Challenge Magazine ceased publication with issue 77.
Although Challenge Magazine ceased publication with Issue 77, the contents of Issue 78 were forecast on the Next Issue page of Issue 77.

Twilight: 2000

Choose Your Weapon
Theories of personal firearm selection. By J. Dean Anderson

Indian Pacific
Western Australia is cut off from the rest of the nation, neglected by the government and military, and at the mercy of marauders. Can reestablishing the old Indian-Pacific rail line bring relief to the Outback's struggling inhabitants? By Darryl Adams

Traveller: The New Era

The Uplift Quest
This campaign outline gives continuity-minded groups an unbroken linear narrative to bridge MegaTraveller and The New Era campaigns. By Paul Lucas

Dark Conspiracy

The Shroud
Can the PCs recover a mysterious shroud stolen from an alien corpse? By David W. Schuyer

Flashback
The PCs, now alone, stand back-to-back to face the final assault in the temple ruins. By H. Michael Lybarger & Theodore J. Kocot

Shadowrun

Tir Tairngire
The borders of Tir Tairngire guarded by technology, magic and dragons. Few who attempt to cross succeed. Most are dumped near their point of entry, with little or no memory of their experience and no desire to return. By Christopher E. Wolf

Cthulhu Now

Miskatonic University
What college could be better for would-be investigators to attend than H.P. Lovecraft's favorite school—Miskatonic University—to prepare for the adventures to come? A Cthulhu Now variant by Robert J. Christensen

Space: 1889

Call Back Yesterday
Venus is at best a mysterious, hostile, dangerous place. An adventure by J.B. Hill

2300 AD

The Esper Project
Is this wild-eyed, bloody woman an escaped mental patient suffering from paranoid delusions or a victim of illegal psychic experiments? By Paul Lucas

Star Trek

Thorns of a Silicon Rose
A series of system failures may prove this exobiology mission to be anything but routine. By Michael Todd

And More!

Plus Call of Cthulhu, Cyberpunk, Star Wars, Technical Assessment Database, Coalition Information Network, Ask Commodore Bwana, Opinion, Conventions, Reviews, Classifieds and much more!