouldn't listen so easily so instead of trying to convince him, she wanted to show him. While Mentis was focusing on trying to gain a lot of powers, Maia traveled to the garden of Primordial flowers. It was a powerful change. The earth was tougher making agriculture problematic but the soils are so fertile it's still worth it to till the ground for 100 years. Maia's CR increases to 28 (120,000 XP) inside her field.

Once in her field, Maia gains the following bonuses:

- Maia's AC increases to 22.
- Maia's burrow speed is increased by 100 feet.
- Maia's poison now deals damage over time. As long as an enemy is poisoned they take their highest hit dice in poison damage at the start of their turn.
- The poison damage of her Venous Angelic Weapons increases to 27 (6d8) poison damage.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (losing ties), Maia can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; she can't use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Maia awakens a slab of earth to an earth elemental or a tree to a treant. She can only have one of each summoned at the same time, except when she uses Wrath of Nature, which increases the maximum to 4 of each.
- Maia snaps her whip and multiple poisonous vines shoot out from the earth. Every creature in a 60-foot radius around her must make a DC 22 Strength saving throw. On a failure they are restrained (escape DC 20) and take 13 (3d8) bludgeoning and 13 (3d8) poison damage at the start of their turn. While they are restrained in this way they also cannot attack. Dealing 30 slashing or fire damage to the vines (AC 15) destroys them and frees the creature.
- Maia controls the earth itself in a 1000 feet radius around her, shaping and moving it around to suit her needs. By shifting the earth she can freely change the landscape and shift the position of herself and every creature on the battlefield. This does not remove her ingrain bonus.

Regional Effects

The region containing the field of judgement by Maia is warped by her magic, which creates all of the following effects:

- Non-poisonous food and water is poisonous for evil creatures, meanwhile poisonous food and water is non-poisonous for good creatures.
- Flora and Fauna prosper. The soil is more fertile and crops from the harvest are bigger and better in quality and quantity.
- When people till the farmland they can hear melodies coming from the earth. The songs are nursery rhymes sung in a soothing beautiful voice. Children and farmer joining the song will feel more energetic for the day.

Ingrain. If she has not moved or been moved more than 30 feet since her last turn her AC is increased by 1, up to a maximum of +3 and her attacks and spells deal an additional damage die of poison, increasing up to a maximum of three. She loses one charge per turn if she has moved or been moved more than 30 feet since her last turn.

Eitr Poison. Maia controls the essence of Eitr, an elixir and poison obtained from her connection to the earth and life itself. It is not only a source of life but also a means to end it. Her attacks and spells that deal poison damage and/or inflict the poisoned condition ignore resistances and immunities. Creatures hit by her attacks and spells must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or be poisoned for 1 minute. They can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of their turns, ending the effect on themselves on a success.

Divine Awareness. Maia knows if she hears a lie.

Venomous Angelic Weapons. Maia's weapon attacks are magical. When Maia uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 18 (4d8) poison damage. (included in the attack).

Innate Spellcasting. Maia's spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 26). She can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

At will: detect evil and good, earthbind (all creatures in range she can see), dispel magic (5th level), invisibility (self only), move earth, plant growth, poison spray (5d12 poison damage), stoneshape

1/day each: bones of the earth (12 pillars), erupting earth (4d12 poison and bludgeoning damage), plane shift, wall of thorns (9d8 poison damage for both parts)

1/day each: earthquake (double the range, fissures, additional poison damage equal to initial damage)

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Maia fails a saving throw, she can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Maia has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Wings of Soil. A creature that touches Maia or hits her with a melee attack while within 5 feet of her takes 7 (2d6) poison damage and 7 (2d6) bludgeoning damage.

Solar Sight. Maia gains a +5 bonus to her Perception skill.

Actions

Multiattack. Maia makes two Eitr Whip attacks.

Eitr Whip. Melee Weapon Attack: +16 to hit, reach 30 ft., one target. Hit 13 (2d4 + 8) slashing damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 18 (4d8) poison damage.

Venomous Slaying Greatbow. Ranged Weapon Attack: +13 to hit, range 150/600 ft., one target. Hit: 14 (2d8 + 5) piercing damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage and 18 (4d8) poison damage. If the target is a creature that has 100 hit points or fewer, it must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or die.

Eitr Seed. Each creature of her choice in a 10-foot radius within 60 feet of her is restrained (escape DC 20) until the end of her next turn and must make a DC 26 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save they are inflicted with Eitr Toxin and gain vulnerability to poison damage for 1 minute. At the start of Maia's turn she can end this effect on all creatures and heal herself or another creature for half of the poison damage the creatures received during the duration of Eitr Toxin, rounded up. They can repeat the saving throw at the end of each of their turns, ending the effect on themselves on a success.

Healing Touch (4/Day). Maia touches another creature. The target magically regains 82 (15d8+5) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Legendary Actions

Maia can take 4 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Maia regains spent legendary actions at the start of her turn.

Teleport. Maia magically teleports, along with any equipment she is wearing or carrying, up to 150 feet to an unoccupied space she can see.

Eitr Seed. Maia uses her Eitr Seed ability.

Toxic Earth (Costs 2 Actions.) Maia lets the earth erupt in a 200 foot cone in front of her. Each creature in that area must succeed on a DC 26 Dexterity saving throw taking 17 (5d6) poison damage and 10(3d6) bludgeoning damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one.

Wrath of Nature (Costs 4 Actions, 1/day). Maia summons the wrath of nature onto the battlefield for the next 10 minutes. She conjures 3 earth elementals and 3 treants within 200 feet of her. They share her Magic Resistance and Eitr Poison ability. They also deal half of her Venomous Angelic Weapon damage as extra damage. As long as they are within 200 feet of her they are immune to effects that banish summoned creatures.
Xephalam "King of the Heavens"

"TO ERR IS MORTAL; TO FORGIVE, DIVINE - XEPHALAM"

Powerful, infinite and ancient, these three words have been used by many old beings to describe Xephalam, the purported first solar. Within a seemingly endless chain of hellish mountain ranges, there were two gargantuan mountain peaks well over a hundred thousand meters tall and a hundred feet apart from each other as it towered under the vast ocean of clouds. In the center of the two mountains, a being of heavenly emanation floats atop everything and looks below, not with disdain but indifference and pity. Climbing with ferocious effect and unforgiving, millions and millions of demons rush up to climb to the top just to reach the being above the mountains. When the first demon arrives, the being waves his hand and obliterate the fiend leaving nothing behind not even its corrupt soul. Then he looks down once more, acknowledging the legions of demons bearing upon him. He closes his eyes and conjures a white blade with black streaks within it, created out of condensed stars and black holes. Once his hand touches the blade's handle, he sighs and sweeps it, cutting the two mountains in half along with every demon that rushed towards him.

The first solar is the pinnacle of divinity and both the eldest sibling and creator of the other solars. Others ask if this is true or not but there is no sureness, as the divine solar does not deign to answer the question of anyone brave enough to ask him. There is also no sureness as to why Xephalam assumes to be the eldest sibling of the solars, despite his role in their creation.

Called to be the pinnacle of divinity, Xephalam’s appearance is not congruent with his title or the rumors surrounding him. Unlike his other siblings, Xephalam has 6 wings behind his back and each one is made out of pulsating darkness with small golden stars dotted all over them. He wears a dark purple cloak that covers his whole body but it is designed to accommodate his 6 wings.

Xephalam’s siblings are very protective when it comes to acting upon the many evils of the multiverse but this all pales in comparison to the amount of action Xephalam has done to prevent evil from overwhelming the multiverse. While personally inactive in the battle against evil, Xephalam is the hidden master and founder of many powerful organizations that actively root out evil where it may be and his most powerful army, the ascended is currently battling the denizens of the multiverse. Nobody knows why he does not enter the field but himself.

Despite his actions, he does not personally go in the field to battle the forces of evil even though he is the quite possibly the most powerful source of divine energy in the multiverse. Nobody knows why he does not enter the field but himself. Xephalam’s army of evil destroying beings are many and only a few of them achieve enough merit to be formally recognized. Within his army, there is a hierarchy formed both by strength and intelligence. Those that fight valiantly in the field and properly coordinate with their allies are rewarded with power and rank but accompanying those are heavier responsibilities. At the top of this hierarchy are 4 beings called the Ascendant Lords. The Ascendant Lords gain powerful gifts directly from Xephalam himself and there are times when an Ascendant Lord can almost be on par with a Solar.

A famous example of the ascendant lords is Phryix herself. Within his own realm, Xephalam is considered to be a peaceful and omniscient sage who is capable of handing out knowledge and information to those fortunate enough to enter it. Despite his non-interference policy, Xephalam has a habit of creating powerful items and artifacts and then simply leaving them in the material world. While this may seem careless, Xephalam’s plans run long and wide. Eventually these items will fall into the right hands which will either save a small village or the whole world.

Xephalam’s closest allies are his siblings, a few select deities and a miniscule amount of mortals. Among the solars, Magnus is the closest to Xephalam along with his little sister Rundelia. These two spent the most time with him during their juvenile years. Among the many deities in the multiverse, Bahamut is undoubtedly Xephalam’s closest ally and the only one he gives the proper respect. The mortals Xephalam remember is below ten fingers but a few notable ones is Crielle Pelanos and Madeline Moonleaf.

While never truly entering combat, there are times where the King of the Heavens has to heft his blade and slay his enemies. Xephalam’s power affords him a relatively peaceful life because there aren't many beings that can challenge him but when it does come to a fight, only supremely powerful deities, elder evils and the oldest primordials can truly challenge him.

While there are many gods who crave this level of power, Xephalam believes it to be both his curse and fate. Burdened with the responsibility as the ultimate caretaker of the multiverse, Xephalam toils endlessly so that he could allow the continued existence of the multiverse.

When in combat, Xephalam tends to underestimate his opponents due to his massively unfathomable power. Unless he deems his opponent worthy of his power, Xephalam will not use his blade and will engage combat by simply projecting beams of energy or throwing his enemies away using psychokinetically force. His natural ability to create powerful unbreakable forcefields allows him the freedom to act aloof and uninterested in combat. Xephalam naturally treats all forms of combat like a waste of time.

But it doesn’t mean that Xephalam is not serious or capable of treating his opponents seriously. Despite his attitude, he properly surveys the situation and starts to make a list of priorities. If an opponent is a top priority he will destroy them but will keep his bored attitude. If an opponent is capable of breaking his shield, Xephalam will start to treat his opponent more seriously and will summon his blade, the Primordial Divinity. This usually means the complete death and annihilation of his opponent.

Xephalam’s Field of Judgement

Xephalam will never truly use his field but at the end of this multiverse’s cycle, Xephalam will finally release his true form and end all of reality, resetting everything from the beginning. When Xephalam activates his field, all of reality is affected. No plane or dimension is exempt from this effect. There has no time where Xephalam has failed in his mission of destroying reality when at this state. He would never do this unless the multiverse is too much out of balance. The first solar was originally titled the balancer before being called the “King of Heavens” and before that, he was called the destroyer.

The role model that his siblings follow, Xephalam’s true form is unlike the other solars. When Xephalam activates his field, he transforms into his true form.

Xephalam “The Destroyer”

If Xephalam uses his field and transforms, he wins. Yes you read that right, Xephalam in his true form allows him to win. IN EVERYTHING. It’s stupid and ridiculous at this point. In fact, his current statblock is already BS. If your players can somehow defeat Xephalam, I’d be genuinely surprised. Well either way, despite my guts saying I shouldn’t, I promised a statblock. Good luck.

Lair Actions

On initiative count 20 (losing tie), Xephalam can take a lair action to cause one of the following magical effects; he can’t use the same effect two rounds in a row:

- Xephalam’s Field of Judgement: Xephalam will will the force of destruction towards an area of 50 foot radius sphere, within the same plane of existence where he currently is. Any creature, object or item in that area must be destroyed. Xephalam is not affected by any negative effects of this effect.

  - Field of Judgement: This effect manifests as the affected creatures turns to dust.
  - Xephalam’s Higher Dimensional Shield: Xephalam creates an effect similar to the lower dimensional shield but this time it is in the higher dimensional plane. Xephalam wills the force of destruction towards an area of 50 foot radius sphere, within the same plane of existence where he currently is. Any creature, object or item that is in that area must be destroyed. Xephalam is not affected by any negative effects of this effect.

- Xephalam’s Higher Dimensional Shield: Xephalam wills the force of destruction towards an area of 50 foot radius sphere, within the same plane of existence where he currently is. Any creature, object or item that is in that area must be destroyed. Xephalam is not affected by any negative effects of this effect.

Any creature, object or item that is in that area must be destroyed. Xephalam is not affected by any negative effects of this effect.
REGIONAL EFFECTS

The multiverse which contains the field of judgement by Xephalam is warped by the innate nature of reality which creates all of the following effects:

- Non magical objects and mundane landscape start to turn to dust. This effect is slow and would take a few years for everything to fully get disintegrated into nothing. Wish can halt this effect for 1 month.
- All celestials, even the ones that serve another deity feel the compulsion to go and find Xephalam to either serve him or fight against him.
- All manner of beings will feel the ripple in reality as the destroyer is slowly destroying everything. Fiends and similar beings are willing to put everything aside to try and stop Xephalam's advance.

INFINITE SOUL

When the destroyer and the creator existed in the void, their ensuing battle caused the creator to die but due to the nature of the two supreme beings, the creator was effectively immortal and undying, it only went into a coma-like state. After its death to finally create the multiverse in all its glory, the destroyer fused itself with the soul of the creator, resulting into the balance who later took the name Xephalam.

Even then, the creator still continued to exist in many forms. The creator had 4 eyes and each one was said to contain a portion of its infinite and undying soul. The creator never considered Xephalam to be evil and it believed that the other times that Xephalam destroyed the multiverse was both just and correct. Some versions of the multiverse are just too broken to be able to ever return or regain their form.

But it did believe that some of those destroyed multiverses deserved a chance and due to this, it allowed its 4 eyes to travel around the multiverse, gifting them to potential beings that would be able to convince Xephalam to give their home a second chance. Only a creature who is at the level of a supreme god, supreme primordial or an individual that owns an infinite soul has a chance of standing up against the destroyer, Xephalam.

Xephalam tends to be very strict with his standards and once he decides to destroy a multiverse, he will only agree to change his decision if and only if the 4 beings gifted with the 4 infinite souls appear to stop him and lead the multiverse to a better state. If there is a missing one, Xephalam will proceed to destroy the 3 other owners of the infinite soul and reset the multiverse from scratch. After the resulting destruction, the 4 souls will find another 4 beings to inherit their power.

Should a creature that has an infinite soul die, which is considered impossible due to their infinite potential, their soul temporary lingers so that another could take it but should the soul not find any owner, it will leave to find another being worthy of its power.

INFINITE SOUL

Wondrous item (soul), artifact (requires attunement)

You are blessed by the infinite and true creator, you are given the chance to either change the fate of destiny or die along with it. The Infinite soul will only choose a worthy creature and it does not care if the creature is evil or good, as long as it is worthy enough to handle the responsibility to change and wield fate.

When attuned to the Infinite Soul you can choose one of your ability scores and it is now 30 while all your other stats become 20. If your chosen stat is already 30, there is no effect and if your other scores are 20 or above, there is no effect. In addition, you gain the following bonuses:

- Power of Creation: Innate to this soul and to the creator is the gift and power of creation without limitations but unfortunately the quartered soul could not manifest the same power the creator could. It could not even manifest creation at a 1% portion of the creator.
- Creation from Nothing: Your soul temporarily warps reality. Unfortunately, the quartered soul is limited in its power and can only use this ability once per day. This effect is similar to the spell wish with the following effects. You can use this ability 1 time which recharges daily at dawn.
  - You can create one object of up to 100,000 gp in value that is not a magical item or create one object of up to 10,000 in value that is magical. The object can be no more than 10,000 feet in any dimension, and it appears in an unoccupied space you can see.
  - You allow up to one hundred creatures that you can see to regain all their hit points, and you end all effects on them described in the greater restoration and remove curse spell.
  - You grant up to ten creatures that you can see Residence to 1 damage type you choose.
  - You grants to one creature you can see immunity to a single spell or other magical effect forever. You can only grant one form of immunity a creature could jump from one immunity to another.
  - You can cast any 9th level spell or below without any material components.
  - You might be able to achieve something beyond the scope of the above examples but it is entirely up to the DM.
- Creation of Landscape: Your soul’s power cannot actively destroy anything due to its nature but it still has the ability to manipulate reality and thus create powerful and dangerous effects. As an action, you make terrain in an area up to 1 mile square look, sound, smell, and feel like a certain other terrain. The change is only temporary and only lasts for as long as you concentrate on it (similar to concentrating to a spell) but everything is as you will and imagine. Open fields or a road could be made to resemble a swamp, hill, crevasse, or some other difficult or impassable terrain. A pond can be made to seem like a grassy meadow, a precipice like a gentle slope, or a rock strewn gully like a wide and smooth road. Similarly, you can alter the appearance of structures, or add them where none are present. The spell doesn’t disguise, conceal, or add creatures. The change includes audible, visual, tactile, and olfactory elements, so it can turn clear ground into difficult terrain (or vice versa) or otherwise impede movement through the area. Any environmental change that would damage a creature can only deal up to 35 (10d6) damage per round to it and the maximum AC and hit points of the matter is 30 AC and 200 hit points per 100-foot cube. At the start of your turn you can change one physical property of matter in a 100-foot cube centered on a point you can see. This effect can not change magical properties of objects or terrains but can still change their physical ones. These changes to the terrain are permanent until dispelled by a 1st level dispel magic, wish or similar magic. You are immune to the effects of the changed landscape.
- Creation of Life: Your soul belongs to the creator who had the power to spawn life by simply thinking it to reality. You have the ability to do something similar to it. As an action, you can conjure any creature of your choice, calling forth as many of them as long as you can divide 1000 hit points among them, each creature having average hit points (see the Monster Manual for statistics). The creatures magically appear in unoccupied spaces within 300 feet of you and obey your commands until they are destroyed or until dawn of the next day, when they collapse into a black void and disappear. Once you use this property of the soul, you can’t use it again until the next dawn. You cannot create normal objects or create one object of up to 100,000 gp that is magical. The object can be no more than 10,000 feet in any dimension, and it appears in an unoccupied space you can see.
- You allow up to one hundred creatures that you can see to regain all their hit points, and you end all effects on them described in the greater restoration and remove curse spell.
- You grant up to ten creatures that you can see Residence to 1 damage type you choose.
- You grants to one creature you can see immunity to a single spell or other magical effect forever. You can only grant one form of immunity a creature could jump from one immunity to another.
- You can cast any 9th level spell or below without any material components.

WARNING!

This items are overpowered beyond nature and a player should never have it if you want them to be challenged by anything with a CR of 20 and below. If you do give this to your players, I have to personally warn you that the power that the Infinite Soul cannot be matched by any simple creature and even the stronger suns will be hard pressed to defeat your players. If you do give it to them without heeding my warning, welp prepare to break your campaign.

Absolute Truth. Xephalam knows if he hears a lie. Xephalam can also take an action to peer into the mind of any creature he can see and know any part of the creature's knowledge or memory, even hidden ones. A creature must make a DC 42 Charisma saving throw or lose saving throw, Xephalam learns all the knowledge of the creature he chose. On a success, nothing happens. There is no ability, feature, magic, or trait that can block this trait.

Complete Magic Immunity. Xephalam is immune to spells of 10th level or lower unless he wishes to be affected. He has advantage on saving throws against all other spells and magical effects.

Higher Dimensional Shield. An invisible barrier forms around Xephalam's body, protecting him. The barrier has 500 hit points and has the same AC as Xephalam. The barrier reforms at dawn. In addition, Xephalam is immune to all forms of damage until the barrier is destroyed and excess damage does not carry over to Xephalam's hitpoints.

Legendary Resistance (5/Day). If Xephalam fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Omnipotent Sight. If Xephalam concentrates (similar to concentrating to a spell), he can increase his truesight to encompass the whole plane of existence where he currently is. He can see and distinguish all magical objects and creatures even if they are blocked off by physical obstructions. This trait cannot be disabled by any feature, magic, or trait unless Xephalam wishes to. There is no ability, feature, magic, or trait that can block this trait.

Omnipresence. Xephalam can teleport at any plane of existence of his choice and precisely appear at the place he chooses to be in.

Perfect Spellcasting. Xephalam’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 42, +23 to hit with spell attacks). He can innately cast every spell at the 10th level, requiring no material components. Xephalam can concentrate on 3 spells at the same time but for every spell the DC for the concentration save increases by 3. If he fails a concentration roll he only loses concentration on the oldest spell he cast. In addition, he can also cast 3 spells as an action.

Reality Lock. Xephalam cannot be affected by any ability that can change or affect reality such as the spell wish. If a situation happens where reality is affected at any spot in the multiverse, Xephalam is aware of it. Xephalam is also immune to the effects of anti-magic.

Primordial Divinity. Xephalam either calls upon his blade and holds it within one hand or dismisses it. The Primordial Divinity is a greatsword that is held with one hand. It is quite possibly the most powerful weapon in existence and can only be wielded by Xephalam. Any attack or ability dealt by the Primordial Divinity ignores all forms of immunity. Anything the blade touches is disintegrated into dust, even if it is a magical object.

Legends Actions

Right of the Supreme. Xephalam is always under the effects of the spell telekinesis (Save DC 42) with the following changes:
- Xephalam can lift any thing or object with no upper limit (DM’s discretion).
- Xephalam can use an action to throw creatures or objects towards another creature or area within 300 feet of him.
- Xephalam can lift more than one creature or object but can only lift as many objects he can focus on which depends on the size.
  - Tiny - 15
  - Small - 12
  - Medium - 10
  - Large - 7
  - Huge - 5
  - Gargantuan - 3
- Objects or creatures thrown are dealt damage based on their size. Creatures hit by the thrown object take the same amount of damage which is determined by Xephalam. A creature hit can make a DC 42 Dexterity saving throw, taking the full damage and be knocked prone on a failed saving throw, or take half as much damage and not be knocked prone on a successful one.
  - Tiny - 35 (6d6) bludgeoning damage
  - Small - 45 (8d8) bludgeoning damage
  - Medium - 55 (10d10) bludgeoning damage
  - Large - 77 (14d10) bludgeoning damage
  - Huge - 110 (20d10) bludgeoning damage
  - Gargantuan - 165 (30d10) bludgeoning damage

Actions

Multiattack. Xephalam makes three divine power attacks.

Divine Power. Ranged Weapon Attack: +23 to hit, range 1,000/10,000 ft., one target. Hit: 180 (40d8) radiant damage. Xephalam can reduce the damage to a minimum of 4 (1d8) radiant damage, if he so chooses.

Primordial Divinity (Requires the summoning of the Primordial Divinity). Melee Weapon Attack: +27 to hit, reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 289 (50d10 + 14) slashing damage plus 270 (60d8) radiant damage and the target must succeed on a DC 42 Constitution saving throw or be disintegrated on a failed save.

Divine Barrage (Recharge 5-6). Xephalam creates an extremely dense ball of pure divine energy and then releases a barrage of millions of divine beams hitting an area of 100,000 feet radius. Each creature in that area must make a DC 24 Dexterity saving throw. On a failed saving throw, a takes 450 (100d8) radiant damage. On a success, a creature takes no damage. Anything hit by this attack is disintegrated, even if it is a magical object.

Touch of Divinity (Recharge 2-6). Xephalam touches another creature. The target magically regains 250 (50d8+25) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

The Destroyer's Power (Requires the summoning of the Primordial Divinity; 1/day). Xephalam holds the Primordial Divinity with both of his hands and prepares to release a devastating blow at the start of his next turn. At the start of the next turn, Xephalam swings the Primordial Divinity and releases a cone of energy in front of him with a size of his choosing, with no upper limit. Each creature in the area must make a DC 42 Dexterity saving throw, or be disintegrated on a failed saving throw, or take 3,000 radiant damage on a success. Anything the energy touches is disintegrated into dust, even if it is a magical object.

Bonus Actions

Xephalam can take 5 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Xephalam regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Omnipresence. Xephalam uses his omnipresence feature.

Perfect Spellcasting. Xephalam casts a spell.

Indifference (Costs 2 Actions). Xephalam makes one divine power attack.
Xephalam "The Destroyer"

"Why are you here? What are you looking for? A satisfying ending? A world where you get what you want? - Xephalam"

When there was nothing and the multiverse was an non-existent thought, there were first two beings. The creator and the destroyer. At this point in the multiverse, the concepts of good, bad, law or order were nonexistent. There were only two concepts.

Creation and Destruction

At the beginning, these two did what their nature entailed. The creator tried to create but the destroyer destroyed thus making an endless cycle between the two omnipotent beings. At first they were satisfied and they even made patterns where, the creator would create and the destroyer would hold off destroying it to satisfy the creator's wishes. Once the creator got bored, the destroyer who held off gratification destroys it once more, satisfying the both of them.

But the two knew that they were more than just this endless cycle. They knew they were the first beings and they both knew that their purpose is far more than just what they are now. They both wished to create something that would last. A grand creation that would satisfy the creator and a grand destruction that would satisfy the destroyer. But what the two supreme beings didn't know was to satisfy their wishes, they must offer a sacrifice to receive such a grand wish. It would include the death of the creator. Before birth, one must first experience destruction.

The concept of sacrifice was alien to these two beings because for them, omnipotence was normal. They asked themselves, would they die? Or would they exist throughout the grand event they planned for themselves. It was at this moment, their first fears manifested but due to their nature, their fear was completely alien in nature and in turn gave birth to the far realms.

Despite that, they quelled their fears and went through the plan. The destroyer manifested the first weapon in the multiverse, his own personal blade which he used to stab the creator in its metaphorical heart. The creator who was equally omnipotent would not die so easily so to make sure that it dies, it rips apart a large portion of its soul and gives it to the destroyer to make it stronger.

Now imbued with more power, the destroyer slays the creator, spilling its essence all over the multiverse. The body of the creator fell to the ground as it lay the foundation for the multiverse. Its metaphorical organs and body parts then became the many planes of the multiverse. The blood of the creator gave birth to the primordials, beings of pure raw energy, similar to the creator itself.

The destroyer who was ecstatic that their plan was a success, started to hide itself to allow the multiverse grow. But it made sure that the multiverse had some variety, so it gave the creator's essence a few mixes of his own, creating a new brand of beings called the gods. Different from the primordials, the gods are creation, creation of the destruction of the creator. While the primordials themselves are pure energy, the creator itself.

The first primordials and gods were aptly called the supreme ones, as they directly came from the two omnipotent beings. At first, it was a peaceful world but the two species started to develop their own way of thinking. Since most of the essence that make up their existence came from the creator, they all wished to create.

And they did.

The supreme primordials split their bodies into many parts, creating weaker primordials, the ones that mortals and present beings interact with. The deities who had mixed essences, had the ability to procreate thus creating the new generation of true gods, the ones that are most influential in present time. The first one was called Ahriman, the most powerful and most intelligent of all the supreme deities. The first true god was born from the essence of the creator and the destroyer.

Fortunately for the supreme primordials, their source of power was nigh infinite, only matched by the supreme deities and eclipsed by the creator and destroyer.

While the gods believed they would eventually defeat the primordials due to their ability to procreate, they feared two things. They feared an attack from the primordials and they didn't want to share the multiverse with the many gods that are being born. This selfishness and free will was born from the mix of the creator and destroyer's essence. It's not to say the primordials lacked these two attributes, but they were too consumed by the idea of creating their own worlds, so they did not act upon these borderline evil thoughts.

It was at this time, that many concepts started to appear. Good, Evil, Order, Chaos and many more, these were the many concepts that appeared from the combined thinking of the primordials and deities. These concepts took physical form and added to the already dangerous environment.

Outside the multiverse, even farther than the far realms, the destroyer was currently in a dilemma. The destroyer watched the creation of the multiverse and went away to let it grow but made many secret entrances to try and guide their creation. But as time passed, the destroyer found that within his soul and mind were minuscule changes that was growing over time.

The creator's soul that was fused into him was becoming something more than just a power boost. The destroyer and the creator's essence was mixing to form something completely new. This was where the aspect of balance came to be. Within every creation, there must be destruction and from destruction there is creation. This is the result of the two supreme beings fusing into one. In the end, the destroyer's mentality shifted into that of the balancer who understood that there is a need for both.

The multiverse will have a beginning and an end and will have a time of nothingness but it will return to start at the beginning once more. This is the will of the supreme equilibrium.

The destroyer, now the balancer, appeared once more in its multiverse, only to find a war. The first war, the war between the primordials and deities have started. At the forefront of the primordials was Ahrat-Hir, the strongest of all the supreme primordials and at the forefront of the deities was Ahriman, the first true god. While at the time, the strongest of all the supreme deities. Their war was fought with thousands of expendable deities and extremely powerful primordials.

The balancer who was considered to be omnipotent, peered into the crevices of the war and realized who were the ones who started it. The gods started the war, with a few main conspirators. These beings are very familiar to the present time. The first one was called Abrimahn, the most lawful but tyrannical of the deities. He was not a supreme deity but was far more intelligent than most of his peers.

Conspiring with his plan, was another being. A concept incarnate, it represented the 7 deadly sins.

It was at this time, that many concepts started to appear. Good, Evil, Order, Chaos and many more, these were the many concepts that appeared from the combined thinking of the primordials and deities. These concepts took physical form and added to the already dangerous environment.

The creator's soul that was fused into him was becoming something more than just a power boost. The destroyer and the creator's essence was mixing to form something completely new. This was where the aspect of balance came to be. Within every creation, there must be destruction and from destruction there is creation. This is the result of the two supreme beings fusing into one. In the end, the destroyer's mentality shifted into that of the balancer who understood that there is a need for both.

The multiverse will have a beginning and an end and will have a time of nothingness but it will return to start at the beginning once more. This is the will of the supreme equilibrium.

The destroyer, now the balancer, appeared once more in its multiverse, only to find a war. The first war, the war between the primordials and deities have started. At the forefront of the primordials was Ahrat-Hir, the strongest of all the supreme primordials and at the forefront of the deities was Ahriman, the first true god. While at the time, the strongest of all the supreme deities. Their war was fought with thousands of expendable deities and extremely powerful primordials.

These beings are very familiar to the present time. The first one was called Abrimahn, the most lawful but tyrannical of the deities. He was not a supreme deity but was far more intelligent than most of his peers.

Conspiring with his plan, was another being. A concept incarnate, it represented the 7 deadly sins.

As the war went on, the two supreme beings started to create something that would last. A grand creation that would satisfy both of them.

The first actual emotion of the balancer was anger but it was with temperament. The balancer summoned his blade once more, to finally end the war. The balancer then cleave the multiverse in equal halves, creating two parallel multiverses that exist at the same time, one for the primordials and one for the gods. This didn't mean they were forever separated, they could still go to the other multiverse but it simply meant, the two powerful species had their own space where they could create.

To ensure that some form of connection stays between the primordials and deities, the balancer created a gate that connects the two multiverses.

The balancer took hold of Ahriman's essence and split the great evil in two separate beings. One for the primordials and one for the gods. This didn't mean they were forever separated, they could still go to the other multiverse but it simply meant, the two powerful species had their own space where they could create.
Once done dealing with the masterminds of the war, the balancer then split the two multiverses once more, creating the upper realms and lower realms, separating the evil deities and primordials to the good deities and primordials. When the war ended and the evil and good deities and primordials had their own space to create, peace was finally achieved and the balancer stopped interfering. Despite that, it knew that this peace was only temporary. The evil beings that lived in the lower realms would eventually stop their creation and look past to conquer other worlds.

To counter this, the balancer then created powerful beings of supreme origin. These supreme beings are the solar spirits, the first of their kind. He created a total of 23 solar spirits, each one capable of matching the powerful deities and primordials. These 23 spirits were meant to enforce balance in the multiverse but, the balancer did not want them to be robotic creatures for these 23 were its first actual creation and not an aftereffect of the creator's death.

Infusing them with free will and an inherent nature to protect the multiverse, the solar spirits took physical form, becoming the first true celestials of the multiverse. The solars who were like children started to explore the young multiverse, learning a lot of knowledge and creating their own power.

It was at this time, the balancer took a different name, as the leader of the Solars and the eventual destroyer and creator of the multiverse, he took the name Xephalam. The multiverse continued to evolve as the first demon and devil started to corrupt the lower realms, creating both the Abyss and Hell from their influence. The deities then created the mortals, beings that could give concentrated power through belief and faith, something that Xephalam did not approve of.

The thought of creating a creature for the sole purpose of serving one's selfish needs is disgusting for him. But he did not stop the gods for he saw the mortals and found something both interesting and amazing. These weak and young beings had potential to become just like the ones he created them. Even some of the solars started to fall in love with the concept of mortals and actively helped them. Despite knowing their responsibilities in the multiverse as the ultimate balancers, they were not informed of Xephalam's true nature.

The environment of the multiverse continued to become more tense as the old deities have fallen due to plots and fights while the primordials slowly became inert as they underwent a hibernation like period. The remaining supreme deities and primordials all disappeared to hide, only to resurface when something is interesting enough for them to appear.

The new gods and new primordials no longer remember the origin of their home and only see the solars as insanely powerful and annoying beings that keep interfering in the actions of others, not realizing how important they are in the cosmic scale.

Now the multiverse is once more at the brink of another cosmic war. The blood war between the chaotic side and the lawful side of Ahriman has been heating up as the first demon and first devil continue to war with each other to slay the other one and regain their true power but with their minds intact.

The elder evils that were born in the far realm are starting to notice the multiverse. The multiverse that are aware of Xephalam and what he is are now decided it is finally time for the first reset where he will destroy the counterpart the 7 heavenly virtues have started to act with their own will. The powerful concepts, the 7 deadly sins and their counterparts the 7 heavenly virtues started to wake from their deep slumber. Celestials of great power started to move about the multiverse more and the supreme primordials and deities are starting to notice. Reality is not something he wants.

The strongest artifact in existence, excluding items from the creator and Xephalam, is called Perfection, an item created from the combined essence of the 7 deadly sins and heavenly virtues. Perfection is meant to be the pinnacle of all life. A weapon this powerful functions the same way as a weapon made by the creator. It could temporarily banish Xephalam but unlike a weapon made by the creator, it will not disintegrate and will continue to exist. The banishment's time doesn't get reduced either. Xephalam seems to get annoyed by this artifact because it is the false advertisement of something unattainable by any simple being. The only beings Xephalam considers to be perfect are the original creator and destroyer. Xephalam will destroy Perfection but until the multiverse itself is destroyed, the 7 deadly sins and 7 heavenly virtues will simply reform due to them being original concepts, giving Perfection the chance to be recreated Xephalam can destroy the concepts permanently but that will lead to a multiverse devoid of all sins and virtues making it a dead multiverse, which is not something he wants.

The environment of the multiverse changed drastically after the war. END RESULTS

These are the many ways to convince or temporarily stop Xephalam from destroying everything. But it won't be so easy. If your players manage to reach one of the possible ways to convince Xephalam, it won't just end with him reverting to his base form and leaving everything freely. The world will still crumble with him still staying in his true form. The players will be given a task by Xephalam, a task so hard and grueling it might as well be better for them to let the multiverse be destroyed. The struggle will be similar to entering the far realm and defeating Pandorion or something of the same level. Once they succeed, reward them by saying that they feel light, as if a heavy burden has been removed from them. Reality is

Challenge: Irrelevant

Absolute Power. When rolling for initiative, Xephalam rolls thrice and acts on all three initiative results. Xephalam has 3 turns in one round.

Absolute Truth. Xephalam knows if he hears a lie. Xephalam can also take an action to peer into the mind of any creature he can see and know any part of the creature's knowledge or memory, even hidden ones. A creature must make a DC 43 Charisma saving throw. On a failed saving throw, Xephalam learns all the knowledge of the creature he chose. On a success, nothing happens. There is no ability, feature, magic, or trait that can block this trait.

Complete Magic Immunity. Xephalam is immune to spells of 11th level or lower unless he wishes to be affected. He has advantage on saving throws against all other spells and magical effects.

Absolute Resistance. Xephalam succeeds on all saving throws, unless he wishes to be affected.

Omnipotent Sight. If Xephalam concentrates (similar to concentrating to a spell), he can increase his truesight to encompass the whole plane of existence where he currently is. He can see and distinguish all magical objects and creatures even if they are blocked off by physical obstructions. This trait cannot be disabled by any feature, magic, or trait unless Xephalam wishes to. There is no ability, feature, magic, or trait that can block this trait.

Omnipresence. Xephalam can teleport at any plane of existence of his choice and precisely appear at the place he chooses to be in.

Perfect Spellcasting. Xephalam's spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 43, +35 to hit with spell attacks). He can innately cast every spell at the 11th level, requiring no material components. Xephalam can concentrate on 3 spells at the same time but for every spell the DC for the concentration save increases by 3. If he fails a concentration roll he only loses concentration on the oldest spell he cast. In addition, he can also cast 3 spells as an action.

3/Day each:: All 12th level spells

Reality Lock. Xephalam cannot be affected by any ability that can change or affect reality such as the spell wish. If a situation happens where reality is affected at any spot in the multiverse, Xephalam is aware of it. Xephalam is also immune to the effects of anti-magic.

Right of the Supreme. Xephalam is always under the effects of the spell telekinesis (Save DC 43) with the following changes:

- Xephalam can lift any thing or object with no upper limit (DM's discretion).

Perfect Spellcasting. Xephalam casts a spell.

- Xephalam can use an action to throw creatures or objects towards another creature or area within 300 feet of him.
- Xephalam can lift more than one creature or object, but can only lift as many objects he can focus on which depends on the size.
  - Tiny - 90
  - Small - 72
  - Medium - 60
  - Large - 42
  - Huge - 30
  - Gargantuan - 18
- Objects or creatures thrown are dealt damage based on their size. Creatures hit by the thrown object take the same amount of damage which is determined by Xephalam. A creature hit can make a DC 43 Dexterity saving throw, taking the full damage and be knocked prone on a failed saving throw, or take half as much damage and not be knocked prone on a successful one.
  - Tiny - 35 (6d6) bludgeoning damage
  - Small - 45 (8d8) bludgeoning damage
  - Medium - 55 (10d10) bludgeoning damage
  - Large - 77 (14d10) bludgeoning damage
  - Huge - 110 (20d10) bludgeoning damage
  - Gargantuan - 165 (30d10) bludgeoning damage

The End. Any object or creature Xephalam touches is immediately disintegrated into nothing. Creatures of great power (DM's discretion) can make a DC 43 Charisma saving throw, and be disintegrated on a failed save or take 1000 force damage on a successful save. Xephalam ignores every form of condition or damage immunity.

Actions

Multiattack. Xephalam makes three divine power attacks.

End of Everything. Xephalam makes a gesture and releases an invisible force of destruction around him, with a size determined by Xephalam. Each creature within the area must succeed on a DC 43 Charisma saving throw or be disintegrated into nothing on a failed save, or take 5,000 force damage on a successful save.

Touch of Creation. Xephalam touches another creature. The target magically regains all their hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Creation (Recharge 4-6). Xephalam casts the spell creation and fabricate at the same time with both spells having no time limits nor limitations on what they can do. Xephalam can create any material and use said material to fabricate any object he so desires. He can also imbue it with enough power to turn it into a legendary item.

Imbue Power (Recharge 4-6). Xephalam imbues a creature with power of his choosing. This power can range from a simple ability score increase to a peasant becoming a greater deity. The power given by Xephalam is easily taken as well if Xephalam deems it necessary.

Primordial Destruction (Recharge 4-6). Xephalam eyes glow black similar to a black hole and stares at one creature of his choice that he deems is capable of resisting his destructive power, that he is aware of. The creature dies.

Reality Manifested (Recharge 4-6). Xephalam changes reality, similar to the spell wish, except Xephalam's power is not limited by the limits of wish nor does he suffer any of its negative effects.

Legendary Actions

Xephalam can take 5 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature's turn. Xephalam regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Omnipresence. Xephalam uses his omnipresence trait.

The End. Xephalam makes one End of Everything attack.
APPENDIX A: Optional Rules for the Solars

The Dungeon Master's Guide

"Rules are for the obedience of fools and the guidance of wise men. - Xephalam"

Within this chapter of the compendium is an amount of rules and guidelines that can be applied when using my solars. Remember that you can use my solars in any way you wish and none of them are beholden to these rules.

Apotheosized Mind

Solars are immune to any form of psychic damage and if a creature forcefully connects their mind to the solar, they must succeed on an Intelligence saving throw against the solar’s innate spellcasting DC. On a failed save, the effect is reflected back at the creature.

Avatars, Aspects and Mortal Forms

"You killed me? I don’t recall ever dying to a weakening like you. You must’ve killed one of my jury members. If that’s the case, you’re under arrest. - Jurstarina while dodging a greatsword"

Solars are beings of extreme power and while they are definitely one of the strongest beings in the multiverse, they are only singular beings. To offset this, Solars have taken the habit of creating and manifesting aspects, avatars and even taking mortal forms. Each solar form will be detailed later on the compendium.

Blaze of Glory

"Solars are sources of infinite energy and even when near death, they can still showcase awe-inspiring power. - Ciaran Goodfellow"

When a Solar reaches 0 hit points they do not immediately die and can enter Blaze of Glory. During Blaze of Glory, any negative effect affecting them is immediately removed and they can immediately take their turn even if the initiative says otherwise. During this turn, all of the solar’s attacks deal maximized damage, they double their movement speed, they’re crits quadruple their damage instead of being doubled, they become immune to condition effects and they cannot heal themselves. After Blaze of Glory; unless they’ve been healed by another source, they turn to dust and dis incorpore.

Blessing of the Solar

"Life is not always easy to live, but the opportunity to do so is a blessing beyond comprehension. In the process of living, we will face struggles, many of which will cause us to suffer and to experience pain. - Crielle Pelaios"

The natural presence of the solar is extremely powerful and this power bleeds out towards mundane creatures and mundane objects. These effects are purely up to the DM but below are a few examples that come to mind:

- If a solar stays relatively close to a mortal for a consistent amount of time, they unconsciously imbue them with power. This boost is permanent and does not stack with the blessing of other solars. In addition, if a solar notices the power they imbued to an individual, they can choose to remove that power.

- Individual gains the celestial creature type with all its 24 Years base abilities and learns all languages. If the creature cannot speak, they gain the ability to speak.

- Individual gains the abilities and stats of a Planetar but Centuries keeps their higher stats and other abilities.

Blessed Touch

Begone fiend! You have no place here. - Arrid.

The very touch of a solar is considered holier than the waters in Mount Celestia and the antithesis of all undead and fiends. A solar can choose to touch a creature, object or location and bless or curse it with its essence. This solar’s ability to bless and curse has different effects on different things the Solar blesses. Non Undead and Fied creatures gain temporary bonuses, objects gain magical powers and locations either become cursed or hallowed. Blessings that last longer tend to be weaker while blessings that are only up for a short amount of time can show large amounts of power. A solar cannot bless an individual more than once within a month or else the essence of the solar destroys the mortal’s body permanently reducing their CON by $1d6 + 2$ that cannot be regained except for a wish spell. Spells that have the same effect cannot stack with these blessings unless specified. The effects of a solar’s blessing is purely up to the DM but below are a few examples that come to mind.

Divine Magic

"Divine presence gives meaning to what seems to have no meaning. - Zadacreel"

Divine magic has long been an ability that all mortals can have but even before mortals, the solars have long mastered it. A solar that has the Divine Magic variant rule will have their challenge rating increased by 1 and gains the following traits:

Spellcasting. The solar is a 20th-level spellcaster. Its spellcasting ability is Wisdom. The solar has the following cleric spells prepared:

- Cantrip (at will): ceremony, guidance, light, mending, sacred flame, word of radiusance
- 1st level (4 slots): bless, calm emotions, cure wounds, detect poison and disease, guiding bolt, healing word, purify food and drink, sanctuary
- 2nd level (3 slots): augury, gentle repose, locate object, prayer of healing, warding bond, zone of truth
- 3rd level (3 slots): beacon of hope, bestow curse, clairvoyance, create food and water, mass healing word, remove curse, revivify, sending, speak with dead, spirit guardians, tongues, water walk
- 4th level (3 slots): banishment, control water, death ward, divination
- 5th level (3 slots): commune, contagion, dawn, dispel evil and good, flame strike, greater restoration, hallow, legend lore, mass cure wounds, planar binding, raise dead, scrying
- 6th level (2 slots): blade barrier, find the path, forbiddance, harm, heal heroes feast, planar ally, true seeing, word of recall
- 7th level (2 slots): conjure celestial (CR 10), divine word, ethereality, plane shift, regenerate, resurrection, temple of the gods
- 8th level (1 slot): control weather, earthquake, holy aura
- 9th level (1 slot): astral projection, mass heal, true resurrection

Magnus "The First Scholar"

Destroy Creature. In Magnus' case he doesn't require the spellcasting from the Variant rule: Divine Magic, instead he receives the ability to project his divine power destroying any aberration, celestial, elemental, fey, fiend, monstrosity and undead of his choice within 1,000 feet of him. All chosen creatures of CR 10 and below must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be destroyed, turning into dust. Creatures that succeed are turned and must use their turn to dash away from Magnus until they succeed on a saving throw. Magnus can use this ability as many times as he wishes.

Magnus "The Curator of Infinity"

Destroy Creature. In Magnus' case he doesn't require the spellcasting from the Variant rule: Divine Magic, instead he receives the ability to project his divine power destroying any aberration, celestial, elemental, fey, fiend, monstrosity and undead of his choice within 1,000 feet of him. All chosen creatures of CR 15 and below must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be destroyed, turning into dust. Creatures that succeed are turned and must use their turn to dash away from Magnus until they succeed on a saving throw. Magnus can use this ability as many times as he wishes.

In addition to the ability above, Magnus gains the following spells:

- 12th level (2 slots): All
  - Magnus can cast 12th level magic which allows him to cast 12th level spells or improve spells cast on 9th level with the following effects:
    - The healing of the spell is sextupled.
    - The range of the spell is sextupled.
    - The radius, length or width of the spell is sextupled.
    - The duration of the spell is sextupled.
    - The amount of targets that can be affected by the spell is sextupled.
    - The DC of the spell increases by an additional +2 (Spell DC 37).
    - If the spell creates matter then the amount or size is sextupled.
    - If the spell would summon or conjure creatures then the allowed CR is sextupled.
    - If the spell has a hit point threshold then it is sextupled (11th).
Persistent Presence

"I could still feel him... It's been a century, yet I can still feel his presence watching over me... - Ounzair talking about Taciax"

Solars emit an extremely powerful aura that stays even when they're no longer there. While this doesn't have any immediate effects, the essence scattered over the area can be used in a large number of ways. These effects are purely up to the DM but below are a few examples that come to mind.

Reality Breaking Visage

"Look away child. What I am is too much for you and your feeble mind. - Aziraphale."

The true form of a solar is said to be the very true form of divinity and the mortal mind cannot comprehend it. Any non-aberration, celestial or fiend must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw when in the presence of a solar’s true form or enter a comatose like state for 10d10 days. On a success, the creature gains +2 to their Wisdom Ability Score that can’t go past the usual limit and become immune to the solar’s Reality Breaking Visage. The DC of the saving throw is equal to the solar’s innate spellcasting DC.

Shapeshifting

"Transformation is an acquired taste—not for the faint of heart. - Clarion"

A solar’s physical form is purely based on their conscious wants. In truth a solar can take any form they wish but their abilities are still fully theirs. While this ability is not something the solars constantly use, they’ve been known to take many forms to help many creatures. A prime example was when Arrid took the form of a pure white deer and gave a young wizard help. Eventually the wizard became a powerful champion of good.

The solar magically polymorphs into a humanoid or beast that has a Challenge rating equal to or less than its own, or back into its true form. It reverts to its true form if it dies. Any Equipment it is wearing or carrying is absorbed or borne by the new form (the solar’s choice).

In a new form, the solar retains its game Statistics and ability to speak, but its AC, Movement modes, Strength, Dexterity and Special Senses are replaced by those of the new form, and it gains any Statistics and capabilities (except Class Features, legendary actions, and lair actions) that the new form has but that it lacks.
Appendix B: Player Options

Gifts of The Solar

"Talent is a gift given by powers greater than you but effort and hardwork is what you give back. - Magnus"

In contrast with the legendary solars and the immortal gods, mortals are extremely short lived. It is common even for a hero to die even before a solar hears of their exploits making them simply letters written in the sand. But every once in a while, a mortal shines so bright that even the solars cannot help but notice them.

These mortals are so bright and so attention grabbing that gods, demon lords, archdevils, creatures from the far realms and even the solars try their best to immediately champion or claim them. When a solar reaches the mortal first, they offer them a pact of power usually called a 'Gift'.

These powerful gifts are usually given to a very exceptional mortal but every once in a while a solar will choose to groom a mortal and give them a gift. A gift grows along the owner. The more accomplished and stronger the owner, the more the gift progresses.

Limitations

Once a mortal has been given by a solar with a personal gift, they cannot receive or accept other personal gifts from other solars but they can still receive universal gifts. Universal gifts can be given by any solar but personal gifts are their own creation and cannot be replicated by any other solar except Xephalam. Evil characters or characters that go against a Solar's wishes will no longer be able to use their gifts unless permitted.

Universal Gifts

These gifts can be given by any solar.

Ascended Curse

Prerequisite: Celestial Gift & Tiefling

Your cursed soul has been cleansed of its filth and while you retain your original physical form, you can choose to retain your ancestor's old mortal form (e.g. you become a human if your ancestor was a human). Due to your cleansed curse, you can choose to have resistance to either radiant or necrotic damage. You still keep your tiefling race features.

Baptizing Touch

Prerequisite: Level 4

The divine power given to you can be used to heal and mend the wounds of creatures you touch. Once per day, you can use an action to touch another creature. The target magically regains half your level in hit points, rounded down.

Blessed Constitution

Prerequisite: Level 8

You are blessed with a more powerful constitution which allows you to resist some effects more easily. You become immune to magical sleep effects, and have advantage on any effects that can cause the paralyzed or petrified condition.

Brutish Strength

Prerequisite: Strength 20

Your strength is increased as divinity slowly courses through you. When attacking with any strength based melee weapon attacks, you deal an additional damage dice.

Blood of the Solars

Prerequisite: Blessed Constitution

Your veins are mixed with the blood of the solars which protects you from harmful effects. You become immune to poison damage, diseases and the poisoned condition. In addition your body slowly regenerates, not enough to be effective in combat but once given enough time, you can regenerate any mortal wound, lost limb or sickness as long as it does not outright kill you.

Burning Glory

Prerequisite: Blood of the Solars

Your blood has become both resilient and powerful and you can use it in clutch moments to persevere. Once per day, if you receive damage, you can use your reaction to roll 4d10 + your Constitution modifier and use the result to reduce the damage you will take.

Celestial Gift

Prerequisite: 14 in the Ability Score's skill

Knowledge is something apparent to the solars and they have decided to gift you some of it. You gain proficiency in a skill of your choice. If you already have proficiency, you double your proficiency bonus in that skill.

You can receive this gift more than once.

Connective Mind

Prerequisite: 14 Intelligence

You gain resistance to psychic damage and gain the ability to use telepathy within 60 feet of you. In addition, you gain advantage on any negative effect that affects your mind or mental capabilities.

Celestial Manifestation

Prerequisite: Blood of the Solars

The power gifted to you has become more apparent and you can manifest weapons made from your divine power.

As an action, you create a weapon made out of the heavenly essence inside you. The weapon lasts indefinitely but you can dismiss it at any time. You are considered proficient with this weapon. The weapon is considered magical and deals radiant damage. When you are holding your weapon, you cannot be disarmed unless you are incapacitated and if the weapon is on the same plane of existence, you can summon it to your hand as a bonus action.

Demonic Trigger

Prerequisite: Ascended Curse

Your fiendish curse has long been conquered by the divine power imbued in your soul and you can now use that curse to destroy evil. As an action you, allow your curse to flare and release the fiendish power in your body. Each creature within 10 feet of you must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or become frightened until the start of your next turn.

After the release of your curse, your body returns to its old cursed form but small differences emerge. The divine power ironically pronounces your fiendish heritage well as the whites of your eyes turn coal black, your horns become sharp and fearsome and powerful bat wings appear behind you. Your armor does not accommodate the transformation and you must have your armor fixed for your wings to work. For 1 minute, you gain the following bonuses.

- You gain 15 temporary hit points for the duration.
- Your weapon attacks deal an additional 1d8 fire or 1d8 poison damage (Your choice) on a hit.
- You gain a flying speed of 30 feet.
- You gain darkvision within 60 feet of you. If you already have darkvision, you instead gain devil's light which allows you to see through magical darkness.
- As a bonus action, you can cast the cantrip fireball which deals 2d10 fire damage on a hit. If you can already cast firebolt you use your cantrip damage instead.
- Once during the transformation, you can cast the spell fireball. The DC is 8 + your proficiency modifier + your Charisma modifier.

Immediately after this spell ends, you must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw or suffer one level of exhaustion. You can only use this ability once per day.

Hateful Aura

Prerequisite: Opened Eyes

Thrice per day you can cast the spell detect evil and good. If you already know or have this spell prepared and you use it with a spell slot, the range is tripled.

HEAVENLY FLIGHT

A gift that is usually reserved to celestials, your back gives birth to two powerful and ephemeral wings. You can use your action to unleash the divine energy within yourself, causing your eyes to glimmer and two luminous, incorporeal wings to sprout from your back.

Your transformation lasts for 1 minute or until you end it as a bonus action. During it, you gain a flying speed of 30 feet. In addition during the transformation, you can use an action to cause your wings to shoot out of your back and attack a creature of your choice within 30 feet of you. That creature must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw, taking 6d6 radiant damage and healing you for 3d6 + your Wisdom modifier on a failed save or half as much damage and no healing on a successful one. The DC is 8 + your proficiency modifier + your Charisma modifier.

Once you use this ability, you cannot use it again until you finish a long rest.

HEAVENLY JUDGEMENT

Prerequisite: Level 15 & Pseudo Angel Form

Once per day, you can use an action to cast the spell sunburst. The DC is 8 + your proficiency modifier + your Charisma modifier.

In addition you learn a ritual variant of the spell sunburst. While casting this spell as a ritual, there are a few following changes.

- Before doing the ritual you must create a magical circle created from 200 GP worth of magical chalk. The ritual must be done within 100 feet of the circle. The circle must be at least be 60 feet in radius. Once the ritual is done, the spell is cast inside the magical circle. If the circle is destroyed while casting the ritual, the spell is ruined.
- Once you start the ritual, creatures that are able to use magic is able to sense the spell. Fiends and Celestials are aware of the ritual. The larger the spell radius, the more apparent the ritual is.
- An extremely large ritual starts to create cosmic phenomenons such as auroras and golden skies.
- The spell’s damage, casting time and material cost increases depending on the spell radius.

PSEUDO ANGEL FORM

Prerequisite: Celestial Gift, Celestial Manifestation & Soaring Divinity

Your gift has grown tremendously powerful and you can now achieve a pseudo angelic transformation. As an action, your body suddenly explodes with divine power releasing a powerful burst of divine energy around 10 feet of you. Each creature in that area must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw, taking 5d6 radiant damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. The DC is 8 + your proficiency modifier + your Charisma modifier.

After the explosion, your body starts to transform with incorporeal wings appearing behind your back, your eyes become golden and a transparent halo appears above your head. For 10 minutes, you gain the following bonuses.

- You gain 60 temporary hit points for the duration.
- You manifest a weapon from your Celestial Manifestation and it deals an additional 2d6 radiant damage on a hit.
- You gain a flying speed of 60 feet.
- You gain true sight within 30 feet of you.
- You have proficiency in Wisdom and Charisma saving throws. If you are already proficient with those saving throws, you gain proficiency in two saving throws you are not proficient in.
- As an action, you magically teleport, along with any equipment you are wearing or carrying, up to 60 feet to an unoccupied space you can see.
- As a bonus action, you can cast the spell guiding bolt 3 times during the transformation.
- You attack twice, instead of once, when you take the Attack action on your turn. You ignore this benefit if you already have a feature, like Extra Attack, that gives you additional attacks.

Immediately after this spell ends, you must succeed on a DC 20 Constitution saving throw or fall unconscious for 1d10 minutes and suffer three levels of exhaustion. You can only use this ability once per day.

SOARING DIVINITY

Prerequisite: Heavenly Flight

Your gift made you stronger and your two powerful and ephemeral wings are no longer limited by time. You can use your bonus action to unleash the divine energy within yourself, causing your eyes to glow with golden light and two luminous, incorporeal wings to sprout from your back.

Your transformation lasts until you dismiss it. While transformed, you gain a flying speed of 60 feet. In addition during the transformation, you can use an action to cause your wings to shoot out of your back and attack a creature of your choice within 60 feet of you. That creature must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw, taking 10d6 radiant damage and healing you for 5d6 + your Wisdom modifier on a failed save or half as much damage and no healing on a successful one. The DC is 8 + your proficiency modifier + your Charisma modifier.

Once you use this ability, you cannot use it again until you finish a long rest but you can still fly.
Supernal Energy

Prerequisite: Charisma 14

You are gifted with the ability to conjure beams of divine energy and attack a creature of your choice within 60 feet of you. The target must succeed on a Dexterity saving throw, taking 1d8 radiant damage on a failed save, or no damage on a successful one.

If you are transformed with the Pseudo Angel Form gift, you can use this gift to heal another creature 3 times during the transformation. Deals an additional 1d8 radiant damage against undead and fiends.

If a warlock receives this gift, this ability is considered an eldritch blast for the purpose of invocations.

The gift's damage increases by 1d8 when you reach 5th level (2d8), 8th level (3d8), 11th level (4d8), 14th level (5d8) and 17 (6d8).

Touch of Miracles

Prerequisite: Level 7, Celestial Manifestation & Celestial Gift

Your touch is blessed with the power of miracles. Once per day, you can cast the spell raise dead without any need for material components.

Unlocked Eyes

Prerequisite: Opened Eyes

You gain a truesight of 60 feet. You become immune to the blinded condition.

Unused Magic

Prerequisite: Level 11

Powerful magic is innate in every solar but some of their powers have become obsolete and have been either ignored or not been used for a long time.

Once per day, as an action, you can cast the spell blade barrier with a spell DC of 20.
Appendix C: Magical Items

The time spent by solars collecting, creating and destroying magical items is beyond mortal comprehension. While the solars are not worldly creatures, they understand the need to have an arsenal of powerful weapons hidden within their own realms. Detailed in this appendix are the many items the solars have collected over the many millennia.

Uncommon Magical Items

Blessed eye

Wondrous item, uncommon

A small transparent eye that seems to have a milky white color with a golden iris. This eye a creation of Eridion’s genius. Many of his mortal workers and employees happen to deal with eye related accidents because they deal with extremely advance technology thus a lot of them use these eyes.

To use the blessed eye, a creature must gouge out one of their eyes and replace it with the blessed eye. When equipped to the eye, you gain the following bonuses:

Darkvision. You gain darkvision up to 60 feet.

Magical Capability. You can cast the spells detect magic and mending as at will spells.
Rare Magical Items

Angel Slayer
Weapon (any non-bludgeoning weapon), rare
You gain a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon.
When you hit an angel with this weapon, the angel takes an extra 3d6 damage of the weapon’s type. For the purpose of this weapon, "angel" refers to any creature with the celestial type, including couatl and empyreans.

Moon Touched Blade
Weapon (longsword), rare (requires attunement)
A beautiful longsword with a blade that appears to have a dull purple shimmer. Its handle is made out of wood that has a very dark color giving it an appearance similar to black metal. You gain a +1 bonus to attack and damage rolls made with this magic weapon. This longsword deals an additional 2d8 radiant damage against shapechangers and undead.
As a bonus action, you can speak the command word of the blade and it starts to emit bright light in a 10-foot radius and dim light for an additional 10 feet around you. Shapechangers that enter the radius of the bright light takes 2d8 radiant damage at the start of their turn while creatures that enter the dim light takes 1d8 radiant damage instead.

True Form. Moon Touched Blades are very close to the Goddess Selune and the Solar Tystra and because of this, with enough effort, these weapons could be released to reach their true form. The nature of this release is up the DM and if successful, the blade becomes a lunar blade.
Very Rare Magical Items

Dominion Bottle

Wondrous item, very rare

Made out of infernal black metal, the dominion bottle is created by the most powerful lords of the Abyss and the greatest dukes of Hell. Used to trap the blood of a solar, the dominion bottle is used to be able to keep any liquid in the multiverse, keeping it in a stasis like state preventing dilution, spoilage or any similar mishap.

Capture Liquid Point the bottle towards any liquid and say its command word. Immediately all the liquid will quickly pour into the bottle up to a maximum of 500 feet cubit volume worth of liquid.

Expel Liquid The bottle can expel liquid similar to a decanter of endless water.

Ring of the Heavens

Ring, very rare (requires attunement)

While wearing this ring, you can speak its command word as an action to summon a particular deva from the Heavenly Realm of Xephalam. The deva appears in an unoccupied space you choose within 120 feet of you. It remains as long as you concentrate (as if concentrating on a spell), to a maximum of 1 hour or until it drops to 0 hit points. It then returns to its home plane.

While summoned, the deva is friendly to you and your companions. It obeys any commands you give it, no matter what language you use. If you fail to command it, the deva defends itself against attackers but takes no other actions. After the deva departs, it can't be summoned again for 24 hours, and the ring becomes nonmagical if the deva dies.

Solar Blood

Blood, very rare

Golden and divine in appearance, the blood of a solar is a very rare material that isn't commonly found anywhere. After all, the act of wounding a solar is an event that only happens every few centuries.

The blood of a solar is poisonous to fiends and the mere drop of one could send even the strongest devils and demons fleeing. The blood of a solar is slightly sentient, fully aware of its own power so it makes sure that it tries to dilute itself into a harmless liquid.

The blood of a solar, if not stored in a dominion bottle, will eventually dilute itself into water within 1 minute.

When stored in a dominion bottle, the blood of a solar can do the following:

- When ingested, the blood acts as a supreme healing potion.
- It can return a dead creature you pour the blood on to life, provided that it has been dead no longer than 10 days. The blood closes all mortal wounds, heals all non-magical diseases and regenerates any lost limb.
- The blood also acts as a material that prevents fiends from moving. If poured over a fiend, the fiend must make a DC 20 Charisma saving throw or be paralyzed for 1 minute.
- If the blood is mixed with holy water, it transforms into a holy bomb that as an action, can be used to splash the contents of the bottle onto a creature within 10 feet of the holder or throw it up to 20 feet, shattering it on impact. In either case, make a ranged Attack against a target creature, treating the solar blood as an Impropriated Weapon. If the target is a fiend or Undead, it takes 1d6 radiant damage.
LEGENDARY MAGICAL ITEMS

MURAMASA

Weapon (longsword), legendary (requires attunement)

Hailed as the demon blade, Muramasa was created by the legendary swordsmith whose name is where the blade was based upon.

You gain a +3 bonus to Attack and Damage Rolls made with this weapon. In addition, your attacks with this weapon score a critical hit on a roll of 17, 18, 19 or 20.

Curse. The blade is constantly thirsting for blood and must be sated when unsheathed. When unsheathed, the creature attuned to it must damage a creature every turn or else it must make a melee weapon attack towards itself. The creature attuned to the blade cannot easily part with it and will never allow it to be away from their person. Any attempt to unattune from the item forces the creature to make a DC 17 Wisdom saving throw. On a failed saving throw, the creature must make a melee weapon attack towards itself and you fail to unattune to the item. On a successful one, the creature manages to separate itself from the sword.

Clarity within the Bloody Storm. For every turn you don't attack, you must damage yourself according to Muramasa's curse. Accumulate all the damage dealt to yourself by the sword caused by the curse. On your next attack, you deal an additional damage equal to half the total accumulated damage.

Selfish Strength. Any damage dealt by Muramasa heals you for half the amount. You cannot be healed by any outside sources such as healing spells and potions but you can still heal yourself using any of your features, a long rest, a short rest or attuned items.

SOLAR BLADE

Weapon (longsword), legendary (requires attunement)

There are times when a Solar will find a Sun Blade within the dark realms they traverse and just like most of them, they will hide it within their massive hidden vaults but every once in a while a solar will encounter a good and struggling mortal in these realms. If the solar finds these mortals worthy enough, they will quickly retrieve the blade and imbue it with their powerful essence then hand it to the mortal as to provide assistance to them in the dark realm. If the mortal fails or dies, the solar returns to retrieve the blade. If the blade is in the hands of a powerful enemy, the solar simply removes the essence imbued in the blade returning it back to its original form.

Just like a Sun Blade, it appears to be a longsword hilt. While grasping the hilt, an attuned creature can use their bonus action to cause a blade of pure divinity to spring out of existence or make the blade disappear. While the blade exists, this magic longsword has the finest properties. If you are proficient with shortswords or longswords, you are proficient with the solar blade.

Only good creatures can attune to the solar blade. Any evil creature that tries to attune to the blade must succeed on a DC 17 Constitution saving throw. On a successful save, the creature takes 1d6 radiant damage. On a failed save, the creature dies and turns to dust.

An attuned creature gain a +3 bonus to Attack and Damage Rolls made with this weapon, which deals radiant damage instead of slashing damage. When you hit an Undead or a Fiend with it, that target takes an extra 2d8 radiant damage.

The sword's luminous blade emits bright light in a 30-foot radius and dim light for an additional 30 feet. The light is sunlight. Shapechangers that enter the radius of the bright light take 4d8 radiant damage at the start of their turn while creatures that enter the dim light take 2d8 radiant damage instead and they reveal their true form. You also gain true sight with a range of 15 feet.

Power of the Sun. The power of the sun allows you to make powerful attacks fueled by the sword. You have 3 charges and regain 1d4 - 1 (minimum of 1) charges daily at dawn.

- High Tide. As an action, you can spend 1 charge to teleport up to your speed and immediately attack a creature within range. Once hit, the creature must succeed on a DC 17 Dexterity saving throw, taking the weapon's damage and an additional 14 (4d6) slashing damage plus 14 (4d6) radiant damage on a failed saving throw or no damage on a success.

- Low Tide. When you are hit by an attack that forces you to make a saving throw, you can use your reaction and spend 1 charge to reroll the saving throw with an additional +3 to your saving throw. If you succeed on the saving throw, you can use the weapon's damage on another creature. If you succeed, you can use the weapon's damage and an additional 14 (4d6) slashing damage on a failed saving throw or no damage on a success.

- Crescent Moon. As an action, you can spend 1 or more charges to swing the blade in a crescent style unleash a powerful wave of destructive energy towards a 60-foot line that is 5 feet wide. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 17 Dexterity saving throw, taking 35 (10d6) radiant damage on a failed saving throw or no damage on a successful one. You increase the damage by 5d6 for every charge you use past 1 charge.

Soothing Aura. When a humanoid or beast with a CR of 5 or below enters the light, it must succeed on a DC 17 Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by you for 1 minute. It can repeat the saving throw at the start of its turn ending the effect on itself on a success. Creatures that succeed on their saving throw are immune to the effect for 24 hours.

A turned creature must spend its turns trying to move as far away from you as it can, and it can't willingly move to a space within 30 feet of you. It also can't take reactions. For its action, it can use only the Dash action or try to escape from an effect that prevents it from moving. If there's nowhere to move, the creature can use the Dodge action.

Base of Evil. Any undead or fiend, with a CR of 2 or below, that is damaged or affected by this blade's turn undead feature immediately dies and is disintegrated.

LUNAR BLADE

Weapon (longsword), legendary (requires attunement)

The Moon Touched Blade is said to be a part of the many weapons that Selune and Tyrata created with their own powers. But similar to the sun blade, the moon touched blade is a weaker form of its true state. This blade has a portion of Selune or Tyrata's true essence turning it into a powerful weapon.

It is a beautiful weapon with a dull purple metal blade that shimmers like the moon with a black handle that have engravings of the moon. Only champions of Selune or Tyrata can attune to the lunar blade. Any evil creature that tries to attune to the blade must succeed on a DC 17 Constitution saving throw. On a successful save, the creature takes 1d6 radiant damage. On a failed save, the creature dies and turns to dust.

If attuned, you gain a +3 bonus to Attack and Damage Rolls made with this magic weapon. When you hit a Shapechanger or Undead with it, that target takes an extra 4d8 radiant damage.

As a bonus action, you can say the sword's command word allowing it to emit bright light in a 30-foot radius and dim light for an additional 30 feet. The light is moonlight but it affects creatures as if it were sunlight. Shapechangers that enter the radius of the bright light take 4d8 radiant damage at the start of their turn while creatures that enter the dim light take 2d8 radiant damage instead and they reveal their true form. You also gain true sight with a range of 15 feet.

Darkside of the Moon. You can cast the spell invisibility as an at-will spell but you can only cast it on yourself.

Power of the Moon. The power of the moon allows you to make powerful attacks fueled by the sword. You have 3 charges and regain 1d4 - 1 (minimum of 1) charges daily at dawn.

- High Tide. As an action, you can spend 1 charge to teleport up to your speed and immediately attack a creature within range. Once hit, the creature must succeed on a DC 17 Constitution saving throw, taking the weapon's damage and an additional 14 (4d6) slashing damage plus 14 (4d6) radiant damage on a failed saving throw or no damage on a success.

- Low Tide. When you are hit by an attack that forces you to make a saving throw, you can use your reaction and spend 1 charge to reroll the saving throw with an additional +3 to your saving throw. If you succeed on the saving throw, you can use the weapon's damage on another creature. If you succeed, you can use the weapon's damage and an additional 14 (4d6) slashing damage on a failed saving throw or no damage on a success.

- Crescent Moon. As an action, you can spend 1 or more charges to swing the blade in a crescent style unleash a powerful wave of destructive energy towards a 60-foot line that is 5 feet wide. Each creature in that line must succeed on a DC 17 Dexterity saving throw, taking 35 (10d6) radiant damage on a failed saving throw or no damage on a successful one. You increase the damage by 5d6 for every charge you use past 1 charge.

Soothing Aura. When a humanoid or beast with a CR of 5 or below enters the light, it must succeed on a DC 17 Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by you for 1 minute. It can repeat the saving throw at the start of its turn ending the effect on itself on a success. Creatures that succeed on their saving throw are immune to the effect for 24 hours.

A turned creature must spend its turns trying to move as far away from you as it can, and it can't willingly move to a space within 30 feet of you. It also can't take reactions. For its action, it can use only the Dash action or try to escape from an effect that prevents it from moving. If there's nowhere to move, the creature can use the Dodge action.

Base of Evil. Any undead or fiend, with a CR of 2 or below, that is damaged or affected by this blade's turn undead feature immediately dies and is disintegrated.
ARTIFACTS

Corellon's Essence Spear

Weapon (spear), artifact (requires attunement by a creature with the Fey Ancestry Trait or by a Fey)

Corellon’s Essence Spear is a weapon created by the God of Elves with sole purpose of slaying the God of Orcs Gruumsh. The spear has many forms and all of them shares the following properties.

The spear is a small object that has AC 20 and hit points equal to twice your hit point maximum. You can use your Wisdom in place of Strength for attack rolls and damage rolls with this weapon and its Dexterity and Strength scores are equal to your Wisdom score unless otherwise specified. If it drops to 0 hit points, it becomes inanimate and functions like a silvered spear until you complete a short or long rest and it can’t be destroyed short of a wish spell.

As a Bonus Action on your turn you may change its form, giving it new properties:

- Form one - Essence Spear. As an Action you can move the spear up to 60 feet and make two attacks against a creature within 5 feet of the Spear. On a hit the target takes 3d8 + Wisdom Modifier slashing damage.

- Form two - Golem. The spear becomes a Large object (the newly transformed spear appears to transform into a form you choose it to have but it must be humanoid in nature), it has a Strength of 28 (+9) and Dexterity of 10 (+0). As an Action you may move it 40 feet and perform two attacks to a creature within 10 feet of the spear, either of which you can substitute for a grapple (Escape DC 20), or a shove (Pushes 15 feet instead of 5 feet); you use the spear’s Strength score for the grapple skill checks. Its attacks deal 4d4 + 9 bludgeoning damage instead of the spear’s normal damage dice while in this form.

- Form three - Stonemaker. As an Action you can move the spear 60 feet and make a single attack, on a hit the creature takes no damage but must make a DC 17 Constitution saving throw. If the saving throw fails by 7 or more, the creature is instantly Petrified. Otherwise, a creature that fails the save begins to turn to stone and is Restrained. The Restrained creature must repeat the saving throw at the end of its next turn, becoming Petrified on a failure or ending the effect on a success. The petrification lasts until the creature is freed by the Greater Restoration spell or other magic.

- Form four - Elven Sunlight. The spear becomes a Large Object (the newly transformed object becomes a unmoving statue of your choice) centered on a point you choose within 20 feet of you. As an Action you can cast the spell Sunbeam originating from the spear, you have disadvantage on concentration checks to maintain this spell and you must also make a concentration check to maintain the spell when the spear is attacked.

- Form five - Hail of Arrows. The spear becomes a mass of arrows which all share the same hit point pool. As an action you may move the mass 60 feet and attack each creature within 10 feet of it. Each creature within the area must make a DC 17 Dexterity saving throw, taking 12d4 piercing damage and be restrained on a failed save, or no damage and not be restrained on a successful one. If the mass of arrows is subjected to an area effect they take double the damage. When changing forms the whole mass coagulate into the new form.

- Form six - Armored Warrior. The spear transforms into suitable armor that joins with the user increasing their AC to 22 and their unarmored attacks now use a d12 for their damage dice, the user can use their Wisdom in place of Strength for attack rolls and damage rolls using unarmored strikes. When subjected to any form of damage, you only take half damage while the spear takes the other half.

- Form seven - Sunlight. The spear becomes a tiny object that hovers within 5 feet of the user, it gives off bright light up to 120 feet and dim light for an additional 60 feet. The user can control the range of both instances of lighting to a minimum of 5 feet each. This light is considered to be sunlight.

- Form eight - Blessing of the Elven God. As an action you can cast the spell Otiluke’s Resilient Sphere on an ally using the spear as the material component which vanishes while you concentrate on the spell. While a creature is trapped in the Sphere, you can use a bonus action to reduce the spear’s hit points and heal the creature by an equal amount. If the creature is unconscious while inside this spear you can expend an additional 10 hit points to stabilize them.

Appendix D: Avatars & Aspects

The solars are a group of far reaching and nigh omnipotent celestials but their number is limited to 24 and no matter how powerful they are, excluding Xephalam, they will not be able to help everyone. At first they created their soldiers to assist them in spreading their influence all over the multiverse but while their numbers were many, they were not as powerful as the solars themselves thus they lacked the heavy impact the solars had.

Slightly worried about the multiverse, the solars took to their eldest brother’s example. They created avatars and aspects that allowed them to spread influence while having a sizeable amount of power with them. The avatars of solars are sentient on their own and can act without their solar’s will. If a solar so wishes, they can take full control of an avatar or aspect and act according to their will.

Since the many avatars of the solars are sentient on their own, their power is directly tied to how much they act to follow the will of their solar. If a solar so wishes, they can take full control of an avatar or aspect and act according to their will.

While every solar has many avatars, Ragani’s most famous and known avatar is Ignis Fireprime. A humanoid figure with black as coal skin and eyes that shine like lava, Ignis is the most prolific and powerful of Ragani’s avatars.

Rough in attitude but firm in decisions, Ignis is a very serious individual that cares for Ragani’s plans of protecting the world from the many dangers that can possibly destroy it. Despite his power, Ignis is still weaker than the solar by a large margin and because of this, he has made allies with other powerful adventurers when an enemy is too strong for him alone. His rough attitude but endearing kindness radiates a large gap where people can fit themselves. After a while, even the toughest adventurers will learn how to share drinks with this dark-skinned celestial.

Compensating Legendary Weakness. Ignis has 3 reactions every round instead of 1.

Fire Shift. As part of his movement, Ignis can enter any source of fire that he can reach and exits out of any other source of fire within 120 feet of the fire he entered.

Innate Spellcasting. Ignis’ spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 19). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:

- At will: detect evil and good, fireball, flame strike
- 3/day each: cure wounds (5th level), fire storm, hold monster, plane shift, wall of fire

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Ignis fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Magic Resistance. Ignis has advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Magic Weapons. Ignis’ weapon attacks are magical. He ignores any resistance to fire damage and treats immunities as resistances.

Wings of Flame (1/Day). Ignis conjures two fiery coal infused wings behind him giving him a flying speed of 90 feet that lasts for 1 minute.

Actions

Multattack. Ignis makes four fist attacks. If Ignis has his wings, he can make three fist attacks and two wing slice attacks.

Fist. Melee Weapon Attack: +10 to hit, Reach 5 ft., one target. Hit 17 (2d12 + 4) bludgeoning damage.

Wing Slice (Wings of Flame must be active). Melee Weapon Attack: +10 to hit, Reach 15 ft., one target. Hit 17 (2d12 + 4) slashing damage plus 14 (4d6) fire damage. Creatures hit must succeed on a DC 18 Strength saving throw or be knocked back 15 feet away.

Teleport. Ignis magically teleports, along with any equipment he is wearing or carrying, up to 60 feet to an unoccupied space he can see.

Fiery Rise (Recharge 5-6). Ignis charges up to his speed and makes one fist attack towards a creature he reaches. If it hits, the creature must succeed on a DC 18 Strength saving throw or be knocked up 30 feet into the air.

Healing Touch (3/Day). Ignis touches another creature. The target magically regains 30 (6d8 + 3) hit points and is freed from any curse, disease, poison, blindness, or deafness.

Reactions

Meteor Slam. If Ignis sees a medium creature midair or is not on solid ground within 60 feet of him, he can use his reaction to teleport above them and attack them with a fist attack. On a hit, creature takes an additional 7 (2d6) fire damage and 5 (1d10) bludgeoning damage for every 10 feet that creature is above the ground. The creature is also knocked back onto the ground and knocked prone.

Pyre of Force. If Ignis sees a medium creature midair or is not on solid ground within 60 feet of him, he can use his reaction to teleport below them and attack them with a fist attack. On a hit, the creature takes an additional 11 (2d10) bludgeoning damage and be knocked up by 30 feet into the air.

Tough Body. Ignis adds 3 to his AC against one melee or ranged attack that would hit him. To do so, he must see the attacker.
Fotiá

An aspect of Ragani and unlike the fully sentient avatar, Fotiá is similar to a machine that travels the multiverse, commanding Ragani’s soldiers and serving his cause. Orange skin, lava-like hair and black eyes, Fotiá is the most commanding of all Ragani’s aspects. This aspect embodies the most extreme of Ragani’s nature. Fotiá is very straightforward and down to the letter but will also not hesitate in burning any heretics or enemies it can see. In truth, if not for the limited power Fotiá has, he would act very similar to his master, Ragani.

MERRICK HEAVENEYES

Within the kindness of Arrid and the natural stern attitude of the solars, Merrick Heaveneyes, Arrid’s most powerful avatar was born. Just as kind as his solar but with the addition of being born with the sole purpose of saving mortals and helping them, Merrick is the prime example of a pure celestial.

Strong and capable of wiping out all his enemies, never showing fear in the face of adversity and a kind visage that will protect others, Merrick is the greatest pride of Arrid. Despite their similarities, Merrick does not use solely a shield. Unlike his supremely powerful solar, Merrick does not carry the same impact as Arrid does and must make adjustments to his fighting style or else it risks him losing battles he could win.

When Arrid created Merrick, he had an idea in mind. He wanted to fuse the best of both worlds. The great power and reach of the solars and the infinite potential of mortals and their ability to push through their limits no matter what. Unlike the other avatars, Merrick is a mortal that needs to sleep, eat and rest. He gets tired like any other mortal but unlike any other mortal, Merrick is capable of divine feats that would shock even the most powerful of angels.

Due to this weird hybrid nature, Merrick has proven to reach Arrid’s expectations. His mortality makes him more prone to making relationships with other mortal creatures. Adventurers and even peasants, Merrick has made friends with many all the while saving those that needs saving. Merrick is also one of the few solar avatars who has actually fought a god, a feat usually reserved to the solars themselves.

Languages: All, telepathy 120 ft.
Challenge 21 (33,000 XP)

Angelic Weapons: Merrick’s weapon attacks are magical. When Merrick uses any weapon, the weapon deals an extra 4d8 radiant damage (included in the attack).

Innate Spellcasting: Merrick’s spellcasting ability is Charisma (spell save DC 22). He can innately cast the following spells, requiring no material components:
At will: detect evil and good, shield, healing word
3/Day each: counterspell, cure wounds (5th level), hold monster, lesser restoration, plane shift, resurrection
2/Day each: harm, heal

Legendary Resistance (3/Day). If Merrick fails a saving throw, he can choose to succeed instead.

Goldenheart. Merrick regenerates 20 hit points at the start of his turns.

Great Strength. Merrick counts as three times larger in terms of size when determining his carrying capacity and the weight he can push, drag, or lift. When determining Merrick’s jumping capability it is twice as usual.

Actions

Multiattack. Merrick makes two fist attacks and one shield bash.

Fist. Melee Weapon Attack: +12 to hit, Reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 16 (2d10 + 5) bludgeoning damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage.

Shield Bash. Melee Weapon Attack: +12 to hit, Reach 5 ft., one target. Hit: 10 (2d4 + 5) bludgeoning damage plus 18 (4d8) radiant damage. If the target is a Huge or smaller creature, it must succeed on a DC 20 Strength saving throw or be stunned until the end of their next turn.

Golden Burst (Recharge 5-6). Merrick slams his shield on the ground, releasing a burst of divine energy around 10 feet of him. Each creature in that area must make a DC 22 Dexterity saving throw or take 38 (11d6) radiant damage and be stunned until the start of their next turn. On a success, a creature takes no damage and isn’t stunned.

Reactions

Reactive Energy. If Merrick used Golden Burst during the round, he can absorb the energy that damage the creatures that were affected. For every creature hit by Merrick’s Golden Burst, he gains 10 temporary hit points.

Legendary Actions

Merrick can take 3 legendary actions, choosing from the options below. Only one legendary action option can be used at a time and only at the end of another creature’s turn. Merrick regains spent legendary actions at the start of his turn.

Administer First Aid. Merrick casts his spell healing word.

Move. Merrick moves up to his speed.

Golden Energy (Costs 2 Actions). Merrick uses his Golden Energy attack.

Preventive Death (Costs 2 Actions). Merrick casts his cure wounds spell, if available.

Tough Defense (Costs 3 Actions). Merrick sets his shield in front of him, giving him a +5 bonus to his Armor Class until the end of the round. In addition, when Merrick is forced to make a saving throw, his first roll will have a bonus +2 which is lost if unused after the round.
